BIG SALVAGE DRIVE LAUNCHED

REP. ROUSSEAU WILL NOT SEEK ANOTHER TERM

Rep. Eugene Rousseau, who has served two terms in the State Legislature, informed the Newmarket Legistlature yesterday that he would not be a candidate for renomination in the September primary election. He is employed in a Newmarket shoe factory and does not feel that he can give the time to serve another term.

It is understood that there may be two or three aspirants for the nomination as representative from Newmarket, but leaders of neither political party were willing this week to reveal their identities.

Meanwhile, Newmarket's other Democratic representative, Arthur LaBranche, had not decided up to late yesterday afternoon whether he would file papers for renomination. He expected to arrive at a decision sometime early next week.

Rousseau, a retired sergeant in the U. S. Marines, served at the 1938 and 1939 sessions. During his first term he served on the elections committee and in 1939 was on the military affairs committee.

LaBranche served at the 1917, 1929, 1939 and 1941 sessions, and during the last term was a member of the State Hospital committee, as well as being a member of the Rockingham county delegation's budget committee. He is believed to have been the first Newmarket legislator to serve on the budget committee in a number of years. During his legislative career, he has also served on the agriculture, towns and counties and Normal School committees.

Candidates in this section who have recently filed nomination papers include:

Marelli Is Sent To Oklahoma Camp

Mr. and Mrs. James Marelli of Newmarket have received word that their son, Pvt. Harry Marelli, who left about two weeks ago to enter the army at Camp Devens in Mass., has been sent to a camp in Oklahoma.

Before entering the service, Harry was a popular clerk at his father's store in Newmarket.

BROTHERS BECOME CORPORALS

George and Nick Zuk, sons of Mr. and Mrs. John Zuk of Newmarket, have both been promoted to corporals in the United States Army, according to word received by their parents. George, who is shown at the left, is stationed in Battery C, 214th Coast Artillery (A.A.) at Benicia, Calif., while his brother, Nick, on the right, is serving in the U. S. Air Corps in San Antonio, Tex.

MORIN SERVES AS MECHANIC AT BOMB BASE

(Official Army Dispatch)
WILL ROGERS FIELD, OKLA.—Technician Fifth Grade Alfred R. Morin, formerly of 3 Bay Side St., Newmarket, N. H., is one of the soldiers stationed at this Army Air Force bombardment base.

Technician Morin is assigned to a quartermaster platoon here as a mechanic. He is the son of Mrs. Albert A. Morin, 6 Broad street, Somersworth, N. H.

Before entering the Army in July of last year, Technician Morin resided at Newmarket, but was employed by the University of New Hampshire.

Winiarski Couple Feted At Family Dinner Gathering

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Winiarski were honored at a family dinner party in Newmarket last Sunday in connection with the recent observance of their 35th wedding anniversary. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Abbott and children, Marilyn, Clifford, Jr., and Dennis; Mr. and Mrs. John Graney and son, Jackie, of Exeter, and Mrs. Isabel Mullen.

At a buffet lunch later, visiting guests included Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Zych, Packers Falls; Miss Janet Edmond, Miss Annabel Mullen and Hector Hevey.

The couple were the recipients of several anniversary cards and an easy chair presented by the family.

Miss Marilyn Abbott is spending a week's vacation in Exeter with her aunt, Mrs. Helen Graney. Clifford Abbott, Jr., was a guest there the previous week.

CHINESE FUND HEAD NEEDED IN NEWMARKET

The Newmarket Board of Selectmen has received a request from W. R. Herod, chairman of the United China Relief Fund campaign, for the appointment of some responsible resident to supervise the Newmarket drive. Anyone willing to assume this responsibility is asked to contact Selectman Stanley Szacik or Selectman F. Albert Sevall.

"The next few months are critical for this year," Mr. Herod's letter points out. "With the Chinese, many of the people are down to mere subsistence levels. They are fighting for their very existence; and on July 7, the anniversary of the beginning of the war between China and Japan, they had held out for five long wearisome years, because they know defeat means enslavement. But there are limits to what they can stand in the way of starvation and suffering. We should not wait any longer! The Japanese are not waiting!"

"America generally is responding excellently and already over half of the $7,000,000 national goal has been raised with 450 communities having finished their appeals and exceeded their quotas.

"Won't you help and call together a group immediately? Designate someone as chairman and let us know his name and address, so we can place the necessary supplies in his hands at once.

"Our national goal is $7,000,000—the share of your community is $500."

Employed at Track

Humphreys Hits 'Em, Guards Roll

Stewart S. Humphreys is un-rested to have hit the bang-tails plenty often and right on the nose, at Rockingham last Monday.

Between the excitement of cleaning up the small fortune and subsequent celebrating at the food table, it is reported that he was slightly indisposed at the end of the day and was brought home in the car of a fellow townsman, who guarded his passenger with money-stuffed pockets, zealously.

Next to a police escort, Humphreys is said to have figured this was his best way to get back home without danger of being robbed of the easily won bankroll.

'GAS' HOLDS OUT WELL IN NEWMARKET

Newmarket gasoline dealers did a thriving business Tuesday because they happened to have quite a supply in their tanks, while many filling stations in Dover and Portsmouth were closed due to the rush of motorists who lined up for "refills" on the old rationing cards before the new and permanent rationing system started on Wednesday.

About half of the Newmarket stations were open, a better percentage than in the cities, and one dealer is reported to have sold 5,000 gallons during the day.

In Dover and Portsmouth it seemed that about 75 percent of the gas stations displayed "No gas" signs, but one dealer in Newmarket wasted no words in putting up a sign which simply read, "YES."

Along the busy highway from Portsmouth to Rochester and points north, the final day of the temporary rationing system found lines of motorists at a few stations where gas was available.

At one spot in Portsmouth, where a gas station is located at an intersection of streets, the line of customers was so lengthy that there was difficulty for other traffic in passing.

On Wednesday, when the new system became effective, word came from the state OPCA headquarters that strict enforcement could be expected. It was admitted that loopholes in the temporary setup permitted a number of violations, but officials declared no tolerance would be shown, no matter how minor the offense, under the permanent plan.

Shot Hits Finger Of Boy In Boat

While in a boat on the Lamprey River in Newmarket, Sunday afternoon, Norman Baillargeon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Orel Baillargeon, accidentally discharged a gun which he carried and was shot through a finger. He received treatment from a Newmarket doctor.

At the time of the accident, he was accompanied by a sister.

BERRY NAMES HIS COMMITTEE IN NEWMARKET

An intensive campaign has been launched in Newmarket for the collection of at least 300 tons of scrap iron and steel and other salvage materials, it was announced yesterday by Ralph H. Berry, chairman of the Newmarket Salvage Committee. The campaign is part of the nationwide drive announced by WPB Chairman Donald M. Nelson.

At the same time, Chairman Berry announced that salvage campaign headquarters would be at his office on Main St., where the telephone number is 33. Members of the local committee have been appointed as follows: Milton Kimball, who has charge of the 4-H Boys' Club, which has been assisting in collecting scrap metal; Elmer Kimball, Thomas Fillion, Charles Kegel, Guy Langley, S. S. Humphreys, Rep. Arthur LaBranche, Highway Agents Frank Schanda and Alex Pelletier and Grover Keniston.

Chairman Berry stated the best method of turning in the needed materials is to sell them to a junk dealer who has the facilities of sorting and otherwise handling them, but if this plan is not convenient or desirable, the salvage materials should be left with Grover Kenniston to be deposited in the pen that has been constructed adjacent to the Newmarket Town Hall.

"As the war becomes more intensive on the various foreign fronts," Mr. Berry said, "the need for scrap materials has steadily increased." He declared that while collections of various types of salvage have already been made in Newmarket from time to time, the expanding requirements of the war program have made it necessary to obtain much larger amounts of materials.

"The American steel industries this year hope to produce a record breaking 85 million tons of steel—as much as all foreign countries put together can make," he pointed out. "Our country alone this year is going to produce three tons of steel for every two tons the Axis can turn out."

"To bring steel production up to the industry's full capacity of 99 million tons in 1942, however, our steel industry needs an extra 6 million tons of scrap steel for its furnaces. Every ton of scrap we can send will swell our national production of tanks, ships, planes, and guns."

In addition to scrap iron and steel, the materials to be collected are brass and other non-ferrous metals, rubber, rope and fats.

"An increasing number of boys from this town are already seeing active service," he said. "We on the home front must see to it that industry shall not lack materials for adequately arming and equipping them."

"Every housewife can play an important part in this drive. She should carefully inspect all of her household furnishings—to find out what equipment she has that has outlived its usefulness.

CHAPTER 14

At the Reed home, four intensely interested persons were waiting to hear the promised developments in the chain of events that vitally concerned at least two—the strangers within the Reed gates—that no longer were strangers. Mrs. Clayton hesitated to say much while Annie was in the room, but after a few minutes' deliberation she started.

"I shall begin with a statement that may seem unimportant to you, my friends. On the platform in the Town Hall on the night of the welcome-home supper and greeting there were two empty chairs. One was for my husband, and the other was for a man who later came home to die." It seemed difficult for her to go on, but after a few minutes she rallied to the task ahead of her.

"That man was an earlier acquaintance of mine. He had known Hugh for a long time and they were very good friends, although he was several years younger than my husband. He was the only son of wealthy parents, had always done as he pleased, and he seemed strangely modest whenever we happened to meet. We were members of the church choir, his voice was a fine tenor, mine a high soprano. Choir practice brought us together, and I can truly say that we were friends.

"Then Hugh came into my life, and you know what happened. Hugh and I had known each other barely three weeks before we were married. Hugh would not wait, and for six weeks we were ideally happy. He was called upon to go South, but he did everything in his power to shield me from want. He left his five splendid horses to dispose of as I saw fit. I was compelled to sell one after the other in order to cover living expenses, especially when Della came.

"A few days after the affair in the hall I was sent for. I did not know the man that brought the summons; he was a stranger to me, but when he told me the name of the name of the one who had sent him I felt I must go.

"It was the father of the dying soldier. The mother of the young was ill. I left Della asleep in her crib and Dick promised not to leave the house till I came back. I followed the man who had brought the message. A heart-broken father met me in the hall, and I was shown into a room where lay the dying soldier. We were left alone. The father thought that his son had something to tell me in regard to my husband, for the two had met somewhere in the South. This is only the setting; I shall try to give you the picture as he painted it to me.

"Here is what he told me: 'Hugh was in the hospital when I arrived. Patients were coming in faster than others were getting well, and many were discharged because others were sicker than they. I knew that I did not have long to live, and I asked to be sent home because my folks were perfectly able to care for me, but the doctor said no—that mine was a peculiar case and that he had to find out just what ailed me. He declared that I was in no danger if handled rightly. I thought I knew better—numbness was creeping on me and I had a queer kind of pain not easy to describe. Anyway, Hugh had to be sent out on my account. He was far from being well, but I was worse off than he. That was a long time ago, and he should be with you at this time. He has not come home?' The exertion proved too much for him and he stopped talking for several minutes. Then he went on.

It was almost as much as she could do to control herself. "I could not say a word. I motioned a NO, and he continued, 'I was badly off and after a few days I was sent by boat to New York, to a hospital there. The doctors there did something to me, I don't know what, but there was less numbness, although I was weak.' He stopped briefly, and asked him if he had to go on. He said that he had not yet told me the reason for his sending me, and it was important that he go on.

"Then he said, 'Listen carefully hereafter. Much may depend on how you take what I have in mind to ask of you. It does not concern either you or myself. It does concern a third person as yet unknown to us.' Again he rested. My nerves were on edge, as you must see if you have followed my narrative. The strange part is yet to come.

"You can imagine how I felt by that time. What he had told me was the prelude. He began once more. 'During my stay in that hospital I had a visitor. One day when I felt particularly out of sorts, a stranger came to my bedside. The nurse who had come with him told me that what the stranger had to say would not make my case less doubtful, and that it was safe for me to listen. Then she made room for the stranger to approach. He was a foreigner, trained to military service from childhood; he was tall, well-built and very handsome, without seeming to be aware of that. He had a long military cloak over one shoulder, and he greeted me warmly.' Again Allan was obliged to stop, only for a few seconds, though. 'Seeing the question in my eyes, he introduced himself. He was a Russian officer in regular service; he had come over to fight on the side of the North if he cared to, but more especially to view military operations in the South. His leave of absence had nearly expired, and he had failed in a matter nearest his own heart. He had not been able to find someone very dear to a man to whom he was indebted for much.' Here Allan could go no further. I requested that he rest.

"Allan insisted that he must go on. 'The young officer, he was not yet thirty, said that he had succeeded in tracing the brother of this friend of his, but had found him dead. There remained a young boy, this man's son, a William Williams, and he had been traced to my home town. The doctor in the hospital had given his consent to this talk with me. Would I, when I got home, locate this young boy, not yet fifteen, and give him the package I am about to entrust to your keeping, and if you should hear of someone named as above, deliver it to him.' I promised."

Mrs. Clayton ended her narrative. Nothing was said for a few minutes. Then Annie declared "This is better even than the first one." "All but the ending," she added under her breath. Then Sonny rose. Something terrible, perhaps the narrative itself, had changed him as sometimes a sudden conversion at a religious gathering changes a man. At first he could utter no word, then he caught hold of himself. With head thrown back, he turned to Mrs. Clayton and said once more, "I am William Williams." Then he again sat down.

"Yes, Sonny," she said, "and it does seem incredible to me, that we two have been living for so long in the same house not knowing this."

Then, little by little, he told them all he knew about himself, how he came to be with the Bartons; he told of how Mr. Barton during his last illness had said that the tiny emblem on the silk garment had been cut off some time while they had been away the day after Sonny had found the house. Sonny himself had not noticed its absence, overwhelmed with grief as he had been; and he had wondered who could have done it, and why. Then when Mrs. Clayton took from the outer envelope the little square, he instantly recognized it as the one that had been sewn onto the lapel of the worn dressing gown his father had on when he died.

The letter that he found in the second envelope addressed to himself, William Williams, he would not open until after his eighteenth birthday. His father had asked him not to open it till then. They were both sealed, and his birthday was not far off. He would wait.

And thus it happened that Sonny, unknown to himself, had his future laid out for him that day. Joy and grief, sadness and delight, so closely interwoven, seldom find their way to mortal beings.

The letter that came to the Spencers a few days later called for a shout from Theodore, an exclamation of gladness from Elsie, and a loving smile from mother. "All's well that ends well," she said. "But it is not ended yet, mother," said Elsie, "Not yet." "Oh," boomed Theodore. "Of course not, silly," and this retort from Elsie sent Theodore off—to fish for trout.

Mrs. Clayton was to stay on at the Reed home. Della was perfectly content, and Annie had wanted to be with her own folks, where she hoped to find a place to work. Sonny would return to his own place. The Bartons had left the property to him, what money left over was to go to Mrs. Clayton and Della. The Bartons had no living relative. And Sonny would take care of his own, as good care as he had taken of it before they had given it to him as a gift.

On the morning after these strange events had taken place, Sonny parted with his friends. He had said goodbye to all but Della. When he held out his hand to say goodbye to her she put her two hands behind her back and stood in a corner. "Why, Della," chided her mother, "Don't you want to say goodbye to Sonny, now that he is leaving us?" But she shook her head and stubbornly refused. Then, seeing the pain in Sonny's eyes, she darted out from the corner, stretched up and put her arms around his neck, and with her cheek pressed to his looked defiantly at the others. Sonny held her close, then she let go of him and went whirlwind fashion out of the house into the yard, and disappeared in the stable.

Exeter Town Clock Is 94 Years Old

On Aug. 4, Exeter's town clock on the Congregational church steeple will strike its 94th birthday.

The clock's anniversary date was discovered by Town Clerk Willard K. Tozier while he was looking through the town records for a birth report. This was the notion: "Friday evening, Aug. 4, 1848. Town clock in operation for the first time. James M. Lovering, town clerk."

It is said that public subscriptions financed installation of the clock. During its 94 years of existence, it has been repaired several times, and the last expert to look over its mechanism reported that it would continue to serve for many years to come.

LET'S GIVE THEM

L-50 is the number of a new War Production Order that means conservation of telephone materials. It means that copper, aluminum, rubber, steel and other materials necessary to telephone service, are being sent abroad. They won't be welcome because they'll arrive as warships, planes, shells, tanks and bombs.

WHAT DOES L-50 MEAN TO TELEPHONE USERS?

This order will probably affect you in several ways. . . . They may be inconvenient or irritating, but we won't ask you to do anything unnecessary or that won't help make life miserable for the unpleasant group pictured above.

HOW YOUR TELEPHONE SERVICE MAY BE AFFECTED

We ask everyone to make social conversations as brief as possible, to help conserve service and perhaps to prevent stricter limitations.

We may have to ask private line users to share party lines with neighbors for the duration.

We may not even be able to install a telephone for you, particularly if you're near camps or naval bases or war industries. But this may happen anywhere.

So, if any of these things happen to you, remember you're helping give L-50 to Hitler, Hirohito and Benito.

Newmarket POLISH CLUB Notes

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Szacik were guests of Miss Lena Grant at her cottage at Northwood Lake over the weekend.

"Dola" Pohopek, his brother, John, and Jack Gadza enjoyed a trip through the White Mts. over last weekend. They stopped at Indian Head and numerous other points of interest along the way.

Pvt. Harold Noel of Westover Field, Chicopee, Mass., was a club visitor Sunday.

Pfc. Nejo Jabowski has been home on furlough from Camp Shelby, Miss. Sgt. Andrew Indziniak, who is stationed at the same camp, arrived in Newmarket last week, but awaiting him was a telegram ordering his immediate return. Sgt. Indziniak did not have time to visit the club and probably was unaware that a fellow soldier from his own base was also in town.

Eddie Szacik, vice president of the club, is employed at Rockingham Park in Salem during the current meet.

Pvt. Frank Pelczar, who entered the service about two weeks ago, has written that he is now stationed at Camp Gurber in Oklahoma.

He wanted the boys to be sure that he receives the Newmarket NEWS every week. Cards have also been received from his brother, Pvt. Bernard Pelczar, who has been sent to Mississippi.

John Puchlopek of the Packers Falls road went to New Bedford, Mass., Tuesday to attend the funeral of his brother Jerry, who worked for a while in Newmarket prior to the closing of the old Newmarket Mfg. Co. mills.

Joseph Wycik, who is in the Exeter hospital, is reported to be recuperating as well as could be expected.

Frank Wajda of Amesbury, Mass., called at the club Sunday.

PFC Walter Lizak is the soldier who has been transferred from McDill Field in Florida to Hunter's Field in Georgia. His name was given incorrectly as Joseph Lizak in last week's column.

Younger men have become so scarce at the club, with a large percentage in the service, that Chief Steward George Grochmal has been compelled to call on members above the draft age to wait on tables at the club on Sundays. During the past two weeks George Wajda has served in the capacity of assistant steward.

The would-be wrestler who recently challenged George Grochmal to a winner-take-all mat bout has now decided that both he and George have vocal talents which would probably hit a more appreciative response from the public. It all started last Monday night when the "Masked Marvel," Grochmal, and Misty Kustra set off in Misty's new boat, "Star Boy" for a small island in Lamprey river. Fishing and eating were on the program but the boys forgot to take their bait along and started a splashing revolt among the fish when they attempted to use hot dogs as bait. The finny ones just wouldn't nibble so the gay trio sing a few songs, the island and sing a few songs. The results were astounding, to say the least. Once the wrestler heard George's voice, a melodious tenor which blended perfectly with his own baritone, the would-be Strangler Lewis hit upon a bright idea. He suggested that they stage a big show, with the new singing sensations as the chief attraction. He figured a big crowd could be attracted at $1.50 per head, the proceeds to go to the USO. Plans are still on the fire. It should be stated that Misty had little part in the songfest as he was too busy roasting the dogs which the vocalists consumed between encores.

HERMAN HALEY IS NEW EPPING STATION AGENT

Herman Parkman Haley of Lee, who is well known in Newmarket, has been named as the new Boston & Maine Railroad station agent in Epping, succeeding David L. Nihen, who died last spring.

Mr. Haley, who is 61 years old, boasts more than 40 years of railroad service, having entered the employ of the B. & M. in West Rochester in 1899. He has been an agent, telegraph operator, tower man and train director at many stations on both the Portland and New Hampshire divisions.

One experience as a railroad man which Mr. Haley will never forget was a collision between the Gilt Edge Express and a local passenger train at Bradford, R. I., while he was train dispatcher in nearby New London, Conn. Seven lives were lost and the cars of the local train burned. Low steam was blamed for preventing the local from reaching a siding in time to avoid colliding with the express.

Mr. Haley, who recently attended the national convention of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers, has a veteran's medal for 25 years of membership in that organization. He also belongs to Sullivan Lodge of Masons in Epping and Patucco-way Grange in Nottingham.

Former Newmarket Student In Hawaii

Henry G. Davis, who received his education in schools in Newmarket and Dover, has recently been promoted to sergeant at Schofield Barracks in Hawaii. The infantry division in which he is serving was one of the first units to go into action when the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor last December.

Sergeant Davis, a native of Nottingham, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Davis, 49 Orchard street, Dover, and has been in Hawaii for two years.

Utility Firm Adds Name To Plaque

The New Hampshire Gas & Electric Co., which maintains a Newmarket branch office, has added the name of Robert S. Johnson, who was in one of the latest groups to enter the army, to the plaque on display in the Portsmouth office.

Besides Johnson, others whose names are on the plaque include Marshall H. Clark, George J. Newick, Herman A. Clock, Jr., John P. Greer, Robert E. Harte and John D. Holmes.

Once during the singing, it is understood, the wrestler took a non-too-graceful tumble from a bench.

Charlie Miesowicz, who usually attends such gatherings, was unable to be present at this one—a fact which he very much regrets.

Pvt. Joseph Miesowicz, who is stationed at the Motor Inspection Base in Emeryville, Calif., celebrated his birthday, July 21. Greetings were sent by the family, Mr. and Mrs. John Pohopek and other members of the Polish Club.

A very forlorn look on Eddie Szacik's face when he visited the club the other night aroused suspicions among the club brethren that all had not gone well with the "ponies" for Eddie at Rockingham that day. They say when Eddie hits 'em, he hits 'em, but when he doesn't, it's a great tragedy.

Pfc. Stanley Miesowicz has been transferred from Camp Gordon in Augusta, Ga., to Co. E, 12th Infantry, APO No. 4, Dillsworth, N. C.

George Grochmal is said to be wondering whether the effort put into a blueberrying expedition is really worth it, after all the blueberries are counted.

WILLIAM NEAL IS CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR

William J. Neal of Meredith, master of the New Hampshire State Grange, postmaster in Meredith and already prominent, at the age of 36 years, in legislative and farm organizations' activities, has announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for governor of New Hampshire in the September primary election.

Mr. Neal is the eighth generation from Capt. Walter Neal, first settler of New Hampshire, landed at Strawberry Bank, Portsmouth, College of Agriculture.

At the present time he is serving his third term as master of the New Hampshire State Grange; is secretary-treasurer of the American Devon Cattle Club, Inc.; is secretary of the Plymouth Fair; president of the Agricultural Council of New England; president of the New Hampshire Electric Co-operative, Inc., chairman, Board of Selectmen, Meredith; chairman, agricultural Advisory Committee, State Council of Defense; member of the Executive Committee of the State Council of Defense; member of the Executive Committee of the State Public Safety Committee.

In public life he was elected chairman of the Democratic Town Committee in Meredith in 1926 at the age of 21; elected to the School Board at the age of 22; elected to the House of Representatives 1933-1935; served as a member of the Committee on Agriculture in the 1933 Session and a member of the Judiciary Committee at the special session in 1934. He was chairman of the Committee on Public Improvements in 1935; chairman of the Belknap County delegation and chairman of its Budget Committee; served on the Board of Selectmen in 1934-1935; was supervisor of the Farm Census for New Hampshire in 1935; postmaster at Meredith from 1935 to 1942.

In addition to public office he has been actively identified with the Grange, was state lecturer four years, state overseer four years, has been honored by the National Grange by appointment to numerous national committees responsible for forming the policy of that organization; has been director of the County Farm Bureau; president of the New Hampshire Sheep Breeders' Association; president of the New Hampshire Beef Breeders' Association, a director of Plymouth

Fair, and connected with various other organizations.

Mr. Neal has been a partner with his father in the firm of W. H. Neal & Son since 1925. They have been breeders of registered Deyon cattle for more than 50 years.

Mrs. Jane Waller

The funeral of Mrs. Jane T. Waller, 92, was held last Friday morning at the home of her brother, Archibald Schenck, in Newfields, with Dr. Frederick G. Boughton officiating.

A native of Princeton, N. J., she was married to Rev. William B. Waller, who served as a Presbyterian clergyman in New Rochelle, N. Y., and Greenwich, Conn. Following his retirement, the couple resided in Washington, D. C., until coming to Newfields.

William G. Carver

Funeral services were held for William G. Carver, 73, a resident of Exeter for 60 years, at the Judkins Funeral Parlor in Exeter, Monday afternoon.

Mr. Carver, a retired shoe worker, was a native of Merrimacport, Mass., and came to Exeter as a boy. As a young man, he was employed at a railroad restaurant in Exeter and at Rockingham Junction.

Survivors are the widow, Alice Carver, and a brother, Erskine Carver of Concord.

Miss Muriel Purington has returned from a religious conference in Northfield, Mass.

Checking of Farms Is Set For Aug. 17

At a recent meeting of the Rockingham County Committee of the Agricultural Conservation Association, held in the Farm Bureau office in Exeter, Aug. 17 was set as the tentative date for checking farms.

Committee members present included: Chairman George A. Bassett, Fremont; Howard E. Turner, Salem Depot; J. Edward Stevens, Kingston; James A. Purington of Exeter, secretary; Donald Northway of Londonderry, conservation assistant, and Charles F. Namie, Milford.

upholstered chair in the attic, some discarded pipe or heating equipment in the cellar, unused wire clothes hangers in a closet—these are a few of the items that will provide pounds and pounds of the needed scrap metal.

"Waste kitchen pots, and rubber are also needed badly and should be turned in."

In Exeter, the salvage drive is in full progress, according to Chairman Frank R. Goodale, whose home at 103 Front street is the campaign headquarters. Committee members assisting Mr. Goodale are Willard Tozier and Mrs. L. D. Hunt. Local junk dealers are co-operating in collecting the scrap materials and WPA trucks also pick them up around town.

In Durham, Mrs. James Funkhouser of Madbury road has been a leading worker in the salvage drive.

Church Services

Remodelling work is progressing on Unity Hall in Exeter, which will be used for church services, when they are resumed in September. At that time, Rev. Albridge F. Stoneham will assume the pastorate.

The church, which was constructed about 70 years ago, will be abandoned temporarily. Unity Hall in the past has been used for social functions of the church.

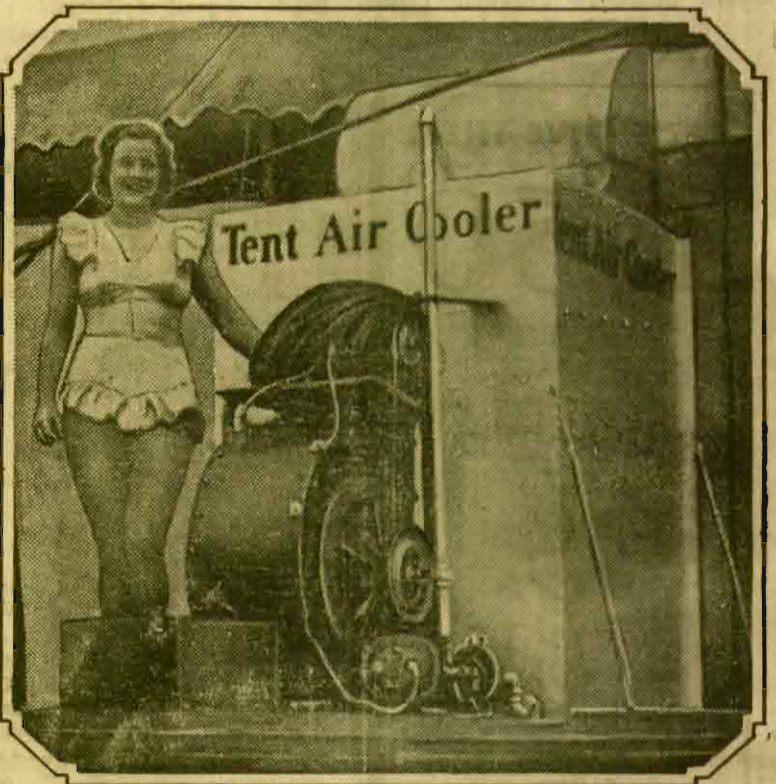

Prescott Candidate For Commissioner

Robert S. Prescott of Newton has announced his candidacy for Rockingham County commissioner in the September primary election.

He is a native of Kensington and was in the sugar business in Cuba, Puerto Rico and Santo Domingo for many years. He served in the Legislature in 1939 and 1941.

"Why Swelter At The Circus?" Smart Owners Solve Problem

EVERYBODY likes a circus, but nobody likes the weather that generally prevails when the tents are pitched and the calliope proclaims the fact that the acrobats and clowns and animals are in town again.

Mark Twain once declared that more had been said about the weather, and less done about it, than any other subject under the sun. This kept on being the case, too, so far as circus tents were concerned until the proprietors of Hunt Brothers Circus, touring the East in 1937, announced that they had the solution to the problem.

The pretty young acrobat shown here is standing beside a positive innovation in the amusement world, a tent air cooler. This, by a blower system in connection with a supply of ice, sends a steady stream of delightfully cool air into the circus tent. The air, many degrees cooler than the outside temperature, settles in a layer around the spectators, keeps them thoroughly comfortable on the hottest day.

This is a clever adaptation of an air conditioning principle. Full air conditioning, which daily is growing more popular and is being more and more extensively installed in stores, offices, factories and homes, calls for cooling and cleansing the air, taking the moisture out of it and circulating it in the summer, and warming and cleansing it, adding moisture, and circulating it in the winter. The Air Conditioning Manufacturers' Association points out. But the circus goes, who always heretofore have had to endure temperatures even higher than those outside the tent, are delighted to have the single comfort feature which guarantees their enjoyment of the performance.

TO ALL EMPLOYEES OF THE SAM SMITH SHOE CORP.

I want to take this opportunity of congratulating each and everyone of you on the fine spirit and co-operation which 100 per cent of you have shown in contributing toward the USO fund the 50 cents which normally would have been the amount of money contributed by the employees for their annual outing.

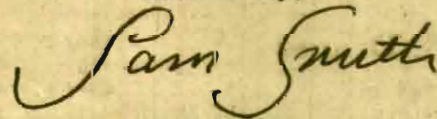

It is sacrifices like this which are encouraging our boys at the front to fight all the harder because they know we at home are willing to do a little sacrificing ourselves.

The Sam Smith Shoe Corp. and its employees will contribute well over $400.00 to the USO, and this substantial gift will provide many comforts for the servicemen.

It also seems fitting at this time to congratulate the Sam Smith Shoe Corp. employees on their 100 per cent subscription to our payroll allotment plan for the purchase of Victory Stamps and Bonds. This splendid enrollment is more than sufficient to earn us the Minute Man emblem.

Again I want to thank you in behalf of all the men serving in our armed forces, for your most welcome co-operation.

Sincerely,

SAM SMITH

TRY PAN DANDY.....
The Bread With A Personality
Sounds crazy doesn't it but I can't help noticing how people "do business" with people and "things" they like.
That's that elusive quality they call personality. Of course Pan Dandy is full of vitamins, but a lot of people forget this and still step up to their favorite grocery counter and as a matter of course say:

"A Loaf of Pan Dandy Please"

Speaking for Pan Dandy
Your old pal, Straw-Hat Harry,
says:

Shower Is Given

Friends and relatives recently gave a surprise miscellaneous shower for Mrs. Ralph Jackson at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Clyde Walker, in Newmarket. Mrs. Jackson was formerly Miss Margaret Walker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs.
Frank Walker, South Main street.

On July 6, she became the bride of Mr. Jackson, son of Mr. and Mrs.
Guy Jackson of Conway, in Dover.
The recent bride was graduated from Newmarket high school in 1941.

Leslie Hood Visits

Leslie A. Hood, who was born and brought up in Newmarket and enlisted in the United States Navy four years ago, has been back in his home town for a visit, accompanied by his bride from Jacksonville, Fla.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs.
Joseph A. Hood of Newmarket and has achieved much advancement in ratings, now being a first-class aviation metalsmith. He has been transferred to the University of Georgia to try for wings.

The navy man has re-enlisted for four more years of service.

reminiscences published by a contemporary newspaper this week.

Heading the list was Thomas S. Morris of New Castle, while third calling went to Jeremiah Donahue of Portsmouth.
