ARMY TESTS DISAPPOINT MANY

War Hero's Sons Flee From Exeter Academy To Fight With Loyal French Forces

"This is a wonderful Easter Day!"

The holiday enthusiasm of an American wife of a French hero of the First World War, Mrs. Mary LaCloche, in New York City, was due to relief from two months' anxiety over her two sons, Jean, 17, and Francois, 15, who had fled from their studies at Phillips Exeter Academy, and as it was discovered, were serving with the Free French forces.

The two lads, whose mother appealed to New York police to locate them, flew to Halifax, N. S., to offer their services, and maybe their lives, for a cause which typifies the loyal French.

After the Free French had occupied St. Pierre and Miquelin Islands, Mrs. LaCloche received this message from her boys: "We are determined to fight for Free France."

Her first inkling of the youths' whereabouts came in a cablegram from Anthony Roper, owner of the Lady Cross School in London, where they were students before coming to the United States in 1939.

"Boys with us", the cablegram said, "Happy. Well cared for in Free French. Delighted to see them again."

Mrs. La Cloche said in an interview:

"This certainly has been a wonderful Easter Day. It is better to know where they are than to have them vanish in thin air."

No intimation of their enlistment plans had been given to classmates before leaving the academy, it was revealed in Exeter. The family home is at 7 Breckman place, New York.

The father of the boys was a French army officer, who was cited for heroism in the first World war. He had served in a high ranking post in the present war, Mrs. La Cloche said, until his country capitulated, and he is still in Occupied France.

P.-T.A. Meeting Set For Monday

The Newmarket Parent-Teachers Association will meet next Monday, having advanced the gathering one week because of the spring vacation. A feature of the meeting will be a speaking contest for cash prizes, in which three classes trained by Elmore Putnam will compete.

Winners on the program, which will include humorous, dramatic and declamation readings, will participate in the fourth-coming contest at the University of New Hampshire.

The U. S. State Department had declined to intervene in the case, Mrs. LaCloche stated. Admiral Muselier, former commander of the Free French naval forces, had also rejected her pleas that her sons be compelled to return home.

APPEAL FOR SALVATION ARMY FUND

"Wherever skies are darkened by human need The Salvation Army will be there", declared James A. Purington, who has accepted the chairmanship of the organization's annual appeal in Exeter. "In the fall of Singapore, The Salvation Army lost contact with the brave officers who are engaged in the operating of six day schools, six social institutions and six evangelical posts in that area". Fear was also expressed for the officers stationed in Burma and the Indies, although it is known that all European officers were evacuated from Korea by the Japanese Government before hostilities commenced.

"On the home front," Chairman Purington continued, "the demands for personnel of The Salvation Army for work in the U.S.O. have made an added burden to the organization, which must now employ help at a greater expense than those paid to the self-sacrificing officers of the organization. This is but one reason why we must get behind The Salvation Army this year." Already letters have been mailed to the many friends of The Salvation Army and Earle R. Stockbridge of Exeter Banking Company, who is acting as treasurer, is expecting early returns.

Sponsoring the annual appeal are such prominent residents of Exeter as: Rev. James W. Bixler, Charles W. Caldwell, Thomas R. Chrysler, Cecil A. Comfort, Howard T. Easton, Otis E. Hoyt, F. Leroy Jenkins, Hervey Kent, Rev. Paul T. Martin, Fred A. Moore, Lewis Perry, Henry Phillips, Jr., James A. Pirnie, Willard I. Rowe, Mrs. M. W. Saunders, Harry B. Thayer, Jr., Clifton A. Towle, Rev. Howard P. Weatherbee, F. Everett Winslow and Harry Wise.

In his mail appeal, Chairman Purington stated: "Each year at this season we are asked to help the work of The Salvation Army, an old and tried organization. Never before has our country faced such dangers and never before has there been such need for the practical and valiant service which is traditional with The Salvation Army".

Carnival Opening Draws Hundreds

Hundreds flocked to the opening of the carnival for the benefit of the Civilian Defense Council in No. 5 Mill in Newmarket last night to enjoy the elaborate program which was outlined in full detail in this newspaper last week. The big event will continue tonight.

Emile Roy is general chairman of the program, which includes booths, games, entertainment and dancing. Nearly every organization in Newmarket is co-operating in making the carnival a huge success.

BIG CHURCH SESSION DUE FOR EXETER

One day conventions will be held in three New Hampshire cities beginning April 22 in the first phase of the United Christian Education Advance, the Rev. Charles P. McGregor, state executive in charge of arrangements, announced in Concord this week.

Part of a series of 130 similar meetings in 44 states, the conferences will lay plans for sectional church leaders to participate in the Advance to bring Christian education to more than 17,000,000 school age children and 30,000,000 other Americans now "unchurched."

Opening in Plymouth on April 22, the other meetings will be held in Exeter on April 23 and in Peterboro on April 24.

Local chairmen already named by the Rev. Mr. McGregor, who is general secretary of the New Hampshire Council of Religious Education, include: the Rev. A. R. Thompson of Plymouth, the Rev. P. Weatherbee of Exeter, and the Rev. William S. Gooch of Peterboro.

Dozen Newmarket Youths Return From Examination Of Two Induction Groups

A major sea victory for the Swiss Navy wouldn't have caused more surprise than the rejection of Eddie Szack, brother of Selectman Stanley Szack, when the Newmarket boy, who looks as though he could stay the limit against Joe Louis, went before army doctors at the Manchester induction center last week.

Eddie came back a very disappointed young man—all because flat feet marred an otherwise Herculean physique—but he wasn't alone, because two other six-footers who left with him from the Newmarket Polish Club were also turned down. They were Carroll Stevens and George Grochmal, who had been serving as club steward until he answered the induction call. "Pap" Jablonski was also sent back. Although not in the six foot class, outward appearances would stamp him as an A-1 fighting man.

Despite these rejections, a "long shot" from the Polish Club went through with flying colors.

Joseph Indzinski, familiar to all as "Joe Pete" was rated among club members as a 50 to 1 bet, but is now in Uncle Sam's army and at last reports is stationed at Fort Wetherill in Rhode Island.

Joe was not the huskiest lad in the club, and lacked a little dental decoration in front, but army physicians know what they are doing. While new feet couldn't be grafted on Eddie Szack, it won't be much trouble inserting a couple of glistering teeth for Joe Pete.

Seriously, though, a number of Newmarket boys were very disappointed last week by rejections for physical defects of which they had been unaware. Out of 17 reporting for selective service Thursday, it is reported that 10 were sent back home. Five returned from a group of 10 who departed Friday. Despite easing of recent restrictions, it is apparent that the Army is still demanding men in all-round fighting condition.

Les Kennedy To Come Back Soon

Urban Fellows, manager of the Rockingham Country Club in Newmarket, announced this week that Les Kennedy, the pro, who created a sensation in the recent tournament at Pinehurst, N. C., would arrive at the Rockingham links in about two weeks.

He said Kennedy wrote that he intended to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Kennedy, in Lynn, Mass., for a few days, before proceeding to Rockingham.

After the Pinehurst meet, Kennedy played at Asheville, but failed to equal the scores he chalked up in Pinehurst. In the last, playing against Ben Hogan, leading money winner in the winter circuit, he started out with one stroke behind him. A gallery of 5,000 people followed the play.

John Carpenter has come to Newmarket to supervise removal of materials which the General Electric Co., of Lynn, Mass., has purchased from the local mill wrecking project.

COUNTY COURT TO OPEN IN PORTSMOUTH

The April term of Superior Court for Rockingham County will open in Portsmouth, Tuesday, April 14, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon. Hon. H. Thornton Lorimer of Concord will be the presiding justice.

The grand jurors will convene and County Solicitor Stephen M. Wheeler will present the evidence to the jury in the criminal cases for their consideration. The docket will be called in the forenoon, and in the afternoon the list of cases for jury trial will be made up and motions, relating to such cases, will be heard.

Wednesday, April 15th, at 10 a. m., the session will open for naturalization of those eligible for a hearing upon their petitions for citizenship. At 11 a. m., hearings will begin on general motions.

Thursday, the 16th, will be devoted to hearings in divorce cases and petitions for modification of previous orders for support and petitions for contempt.

Friday, the 17th, there will be arraignment of respondents in all criminal cases.

The petit jury will report Monday forenoon, April 20, and jury trials will begin that day.

Proulx seek second base position; Doe, Couture and March aspire for third; Malek, Laughlin, Bouras, Bolduc and Fenders comprise the field material, and Handzal is the only shortstop candidate.

U. S. Health Head Asks No Let-Up In Cancer Fight

Pointing out that "total war demands that every man and woman do more, not less," Dr. Thomas Parran, surgeon general of the United States Public Health Service, has written the American Society for the Control of Cancer, urging "that no smallest gain along the public health front be lost," according to Mrs. Lila D. Block of Hampton, district press chairman. Dr. Parran's letter to Dr. C. C. Little, managing director of the society, said: "It is my earnest hope that no smallest gain along the public health front be lost in our patriotic response to the demands of total war. Total war demands that every man and woman do MORE not LESS. This means that we must not let down in our service to humanity, but must make greater sacrifices, find MORE time for emergency service. The Women's Field Army Against Cancer is one of our advance guards. We look to it to hold the line."

Dr. Little announced that plans are now nearly completed for the Field Army's 250,000 members to conduct the sixth annual educational and membership campaign in April. national cancer control month. Cancer is the second highest cause of death in the United States, Dr. Little pointed out. It kills 158,000 annually, half to two thirds of whom could have been saved if they had known the simple facts about the disease, that the Women's Field Army is dedicated to make known to all.

From where I sit . . .

by Joe Marsh

VERY OFTEN these days, I get to thinking about the soldier boys at camp. And the sailors, too.

What worries me is . . . what happens when they get a day off after working their heads off all week? They go to town . . . and what then?

What happens? The answer is . . . mostly nothing! Because most towns near army camps just don't have nearly enough entertainment facilities to take care of the soldiers on leave. So the boys just stand around, leaning against lampposts or sitting on doorsteps. And sometimes, the local townsfolk find themselves wondering what's changed the town . . . instead of pitching in to help the boys have a good time in decent surroundings.

In many towns, however, the situation is better. Many towns have nice, community places where a soldier can go sit down and "chew the fat" and enjoy some cake and milk, or maybe a good glass of beer. The boys like that. And they're not likely to get in trouble . . . because common sense tells you nothing can be wrong about a couple of glasses of beer.

There's another reason, too. The beer industry is cooperating with the army and with the law-enforcement officers to help keep the places where beer is sold, clean and decent. The brewers don't want their beer sold to soldiers in places where bad conditions exist . . . and they're right.

Seems to me that we Americans ought to get together and do everything we can to make things pleasant for the boys who are in training. They're doing their duty . . . maybe we have some duties, too, in this direction.

There are lots of ways of helping. We ought to support them all. All of us have our part to play in winning this war . . . and making life a little easier for the boys in camp is something we all can do something about.

KINGSMAN WRITES FRESHMEN AT N. H. S. ABOUT ARMY LIFE

The freshman class of Newmarket high school, through its secretary, Fannie Sklarski, has received a letter emphasizing the discipline of army life from Chester Kingsman, a former teacher and now a private in Company D, 39th Barracks, at Camp Croft, S. C.

The letter follows:

"Dear Class:

"If only I could be a Freshman again. What I'm trying to say is that you are having the best times of your lives and should make the most of it. With the disorder and confusion this world is in, one will never know what to expect later in life.

"If anyone thinks the discipline in N.H.S. is too strict he should get a taste of what I'm experiencing in the army. Everything must be perfect and done immediately. Such training produces good soldiers who will gain the best results in actual combat.

"Uncle Sam is putting us through the necessary combat principles which we do doubt will use in the near future. This eight to 13 weeks' basic training is for the purpose of building us up physically strong and to teach the fundamentals of warfare. Upon completion of this schooling, we will be transferred to our regular arm of service. (Editor's note: Chet is to become a flying cadet).

"Don't let anyone tell you that there is a better state than N. H. The Indians were not so dumb when they refused to fight for their lands when Sir Walter Raleigh landed. The red clay soil is very poor and the farmer finds it difficult to eke out a living. The waters are unfit for swimming. The early mornings and late nights are cold, but the days are terribly hot.

"Mr. Buckler could use some of this weather to train his baseball team in. I had a workout last week, throwing hand grenades. They sure can wreak havoc. We also had gas drills. It's a barbarous weapon. I got caught with my mask off, and believe me, I became aware it would be a terrible death. Next week we go on the range to sharpen up our eyes for those yellow devils. I dread the 17-mile overnight hike we are getting soon. The army marches on its stomach, but the feet are the all

NEW GROUP OF DRAFTEES ANSWER CALL

Newmarket and Exeter boys were included in a group of young men given a send-off last week-end by Portsmouth's official bon voyage committee, consisting of Mayor Stewart E. Rowe, Councilwoman Mary C. Dondero, Councilman Edgar F. Wood and Frederick D. Gardiner.

Each departing inductee received a mechanical pencil, in behalf of the city of Portsmouth, from Mayor Rowe, who has conducted similar ceremonies when other draftees have left from his city.

It is possible that other columns of this newspaper will report that some of the draftees were eventually rejected for military service, but the names of those called in this section follow:

STRATHAM YOUTH SURVIVES U. S. S. LANGLEY SINKING

A cheerful Easter message informed Benjamin H. Brown, 71, of Bunker Hill avenue, Stratham, that his son, Kenneth, was one of the few survivors of the Indian Ocean naval battle, in which the U.S.S. Langley and Pecos were sunk with more than 700 casualties. Young Brown, a chief petty officer, was serving aboard the aircraft tender Langley.

No word had been received by the young man's relatives since February, until his aged father, who resides with another son, Louis, on a farm in Stratham, received this message after the American warship's destruction.

"Hi, pal. Just arrived a few days ago. Am feeling fine. Will mail you letter soon. Love from your pal, Kenneth."

Brown was one of the handful of Langley survivors picked up by the tanker Pecos, and then subjected to another frightful experience when the Japanese started raining their bombs on that ship, which also went down.

Upon his arrival in San Francisco, Brown said, "We were forced to go over the aft of the ship. I had only one arm in my lifejacket when I jumped. After landing in the water I struggled into the life-jacket.

"After spending four to six hours in the water, we were rescued by a destroyer and landed in Australia, sailing later for San Francisco."

Two of Kenneth's brothers and sister live in Exeter, Harold Brown is a printer and lives on Green St. Tyrel resides on School St. Other brothers and sisters are Clyde Brown of Kingston, Mrs. Hattie Beede of Hampton and Mrs. Elphie Murby of Farmington. Another brother, Ralph, is in Eldorado, Cal.

Kenneth, the youngest of the brothers, is married and has a four year old daughter, Aileen.

Sunrise Service

Thirty members of the Community Church in Newmarket joined with Exeter church-goers in attending a sunrise service at Stratham Hill Park on Easter morning. The Easter message was delivered by the Rev. Russell G. Schofield, pastor, and Easter songs were sung at the morning worship by Eugene Watson, soloist.

James Long tended the crossing after the fire, and Henry Cain served during the night.

FARM FOODS FEATURED ON STAMP LIST

The list of foods available during April for blue stamp users in Rockingham County ties in with the government's wartime food program. It was announced today by Philip B. Hearn, State supervisor of the Agricultural Marketing Administration, formerly the Surplus Marketing Administration.

"With the amalgamation of several of the Department of Agriculture's food purchase and distribution agencies into one big administration," Mr. Hearn said, "the department's Food For Freedom program can go forward as a unit."

"The Blue Stamp list for April features fresh fruit, dairy and vegetable produce, the same foods farmers are being asked to produce in abundance for our wartime food-and-farm drive. Butter and eggs remain on the list, for farmers are now producing plenty of these healthful staples. Eggs are especially abundant. Dry edible beans are now plentiful, and can save money for food buyers who will find that canned beans are being slowly withdrawn from the market. The canned varieties are more easily transported and can be used by our armed forces. Amounts of tin are limited, so dry edible beans will be more popular with shoppers.

"Right now, and in months to come, everyone can help by watching these stamp lists, and using more daily and fresh farm produce than the tinned and packaged items. Eggs are more plentiful now than ham or bacon, and make a good breakfast substitute. Dry beans are featured in many a typical American dish. The blue stamp list makes them available to persons who buy food with stamps."

During January in the Northeastern Region, of which New Hampshire is a part, over 1,341,792 persons bought food with stamps.

PISTOL STARS BID FOR FAME IN MADISON SQUARE GARDEN

Syd Langley and Stewart S. Humphreys came face to face in Ben's Tonsorial Parlors in Newmarket last Saturday morning and signed on the dotted line to meet early in the summer for the heavy-weight pistol shooting championship of New England. The affair originally was to decide only the Newmarket title, but since men prominent in the political life of Massachusetts have become interested in the battle, it was deemed advisable to cover more territory.

The gladiators were good-natured rivals as they clasped hands in the presence of Ben Kendrigan and a few other spectators prior to autographing their contract.

In fact, their feuding was temporarily forgotten to the extent that Langley announced he was satisfied that Humphreys was in good faith in agreeing to battle it out, and he would be willing to permit Humphreys to withdraw the $1,000 check posted with the editor some time ago. In view of the rubber shortage, he explained, the check could be used to help relieve that situation.

Both marksmen admitted that many people refused to take the forthcoming match seriously when it was announced, but are now eagerly looking forward to the big event.

"Here's a chance to clean up", said Humphreys. "Why, at a dollar a lead, the mob that will turn out to see Syd and me in action will put us on Easy street."

"If the New England championship is the best we can get, O. K., but I think the match ought to be for the world's championship. I think I'll get my manager, John Valliere, to contact Mike Jacobs and see if Mike won't put us on at Madison Square Garden."

"With Joe Louis busy with preparations to fight the Japs, the Garden ought to have some big event to offer during the summer."

Reminded that Frank J. Spofford secretary to the mayor of Haverhill, Mass., has reported that many tickets for the pistol match have already been sold in the Bay State, Humphreys said the same duels would be accepted if the duel should be staged in Madison Square Garden.

Langley was also enthused over the prospects of having the battle in the Garden. He said he would have it understood, however, that the match would not be squeezed in between bouts on a big fight program. "We're going to be the whole show," he declared. "They won't have to toss in a heavy-weight championship boxing bout to make it an interesting evening. When Hump and me get to spraying the bullets around, the fans will get their money's worth."

It is possible that the challengers may open their training camps to the public a couple of times before the main show, thus picking up a few dollars to help meet expenses.

Chinese, Japanese Languages To Be Taught At U.N.H.

Chinese and Japanese will be among the courses offered in the University of New Hampshire's two summer sessions, which begin June 29 and August 10.

One of the chief aims of the 1942 Summer School is to provide a program of courses which will assist young people in preparing for positions in war industries or the military and naval forces, and in obtaining a better understanding of contemporary problems arising from the war emergency.

The courses in Oriental languages will be given for those who wish to enter government service as interpreters or for those who desire to obtain a general understanding of the language and culture of the Oriental people.

Miserable Maids' Auxiliary Planned

The newly organized Miserable Club in Newmarket has struck such a responsive chord among a number of somber-faced residents that it has been decided to branch out with a women's auxiliary.

The leaders feel that a number of Newmarket women, who feel miserable (the sole qualification of membership) should also be organized to share each other's woes.

This doesn't imply that the wives (if any) of the charter members of the Miserable Club, announced last week, share their spouses' misery. The auxiliary membership is open to all women, young or old, married or single, who feel as miserable as the brethren of the club. Interested ladies should contact "Steamship."

Bert denied this week that he had joined the club or had even been approached on the matter. Confronted with his denial, however, spokesmen of the "frown fraternity" crisply replied: "Aw, he's in, alright. Our outfit wouldn't be complete without him."

CHAPTER 1

Bloodhounds—at Bay

"Mother,—they kotched him, caught him, I mean!"

Little Henry Stiles came running across the yard as fast as his four-year-old legs could carry him. "The hound caught him, I saw the nigger,—negro, I mean, throw himself into the river, but Bloody was after him. He can't get away."

Storming into the kitchen, Henry threw himself onto his mother's lap. She laid her sewing aside and took the tearstained little face between her hands.

"Henry, look at me," she said. "How old are you?"

"Four, no, five next Tuesday. Why, mother?"

"Because a big boy, five years old, should not take on so. Darkies will run away from plantations every chance they get. You know they are being caught every time they try." She stroked the brown curls back from his forehead.

"Doug says that negroes are just like whites; they have souls, and souls are better than hounds. Doug says that he wouldn't whip a black for anything. Just because their skins are black is no reason why they should be whipped like animals."

"Sure, son, Doug is right," said a tall man from the door way. "That is why Abraham Lincoln set them free last year." And John Stiles came over and sat down beside the little boy who cried to see a black being caught by a bloodhound.

"John, did you see it happen?" Mary Stiles raised anxious eyes to her husband's face.

"No, Mary, I didn't. I saw the big fellow jump into the river, but the Susquehanna is wide, and I'm afraid he can't get across. On this side the river he isn't safe, and once the hound gets him he'll be torn to pieces, like the one that was caught last week. I wish to God we were out of the South. The North is winning, and once the darkies come into their own as free men and women, there will be no work for honest white people many miles north of the line." John rose and stood in moody silence beside the boy.

"I suppose you are right, John," the wife replied. "We, older people are used to seeing such things happen, but children growing up can't bear to think of a black being hunted down."

The house occupied by the Stiles was not nearly large enough for twelve people to eat, sleep, and really live in, but John and Mary had lived there ever since they were married, and a second home is not like a first even to a family with fewer members than the Stiles. When the three sets of twins came, one set after the other, every nook and corner held a crib, or a cradle for the late arrivals, and now there were ten children in all.

The overseer passed by with the hound in a leash in one hand, and a wicked-looking whip in the other. He called to John as he passed by, "The damned nigger got away this time, but I'll have him yet. Why, man, he is the best hand on the plant, and you can work him most to death one day, and he is as good as new the next."

"You seem to forget that Abe Lincoln made him a free man a year ago," retorted John.

"The South ain't beat yet, John Stiles, and won't be either. Don't you forget that." And full of fire, he went on his way.

There were other inducements for the Stiles to go up North. There were schools where "poor whites" could send their children, and where they, the Stiles, would not be looked down upon because they were poor, and not owners of big plantations. The children were sensitive, and they needed outside influences of the right sort to help them lead lives of worth and usefulness after the war was over. It

Durham Girl Scouts entertained their mothers with a tea and scout program on Monday afternoon at the Community house. Scout Leader Torgenson was introduced and badge winners were announced. The First-Aid Group who has recently completed their course under the direction of Dr. Rudd, put on a skit depicting the uses of their course. The songs by the music group which was directed by Miss Emily Collins were enjoyed by the mothers present. Mrs. Isaac Thut, who has been instructing the girls who are working for Hostess badges, supervised serving the afternoon tea. Twenty one scouts were present.

The advance classes in First Aid under the direction of Dr. Rudd will meet on Tuesday evening at 7:30 at the home of Mrs. Hemen Fogg on Bagdad Road. Each Thursday evening an advanced class will meet at 7:30 in Ballard Hall. These classes are open to any adult who has passed the examination in the elementary First Aid Course. There will be an advanced class for students on Mondays and Wednesdays at 7:30, in New Hampshire Hall. These classes will also be under the direction of Dr. Rudd.

There is a special meeting tonight at the grange hall where the first and second degree will be worked. Scammel Grange has been invited to attend the first degree at the Deputy's Meeting in Madbury, on Monday evening April was plainly to be seen that the South was not gaining, although stubborn plantation owners, refused to admit it even to themselves.

The blacks were jubilant. As yet they had no inkling of the misery in the store for freed slaves. They had been fed by owners cruel or otherwise. Driven to death in tasks no white man could perform, and herded like animals, they yet reasoned in their own way, that the Good Lord was their friend and loved all men, whether black or white, with a love no cruelty could destroy.

The older children in the Stiles family hated slavery. They could not endure to see a fleeing negro caught, stripped, whipped and tortured, and had disgraced themselves among children of their own age, who were sons and daughters of plantation owners, over and over again. However, the opinions of "poor whites" did not count, and even the negroes themselves looked down on white people who did not have money enough to own plantations and maintain slaves. Cruel masters had to be catered to, fawned upon if needful, and, escaped from if possible, the blacks believed. All this was as poison to the Stiles.

In 1864 the war still raged for a short time. Reckless Europeans came over to enlist on the North. They had no sympathy for the South. Then, all at once, hostilities ceased. The war was over. Freed negroes did not know what to do with themselves, had no idea of the value of labor, and they had to live.

Like a skeleton, a body picked to the bones, lay the devastated South. Emaciated negroes roamed the plantations where formerly they had plenty to eat even if cruelly treated; Israelites fleeing out of Egypt, but without the guidance of a Moses, the negroes were flocking North, and the erstwhile wealthy owner of a plantation and slaves, had no idea of what life without slave labor would be like. Not brought up to labor he sank to the same level as despised "poor white trash," and nothing could be done about it all.

Never again would the South become normal,—at any rate not the South that was. Slavery, deep-rooted, would flourish no more, and the rare fragrance of cultural Liberty would be slow in coming. WARFARE is the lowest level upon which human brutality can thrive.
