FIRST BLACKOUT SLATED MARCH 29

KINGSMAN IN TRAINING FOR AIR FIGHTER

Former Newmarket Coach Stationed at Camp Croft, S. C.

Word has been received from Chester Kingsman, former coach at Newmarket high school, that he is getting his stride as a private in Co. D, 39th Battalion, at Camp Croft, S. C. He resigned from the school staff several weeks ago for training which eventually will qualify him as an aviation cadet.

Excerpts from a letter, just received by a Newmarket friend, follow:

"It's a long, long trail awinding. Here I am and not on any vacation, either. The training is rigorous, but we are learning plenty and those 'Sons of the Sun' are in for one helluva licking.

"Our daily schedule is 12 hours long and no time wasted. The heat is oppressive. Imagine it'll be almost unbearable in a month. And everywhere you look it's red clay. Sure would appreciate a few loads of good old New Hampshire's real dirt.

"This type of life is sure excellent for the physique—all hard work, regular hours and plenty of food. Quite a change from the school teaching days. And we're to get 13 weeks of this before being transferred to our regular arm. No furloughs, even upon completion of training, so it's a long wait before returning to the old friends and home.

"Would like to hear the news about Newmarket. Would like to receive the Newmarket News. I didn't see the issue with my picture in it." (Editor's Note: We'll see that Chet gets all the issues he has missed, as well as those of the future).

Sincerely,
CHET

Army and Mr. George Fiora, a pianist of Danish extraction, was heard. His interpretations were enjoyed by a most appreciative audience at New Hampshire Hall.

Meras Assails Voters' Apathy

In a land where democracy extends down to even the tiny roots of town government, and every community has its say about its own affairs, there is utter disregard for this precious heritage, in the opinion of Ralph E. Meras, Exeter business man and community leader.

In a letter to this newspaper, Mr. Meras not only criticized the lack of interest among the voters in Exeter's recent town election, but

Newmarket Listed; Few Communities Not Included In Original Announcement, But May Be Added As Participants Later

Most sections of Rockingham County, as well as the Portsmouth Navy Yard and nearby communities across the state line in Maine, will participate in a blackout between 9:30 and 9:45 o'clock, Sunday night, March 29, according to an announcement by Alvin F. Redden of Portsmouth, Rockingham County civilian defense chairman.

Although he said other communities might take part in the wartime test, the early announcement listed these communities, besides the Navy Yard and nearby Maine area: Newmarket, Portsmouth, Exeter, Hampton, Hampton Falls, Seabrook, Rye, North Hampton, Newfields and Stratham.

In this trial, all Newmarket services will be put to work. Mr. Herbert Philbrick, blackout officer will check to see if all outside lights are properly shut off. Mr. Lavalley, Mr. Vaillere, Mrs. Bennett, Mr. Humphreys and Mr. Waldron will see that their respective departments have trial work. All air raid wardens will check over their districts and report properly on the forms for that purpose. Mr. McCaffrey and Mr. Griffin will have charge of the procedures to be used, and are already working on the organization.

People are warned to get their blackout rooms ready for this test. Anyone not complying will be subject to arrest as an act of sabotage. Wardens will assist you in any way.

Prior to Governor Blood's talk, there was a roundtable discussion on siren tests, methods of staging blackouts and other problems pertaining to civilian defense.

Mrs. Fred Fernald of Nottingham presided and introduced Mrs. Frederick B. Preston of Manchester, women's chairman for civilian defense in New Hampshire. She spoke mainly on the conservation program and said it would have a major part in the winning of the war.

NEWMARKET BOY BECOMES SHARPSHOOTER

Mr. and Mrs. Simeon Langlois of Newmarket have received word that their son, Private Eddie R. Langlois, who is stationed with the U. S. Marines at New River, N. C., has won honors in pistol shooting and as a sharpshooter.

Since being stationed at New River, the Newmarket boy has scored 69 in pistol shooting, in which only 65 is needed to qualify, and 217 as a sharpshooter, although only 215 points are necessary to win this rating.

Private Langlois was previously stationed at Quantico, Va., and while there chalked up 47 points out of a possible 50 in slow-fire shooting at 500 yards. In this competition, 10 rounds of ammunition were fired by the marines in prone position. Langlois' chart shows the day when the shooting was held was cloudy, which makes the results all the more impressive.

A Man And His Soul

A man and his soul set out one day
In search of a world-wide fame;
The man was blessed with a kingly way
And an ancient, honored name.
His soul was free as the sands of Time,
And as guileless as souls can be;
So the man and his soul and a will sublime,
Instead of one made THREE.

There were paths to find, there were hills to climb,
For these ancient honored three;
And a tiger to tame for a will sublime,
On an ancient, honored lea.
There were axes to grind for a male entente.
A crust for an age to come,
And a wholesome claim for a wholesome want
When tiger claims were dumb.

Beside the road in a pathworn field
Stood a single halfway house,
With many a timeworn, battered shield,
Where men and maids carouse.
He stopped to play with an unknown force,
And his soul went on, alone.
Stooped to play! Like a riderless horse,
His soul went on, alone.

The man was happy to play the fool
With never a thought for his riderless soul!

The man and his soul set out one day,
For wealth as well as fame, Stalwart and strong as to inner array,
For, now, the tiger was tame.
And a will to do and a will to dare
Were spurs of the will sublime,
And the man and his soul, set free
from care,
Were as free as the sands of Time.

The man and his soul on an ancient rock
Had stood for a score of years.
This man with a soul was of ancient stock,
And knew himself in arrears.
He saw the bubble of fame dissolve,
His banner of wealth undone,
But the man with his soul and a firm resolve
Rose to his place in the sun.

To shame the tempter, to battle the din,
To tame the tiger—himself;
To feel the emptinesses of Sin,
Close in one himself and his pelf,
Has made him seek in the Will Divine
A shelter in time of need;
For a man most noble and firm and fine Needs a high protective Creed.

And the man's own nature had tiger claws,
Were he left to follow but natural laws.

The man who had stood on that ancient rock
With self and soul secure,
And has once been aware of the Tempter's knock,
With its subtle, seductive lure.
When first he found in the Law
Divine
A creed worth living within,
Where all the dwellers were firm and fine,
He shouted to friends, "Come in!"

It is not the man, and it is not the mind
That counts in the Law Divine;
It is not the soul nor the physical grind,
Nor the worth of the ninety and nine.
'Tis the man, and the mind, and the soul attire.
That counts at the wedding feast.
'Tis the glow and the gleam of celestial fire,
And not the attire of the beast.

Thus the man and his soul and the will sublime
That sought for a world renown,
And had squandered all on the sands of time
Came home with a lasting crown.
When the three as one came into its own,
And the three-in-one set free,
Then came, unsought, a world renown—
Fitted for YOU and ME.

But the sting remained from the mad carouse
He joined one day at the halfway house.

March 17, 1942

Dear Editor:
The Navy Department has notified me that I am to be relieved as Officer-in-Charge of the Boston Recruiting District on April 9, 1942,
by Lieutenant George M. Powers
Jr., U.S.N.R.

I am sincerely grateful for the splendid support which you have given the Navy Recruiting Service while I have been Officer-in-Charge, and I am confident that you will be equally co-operative with my successor.

I have enjoyed my duty here, and while I damn your climate, I am full of gratitude to your wonderful people.

Sincerely yours,
FREDERICK D. POWERS

EXETER TAX CONFERENCE

Approximately 175 officials from cities and towns in Rockingham County gathered in Exeter Town Hall last Saturday morning when members of the State Tax Commission conferred with selectmen, tax collectors and assessors from the various communities.

The communities were praised by Judge John R. Spring of Nashua, who presided over the gathering, for keeping down appropriations at the annual town meetings.

Emphasis was placed on the taxing of livestock in a talk by Secretary John G. Marston, who said there was little change in value on cows, horses, sheep and hogs. Dudley Orr spoke of the statutory tax exemptions for soldiers and sailors.

COUPLE LOSE HOME SECOND TIME BY FIRE

For the second time in a little more than a year, Mr. and Mrs.
Walter Emerson of West Epping are homeless as the result of fire.

Their home on Depot Road was gutted last week by a blaze which Mr. Emerson believed was caused when the family dog went too close to the stove, caught fire, and started running around the house, spreading the flames. He said such a strange incident had happened before, but at that time the Emersons were at home and saved the canine. The family was absent when the latest fire broke out.

The fire was actually the third at the Emerson home, an attic blaze having been subdued by firemen a few months ago.

abandon such work to give time to Red Cross, civilian defense and other war-time activities.

Their efforts were upheld in this letter from Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt: "You are right. It is very important to keep alive the interest in arts and crafts in war time as well as in peace time. You and your wife have found most interesting to do and I congratulate your success. Yours very truly,

II OWE LIVES TO EXETER'S BLOOD SQUAD

Eleven persons in Exeter and vicinity owe their lives to the Exeter Knights of Columbus blood donors' squad, it was related by Lionel Carbonneau of Exeter at this week's meeting of the Newmarket Parent-Teachers' Association.

The speaker said 35 transfusions have been given during the year and a half that the Exeter squad has been in existence, and he believes 11 of the patients would have been unable to receive blood in time to save their lives if the K. of C. group had not been prepared for such emergencies.

Mr. Carbonneau immediately became interested in the project when the national K. of C. organization issued an appeal for the formation of blood donors' squads.

He was instrumental in gaining the cooperation of the Exeter staff doctors, nurses and technicians and those of the Mitchell Memorial hospital. Since the work began, 42 men have been typed and classified first, in one of the four groups of donors, and then according to the ease in which they can be reached in an emergency.

During the Newmarket P. T. A. meeting, Mrs. Carbonneau and a chorus of 14 Knights of Columbus auxiliary singers entertained with folk songs. Mrs. Julius Lank was elected president for the coming year at the business meeting presided over by Mrs. Frank Schanda. Mrs. Lank will be assisted by: vice-president, Mrs. Dorothy DeFreker; treasurer, Miss Eleanor Evans; secretary, Miss Claire Sing; program chairman, Mrs. Mary Abbott; membership chairman, Mrs. Schanda, Mrs. Charles Dearborn.

The association voted to present Jack Dalton and his troupe of radio entertainers at the Town hall early in May. Mrs. Donald Small was named chairman to correspond

Humphreys Fires Like Japs Bomb

"Say, did you read about that new bomb developed by the Japanese which showers splintered steel over a wide area when it explodes? Well, that's the way a pistol looks when it's being discharged in the hands of Stewart Humphreys."

Obviously, the person speaking was a henchman of Sydney Langley, the Durham insurance czar, who recently challenged Humphreys to shoot it out for the Newmarket marksmanship title.

"Why, when Humphreys gets the bead on the bulls-eye and pulls the trigger", he continued, "bullets fly in all directions—straight out from the barrel, from the sides of the barrel, and in every direction."

Since all of Humphreys' practise shots have been strictly in private, the editor wouldn't be knowing, but if this report is true, we must concede that at least Humphreys will be a very DANGEROUS contender in the forthcoming contest.

Langley remained in seclusion throughout the week, but some of his followers hinted that he might make a sensational statement to the public within a short time.

Editor's Note

Dear "Another Lover of Kids:"

Your extremely frank letter was received, but too late to squeeze into an already overcrowded news schedule, but we'll accommodate you in next week's issue.

If you can stir up the old town of Newmarket as thoroughly as you promise, go right to it!

Oh, yes, we're willing to "show our colors," too.

As far as that shooting match is concerned, please do not be unduly alarmed.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Small were named to the Civilian Defense Council bazaar committee and will be assisted by Mrs. Lank and Mrs. Schanda.

NAVY YARD PLANS OWN BUS SERVICE

Private bus operators who are transporting Portsmouth Navy Yard employees from this section may be deprived of this business, as the result of plans being considered for the inauguration of a vast transit system by the government to help solve the tire rationing problem.

Following a conference with Navy Yard officials in Washington, Commander Charles F. S. Quimby, acting captain of the Navy Yard, announced that initial plans, while only in the embryo stage, called for serving all communities within a forty mile radius. Later, service would be extended to such distant points as Concord and Manchester in New Hampshire, Portland in Maine, and Lowell in Mass.

Newmarket POLISH CLUB Notes

Sylvester Jablonski was given a farewell party last Saturday with about 100 members of the club present. Music was furnished by John Homiak and Misty Kustra, accompanied on the piano by George Grochmal. Eddie Szacik, vice president of the club, acted as master of ceremonies and a gift was presented to the guest of honor.

Nick Zuk has been transferred from San Antonio, Texas to Los Angeles, Calif.

The Polish Club has purchased a large service flag, on which there will be a star for every member who goes into the service. There will also be photographs of each service man, enclosed in a large frame.

Joseph Grochmal expects a flourish sometime next month.

Private Henry Homiak has sent a card to the club, telling the members that he is to leave New Orleans, La., in the near future.

John Dziedzic, the club's "glamour boy", expects to join the Navy soon.

At the club's last meeting, the following new members were accepted: Archie Charest, Harry Fitts, Oscar Herring, Arthur Provost and Mrs. Celia Illingworth. This group increases the club's membership to 257.

John Kustra is relieving George Grochmal as steward for the next two weeks.

Walter L. Lizak, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Lizak, came out first in his platoon in qualifying as a marksman at Camp Lee, Va. He scored 155 points out of 200, but the accomplishment was not entirely a surprise to his friends back in Newmarket, as he was always a good hunter. Hardy a season went by that he didn't bag a deer.

Joe Pete has taken George Wajda's place as janitor at the club.

Following a trip to Florida, Lewis Ross of Albany, N. Y. visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Ross of Durham. Mr. Ross was accompanied by Frank Urbanek of Philadelphia. Mr. Urbanek had not visited Newmarket since 1922, when he left for Poland.

The Polish Women's Club of Newmarket held a whist party at the Polish Hall last Tuesday. Refreshments of cake, cookies and hot chocolate were served by the committee. The ladies' first prize was won by Mrs. Arthur Lambert; second, Mrs. Joseph Hood; third, Mrs. Baker. The men's first prize was won by Anthony Zych; second, Pete Mongeon; third, John Lizak. By making 14 no trumps, Miss Marion Hood won the floating prize. There also were two door prizes, won by Mrs. John Lizak and Mr. Mongeon.

STRONG UNION URGED IN WAR ON DICTATORS

Only a federal union, "the forgotten American peace policy" will assure the United States that Hitler will not rule the future, it was stated by Clarence Streit, former foreign newspaper correspondent and author of "Union Now" in a talk in the Phillip Exeter chapel in Exeter Sunday.

"Only seven English speaking nations remain free. Instead of the United States organizing the free nations of Europe we let Hitler organize them against us.

The free nations remaining, he said, must to survive, band together in a federal union on the same principles embodied in the United States Constitution.

Comparing the world situation today with the state of the 13 colonies under the articles of Confederation, Mr. Streit explained, "Each colony had to have its own army and navy. Like the League of Nations after the World War, there were tariff disputes. They were boycotting not the Japanese, but the Rhode Islanders and the Virginians.

But America didn't quit. They formed the United States of America in Independence Hall and they ica, a new answer to the old problem of getting people together.

Couple Honored On Anniversary

A family gathering recently marked the silver anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey C. Rand of Forest street, Exeter, at the home of a son, Harvey C. Rand Jr., of Water street, Exeter. Mrs. Rand was presented with a unique necklace made of coins.

Mr. Rand had been a resident of Exeter for more than 50 years and served in the fire department 32 years. He is also prominent in fraternal circles.

Will Asks Home For Aged Horses

The will of Fred S. Cullen, former summer resident of Nottingham, which has been probated in San Diego, Cal., provides that his house, barn, and shed, with three acres of land, in that town, be transformed into a home for aged horses by the Animal Rescue League of Boston.

Cullen purchased the property, located on the Deerfield road near Nottingham Center, about 10 years ago while a resident of Mass., and an employee of the United Shoe Co.

Since the property has limited acreage, some doubt has been expressed as to whether it would be suitable for the purpose bequeathed. Some skeptics believe The Animal Rescue League may sell the property and use the funds to the same end.

A. S. FRENCH, RETIRED STORE OWNER, BURIED

The funeral of Arthur S. French, retired Exeter clothing dealer who died at the Delano Home in Newmarket at the age of 87 years, was held last Sunday from the Junkins Funeral Parlor in Exeter, with the Rev. Paul T. Martin officiating.

Frank B. Nay, Earle R. Stockbridge, George R. Scammon and William H. Seward, all members of Star in the East Lodge, F. and A. M., with which Mr. French had been affiliated for 64 years, served as bearers. Masonic services were conducted at the grave.

A native of North Hampton, Mr. French came to Exeter with his family as a child and started his clothing business on Water street as a young man. He operated the store, which was well known not only in Exeter, but surrounding towns, for nearly a half-century.

Mr. French was the oldest member of Star in the East Lodge and was greatly interested in botany. While operating his store, specimens of native wild flowers often adorned the display windows.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Pearl Sanborn; and two grandsons, John and Chandler Sanborn, all of Exeter; two sisters, Mrs. Howard T. Swain of Boston, and Mrs. Thomas H. Dearborn of Greenwich, Conn.; besides several nephews and nieces. One of his nephews is Thomas Dearborn of the Union-Leader editorial staff in Manchester.

McCAFFREY TO AID SURVEY OF SCHOOLS

Austin J. McCaffrey, headmaster of Newmarket high school, is one of a group of six educators who will conduct a co-operative survey of grades 7 to 12 in the Raymond schools this spring.

The survey will replace the annual inspections heretofore made at a few representative schools. Raymond High, headmaster of Raymond High school, has been informed that more of these surveys are planned each succeeding year.

Besides Mr. McCaffrey, those who will make the Raymond survey include: Russell Leavitt of the state Department of Education; Supt. of Schools Everton H. With a total of 22 points, Richards also starred as the Indians trounced the Flashies, 50-29, to capture the Exeter High intra-murals in the Exeter High gym Monday night. Peter Gaucher also tallied 14 points for the losers.

also refers to nonchalant Newmarket, where 33 voters out of an eligible 1,200 took the trouble to go to the polls. The only difference of consequence was that the handful of Newmarket voters transacted some important business, including increases in certain town officials' salaries, while in Exeter, where the checklist had a greater representation, a similar proposal was defeated.

Mr. Meras' letter, addressed to the editor, follows in full:

"Your report of the Exeter town meeting was in error in stating that I was the only one who voted YES on the resolution asking the selectmen to restore the front entrance to the men's room.

"At least one other person, and he was a well-known citizen and property owner, voted YES. There were more NO than YES votes without doubt, and the NO's were louder.

"There were only a few of them, however. This is not important; but the fact that the great majority of voters do not think it important to attend town meeting, and of those who do attend only a very few even have interest or courage to say even 'Yes' or 'No' is very important, and a very sad and serious situation.

"The report of the Newmarket meeting said there were only 33 who voted—that only two or three leaders had anything to say. This is typical of many town meetings.

"And as remarked in the Newmarket report, many who attend and let things slip through without a word of protest will cry out bitterly after the meeting is over against such high-handed costly action.

"I have been blamed and abused for opposing prominent citizens who were sincere, but as I thought, wrong, as well as the mere politicians for nearly forty years. I have secured many acknowledged improvements for the town, several valuable changes in procedure and blocked many attempts to raid the treasury for the benefit of some individual or special faction. I do not hesitate to say that these in many cases, have been of great benefit to the business interests of the town.

"This matter of closing the front entrance to the men's room, though it may not seem important to some persons, I feel sure is of considerable importance—especially to the retail merchants. Sanitary, central, easily accessible rest-rooms are a great convenience to both the local and visiting public.

"It seems to me it is entirely senseless to make them much less convenient to thousands to save care and add to the exclusiveness and ease of a few of our paid officials. I was the only speaker for the adoption of the resolution. On the other hand, there were only two who spoke against it and both were of the Town Hall clique.

"The only two who spoke for increasing the selectmen's salary were two of their employes.

"Our officials strive to have as little interference with their leisure and comfortable exclusiveness as possible. They do not want to be bothered by the general public. Their cronies however may congregate in the four rooms now devoted to the police department in place of the one small inferior room of years gone by and clog or make disagreeable other rooms and passways.

"These added facilities came very largely by my initiative and efforts, and I know every business interest of the town has been benefited by them. Yet our interests are trampled on and flouted by officials who should instead show appreciation for their present fine quarters, and try to be hospitable and accommodating to the public.

"Not only this; but the merchants on the street take this slap in the face without a word of protest. I know many of them and other citizens who think and say the former proper arrangement should be restored, yet not one retail merchant as far as I know was even present to back me in my efforts in their behalf.

"If we will not appreciate the great blessing of democracy and make use of it to secure our rights and preserve our privileges, we surely in the course of time will lose them. Selfish interests are alert and ever active. Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty.

Chanute Field Is Given Praise

The efficiency in aviation training at Chanute Field in Rantoul, Ill. was highly praised recently in a syndicated article written by a former Manchester newspaperman.

FILION BEGINS AS CHAIRMAN OF SELECTMEN

Theodore Filion assumed his new duties as chairman of the Newmarket Board of Selectmen at the meeting Tuesday night.

Mr. Filion was born in Newmarket in 1905, a member of a well known business family in the town, and served in the United States Navy from 1922 to 1926. He saw service aboard cruisers, destroyers and submarines, as well as engaging in hydrographic duty through the West Indies.

He completed submarine and torpedo diving courses in New London, Conn., and Newport, R. I., and achieved the rating of submarine torpedo man.

It is believed that he was probably the only Newmarket man at the time who had completed such submarine training. He served on O.R and S types of submarines, and once was a member of the crew of the OS-9, which sank with a large loss of lives off Portsmouth some months ago.

During his submarine duty, Mr. Filion was stationed at places occupying the world's headlines today, such as Manila and Pearl Harbor. He was on duty at Pearl Harbor in 1924.

Mr. Filion was elected to the Newmarket Board of Selectmen in 1940, after previously serving three terms as town treasurer. During the past year he was clerk of the board and now automatically has assumed the chairmanship.
