START JUNK COLLECTION TOMORROW

NEWMARKET SCRAP DRIVE GATHERS IMPETUS WHEN BERRY ASKS ALL TO AID

Newmarket's active and alert salvage group is already several jumps ahead in its determination to put the town over the top in the current junk and scrap collection campaign, and tomorrow the first of two scrap collections will take place. The second will be a week from tomorrow, Saturday, August 29, when the salvage committee expects that Newmarket will be drained of every pound of junk available.

All this week, ever since the drive was announced in The Newmarket News last Friday, townsfolk, young and old, have been busily piling up their old metal, rags, burlap bags, manila rope and rubber, and the total "take" promises to be far in excess of the 15 pounds per capita called for by the government.

On the two collections days, trucks will cover the town and pick up the scrap that has been accumulated. Assisting will be the Boy Scouts and members of the NYA.

Heading the Newmarket division of the scrap collection campaign, Deputy Sheriff Ralph H. Berry today gave this statement to The Newmarket News:

Berry Asks Aid

"Fifty per cent of every ship, tank and gun is made from scrap metal. Your country needs all your old junk—metal, rubber, rags, rope and burlap bags to make war material. So round up your junk. Sell it to a junk dealer, give it to a charity organization or take it to wherever you see the red, white and blue official Salvage Depot sign.

"Throw YOUR scrap into the fight!

"Our quota is 15 pounds of scrap for each man, woman and child in Newmarket. Let's make it 30 pounds each!

"We will collect any junk that you may care to donate. Collection dates will be August 22 and August 29. Have your scrap ready. The Boy Scouts and the NYA will assist the trucks on collection days.

"'Brave men shall not die because we faulted.'"

No less energetic in the scrap campaign arrangements is Director of Public Safety Stewart S. Humphreys, and the members of Sheriff Berry's general salvage committee. These include Milton Kimball, Grover Keniston, Arthur Labbranch, Charles Kegal, Frank Schanda and Alex Pelletier.

It is a fair assumption that the Newmarket salvage workers and their trucks and helpers will garner an impressive amount of junk when they take the road tomorrow.

Selectman Quits Bench To Launch Business Career

Selectman Stanley Szacik of Newmarket, for sometime past employed as a shoe worker at the Rockingham shop, resigned this week to enter business life.

With Mrs. Szacik, who also is quitting her position at the Rockingham plant, he has acquired the Bay Road grocery in Newmarket and opened up for business yesterday morning for the first time.

'BOB' RAPHEL FINDS LIFE IN ARMY 'SWELL'

Pvt. Robert Raphael of Newmarket, whose picture appeared in last week's issue of The Newmarket News, and who has been at Camp Lee, Va., for several months, has written an interesting letter to Ben Kendrigan received by the Main street barber yesterday, in which he gives his impressions of life in the service and reveals that he has been transferred to Fort Custer, Mich.

"Bob" expresses his gratitude for letters received from the folks at home and stresses their importance to lads hungry for news of their home towns. In a postscript he naively remarks: "That news you gave me about a certain girl made me feel like a new man, no kidding."

Scouts Plan Week At Camp Grounds In Pinkham Notch

Sea Scouts and Boy Scouts of Troop 200, sponsored by St. Mary's Catholic church of Newmarket, will spend the week of August 30 to September 5 at the Dolly Copp camp grounds in Pinkham Notch in the White Mountains.

Long distance hiking and mountain climbing will be featured during their stay. Rev. J. Desmond O'Connor, Scoutmaster, will be in charge of the group.

THREE PRIESTS TO CELEBRATE BEAUDET MASS

In an edifice thronged by sorrowing friends and relatives, the funeral of Desire Beudet, 58, for more than 40 years a respected resident of this community, will place tomorrow at St. Mary's Catholic church in Newmarket.

Mr. Beudet, long a prosperous farmer, succumbed early Tuesday evening at his farm home on the Packers Falls road following an illness of a fortnight. Two weeks ago he suffered a shock and was removed to the Exeter hospital. Later he was returned to his home and was believed on the road to recovery, but Tuesday he suffered a relapse which proved to be fatal.

A solemn high mass of requiem was to be sung at St. Mary's church by Rev. Hector A. Benoit, D. D., the pastor, assisted by Rev. John J. McCarthy of Exeter as deacon, and Rev. J. Desmond O'Connor of Newmarket, as sub-deacon.

Mr. Beudet was born in Canada, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John and Annie Beudet. Early in life he came to America and has resided in Rockingham county ever since. Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Carila (Provencher) Beudet, and several sons and daughters.

START CUTTING TODAY ON ARMY ORDER FOR 20,000 MORE PAIRS JUST RECEIVED

Increased evidence of the continued industrial boom that has come to Newmarket as a result of the necessity for properly equipping the fighting forces of the nation came today with the announcement that an additional order for 20,000 pairs of Army shoes had just been awarded to the Sam Smith Shoe Corporation, and that cutting would begin on the new order this morning.

Sam Smith, head of the corporation, in an interview with The Newmarket News, declared that already there is enough work ahead to insure the plant's operation at overtime until next December. Production, he asserted, is the chief necessity.

WHEELER WINS AS TEMPORARY ATTY.-GENERAL

As predicted last week in The Newmarket News, County Solicitor Stephen M. Wheeler of Exeter, was confined as acting attorney general at a special meeting of Gov. Robert O. Blood and his executive council at Concord last Monday. How long Atty. Wheeler will serve depends upon the tenure of service in the United States-Navy of Atty. Gen. Frank R. Kenison, who has not resigned, but has merely taken a leave of absence.

The confirmation of Mr. Wheeler came after a protracted session and a hot debate. The council was divided, three to two, on strict party lines. The three Republican members supported the governor's choice. The two Democratic members were opposed.

As late as last Sunday, there was some question as to whether the governor could hold the three Republicans in line. At least one of them was known to favor the choice of Asst. Atty. Gen. Ernest R. D'Amours of Manchester, who

There is need for more help in all departments, he declared, and emphasized the point that Uncle Sam wants plenty of production and wants it in a hurry. While there has been no indication thus far that night shifts may be instituted, the Smith shop has been operating on an overtime basis for some time past, and, according to Mr. Smith, it will continue to do so indefinitely.

A visit to the factory bears out these statements. The rumble of machinery is incessant from early morning till dark, and the hundreds of workers dash out for hurried meals at noon and in the evening. Testifying to the need of additional workers, is a large sign on the main door of the shop. It reads as follows and tells its own story:

"Help Wanted. All kinds of shoe workers. Also lots of inexperienced help. Steady work. Apply upstairs. Sam Smith Shoe Corp."

Durham Alumni Members On All Battle Fields

"On the far-flung battlefronts of the world, wherever American forces are located, you will find an alumnus of the University of New Hampshire," declared "Dad" Oren V. Henderson, chairman of the War Service record committee, revealing that more than 1000 members of the alumni are now in service.

The registrar emeritus of UNH added that 83 per cent of those whose rank are known are commissioned officers. These total 759. A total of 595 men are in the Army Ground forces, 50 are in the navy, 16 in the Naval Air force, 15 in the Marine corps and two in the Marine force.

cash, the property of her father, Harry Phelps. It was further indicated that Mrs. Loring left in an automobile with a male companion.

Police throughout New England were notified to be on the look-out for the missing woman and the authorities expressed confidence that her early apprehension could be anticipated. Aiding in the investigation was State Trooper Clifton Hildreth. Mrs. Loring has resided here for the past two years, having previously lived in Maine.

Woman Gone With Funds Of Father

Missing since last Friday night when she vanished after leaving a suicide note at her home on New road, the whereabouts of Mrs. Blanche Loring, 55, employed as a shoe worker in Newmarket factory, was still wrapped in mystery today.

A warrant meantime has been issued for her arrest on charges of theft by Chief of Police John A. Gordon. Both he and Officer John Valliere of the local police department, discount the suicide story, despite the fact that in her note the woman declared her intention of ending her life by drowning in Great Bay.

The police learned that when she departed she took with her all of her clothing and a black bag, as well as a $1000 bond and $10 in

THEY DO NOT CHOOSE TO RUN

New Hampshire's House of Representatives has long been the laughing stock of the world.

It is famous as the largest legislative body extant, despite the fact that its four-hundred-and-some members represent a state population of somewhat less than half a million.

Efforts to reduce this outrageous number of representatives in the past have met with failure. Now, however, the situation seems to be taking care of itself.

A total of 63 seats in the 1943 House including both Republican and Democratic communities, have no candidates in the coming State election.

The two Democratic seats in Newmarket have no takers. But the lack of interest is also apparent in the larger centers, such as Manchester and Concord, and the prognosticators are trying to find the answer.

Well, the job pays something like $200, plus transportation, and of late there has been a form of time clock to punch. You can't go to Concord from distant parts of the state on an A card, even if you happen to have a few fair tires left. Not and do it five days a week. So the lads have merely decided that they guess they don't want to run for representative.

The coming session would seem to be a good time to do something tangible in reducing the top-heavy number of State representatives to something like a reasonable number.

D'AMOURS BACK AT HIS LAST

In another column of this issue we publish a letter from Asst. Atty.-Gen. Ernest R. D'Amours in which he expresses appreciation for the attitude of The Newmarket News and associated Tri-Town papers in the recent contest for the post of Acting Attorney-General. This stand was taken essentially because we believe that real ability on the part of State public servants should be recognized over and above and consideration of political expediency.

This shall continue to be the policy of these newspapers, regardless of who the candidates may be or for what position they may be seeking.

In this instance, as reported elsewhere in the news columns this week, politics won again. Governor Blood has been accredited with his "fourth major victory" in imposing his personal choices upon the executive council. Whatever the victory for the governor may be, it is certainly an empty and hollow one for Rockingham county.

County Solicitor Wheeler emerges merely as Acting Attorney-General, with his term decidedly indefinite. He will serve only in the absence of Attorney-General Kenison on Naval duty. Kenison will resume his office whenever he may return to private life during the remainder of his term. He is merely on leave of absence.

Meantime, Mr. D'Amours remains at his post as Assistant Attorney-General. Thoroughly grounded in the detail and routine of the office, and admirably experienced in legal practice in the state's largest city, he will in fact "return to his last," and will undoubtedly find ample opportunity to continue to merit the salary he draws.

Good Old Naptha

Writing recently to the Editor of the Tri-Town papers, our good friend and neighbor, Ralph E. Meras of Exeter, offers a timely suggestion to suffers from Athlete's foot, which does not require the purchase of any heavily advertised nostrum. Here is Mr. Meras' remedy. It sounds all right to us, but use it at your own risk.

"Athlete's foot," writes Mr. Meras, "is the cause of much suffering and inconvenience. I tried many recommended remedies. The last one, immediately effective, was naphtha (pure white gasoline.) Fold a strip of clean, white cloth, saturate with naphtha, apply to affected surface for a few minutes at a time before returning, or several times a day if possible."

BEG PARDON!

Despite an unusually large edition, the demand for copies of last week's Newmarket News was so heavy that the edition was sold out almost immediately. Newsdealers clamored for an additional supply, but they got every available copy we could allow them and that wasn't enough.

This week a still larger edition is being printed and we trust that nobody will have to go without.

LOADED LOGIC

The Letter Box

FROM MR. MERAS

Exeter, Aug. 20, 1942
Editor, Newmarket News:

I enclose a copy of a letter recently received from a well known professional man, formerly of Rockingham county and now residing elsewhere in the state, reflecting the re-action to my recent confession of faith in Prohibition and condemnation of both the Republican and Democratic parties as controlled by selfish interests. May I hope that you will publish it. My correspondent says:

"Can't your district beat that senator you had last election? He is with the booze crowd. Too bad; an educational town like Exeter, with all her fine schools, can't vote out booze. I like to read all of your pieces that I see in the papers. They are all good and tell some truth."

In a recent issue of the Manchester Union I noticed that the officials of the City of Concord have agreed to increase the fire insurance on the City's buildings by 70 percent.

In view of the fact that many cities and towns throughout the country have been taking their own risk of less by fire for a great many years and have found the savings to be from 25 to 95 percent, averaging, I understand, savings of at least 75 percent, this action seems senseless, to speak mildly.

Some years ago I wrote to the Clerks of cities and towns in New Hampshire asking for the amounts paid for insurance and amounts received for losses. The replies indicated that now over five dollars was received for one hundred paid out. Nashua had had an exceptionally large number of costly fires in a period of twenty-five years—by far the most of any city in the State and yet had received only about half as much as paid out.

The town of Exeter has not received one cent on the dollar it has paid out for fire insurance on its public buildings yet the collusion of politicians with the insurance interests and the apathy and ignorance of the voters has resulted in the continuance of this extremely wasteful policy.

The State does not insure its buildings nor does any other state that I know of, though there may be one or two where politics is so corrupt that it is done.

What a farce is all this talk of economy and patriotism when there is so much extravagance and corruption. Our way of life doubtless is better than in most countries; but there certainly is ample room for improvement.

RALPH E. MERAS.

MR. D'AMOURS WRITES STATE OF NEW HAMPSHIRE Attorney-General Concord

August 19, 1942
Mr. William J. Welpley, Editor
The Newmarket News
Newmarket, N. H.

Dear Mr. Welpley:

Your edition of August 14 last in which you took a stand in favor of my candidacy for Acting Attorney General has just been brought to my attention. I want to thank you for the same.

It was very kind of you to appraise so favorably the merits of my candidacy. Now that the fight is over, I shall return to my last.

Very truly yours,

Editor Caught In Portsmouth Air Raid Test

Sherman knew his stuff. What he said about war was amply proven last Monday, when the first daylight air raid test was carried out at Portsmouth, just about noon-time.

The editor of The Newmarket News was making his weekly calls in the Port city, having just driven in from Exeter. Parking down near the post-office, he started his rounds. He got as far as Sessions' Music and Record store on Daniels street, when—
WHEEEEEEE!

Mr. Sessions dashed to the door and locked it. He warned his clerks to stay away from windows. In a moment, Daniels street was deserted. So we huddled there for the 23 minutes of the test and then the all-clear sounded.

The test was a complete success. City Marshal Hewitt and Chief Air Raid Warden Frank J. Massey of the George B. French department store, were in accord that the Portsmouth public is on the alert, and that complete co-ordination can be expected in the event of a genuine enemy attack.

Newmarket POLISH CLUB Notes

A couple of mysteries developed this week to engage the attention of the members of the Newmarket Polish club, and the amateur detectives of the organization are busily seeking to solve them.

One problem was who stole a large chunk of roast beef at a local boarding house, and left some circumstantial evidence under the bed in the room of a former member of the club. The boys at the club are advising Eugene to keep his door locked hereafter.

The second mystery involves the loss of a valuable article owned by one of the assistant stewards, which disappeared from the club rooms one night recently. He is reported to be much concerned and it was learned that as soon as the theft was reported, the club detective, George Watson, was assigned to the case. He expects to get to the bottom of the matter without undue delay.

Several of the Polish club members now in the armed services were week-end visitors at the rooms on Central street. Among them was Pvt. Logen Biskup, located at Camp Edwards, Mass., who was making a brief visit to his mother at her home on Epping road.

Pvt. Alphonse St. Hilaire of the same Bay State camp, was likewise a week-end caller.

The members also greeted Sgt. Chester Kruczek, son of Andrew Kruczek, prominent Newmarket grocer. Young Kruczek is a former treasurer of the club who entered the Army last April. Recently promoted to a sergency from the rank of corporal, he is stationed at Camp Niantic, Conn.

From far away Pope Field, Fort Bragg, N. C., came Corp. Albert Picush, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Picush of Durham Point road, who is home on a short furlough.

A card was received from Pvt. 1st Class Walter Lizak, now at Hunter Field, Savannah, Ga., announcing that he has been advanced to the rank of corporal.

Walter Olsanoski, Newmarket business man, who also has establishments at Lowell, Mass., Rochester and Meredith, took his final Army examination at Portsmouth last Wednesday.

Stanley Sopol, employed at the Pratt & Whitney airplane plant at East Hartford, Conn., a former Newmarket boy, writes that he paid a visit recently to Sgt. Chester Kruczek at Camp Manter, Conn.

Steward George Gorchmal remarked that the members are wondering why "Pap", the club cribbage expert, thumbed his way home from Portsmouth the other morning.

John (Porky) Pohopek left his position at the Sam Smith shoe shop Monday to accept a job as machinist's helper at the Portsmouth Navy Yard. He has been employed as an edge trimmer. Pohopek left for Portsmouth on Monday.

Miss June Sopol, now employed in a secretarial capacity at Worcester, Mass., spent the week-end at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sopol of South Main street, Newmarket.

Ernest Dutka of Newmarket, has enlisted in the Marine corps and will leave for Farris Island on August 24. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Dutka of Spring street.

Leo Lavole of Newmarket, has also enlisted in the Navy and will leave for active duty on August 25.

Mrs. Adolph Pohopek of Newmarket, was tendered a party Sunday at the home of her mother, Mrs. Mary Lubinska of Birch street, Manchester. She received numerous birthday remembrances.

Word has reached the club that Joseph Merick, who has been stationed at Camp Devens, Mass., has been sent to an undetermined destination.

NEWMARKET SERVICEMEN'S RECORDS SOUGHT BY LEGION

Members of the American Legion know from experience that complete and accurate records of service in the armed forces can be of great value to the service man in days to come. Therefore the American Legion post is anxious to help the present servicemen by acquiring a complete history of each man in the service—army, navy marine corps, or coast guard.

Every accident, wounding, hospitalization, promotion citation, or other order affecting the individual should be recorded insofar as possible. With this idea of helping the servicemen to maintain a record of their service, we of the American Legion are planning to keep as complete a record as possible of every service man from the towns of Newmarket, Newfields, Lee and Durham.

If you have a member of the family in the armed forces (or it may be that the service man himself will read this) will you kindly fill in the form below and send to the historian, Robert G. Durgin Post, American Legion, Newmarket, N. H. He will thank you for the information and you servicemen will thank him later for keeping your history in readily accessible form.

GRANGERS AT EXETER HOLD BIG JUBILEE

With Miss Ida Hayes, the only surviving charter member, cutting a three-decker birthday cake, Gilman grange, P. H., celebrated its golden jubilee at its Exeter quarters Tuesday night. Miss Hayes, who was the particular guest of honor, was given a Golden Sheaf certificate and a Garden Sheaf pin.

The Grange was instituted at reorganization exercises in 1892 and has been an active branch of the order ever since.

More than 15 other granges were represented at the exercises as well as numerous officials of the New Hampshire State grange.

Silver star certificates for 25 years' membership were presented to James A. Tufts, Jr., Louise Benoit, George Gooch, William L. Hilliard, Lester E. Williams, Joana Irvine, William Irvine, Gladys Rowe, Margaret Sanborn, Gertrude Stevenson and Laura Wadleigh.

Silver star pins for continuous years of service were presented to Agnes Brown for 43 years, Jeanette Chase, 42, and Omer S. Rowe, 38 years.

The granges represented were Rockingham of Epping, Kennebrough of Brentwood, Winnicut of Stratham, Piscassic of Newfields, Newington, Lamprey River of Newmarket, Mountain Laurel of Northwood, Fremont, Rochester, Newton Junction, Nutfield of Derry, Goffstown, Kensington and Northfield, Vt.

Refreshments were served under the direction of the committee in charge consisting of past masters, Pauline Scammon and James A. Tufts, Jr., Lecturer Annie Conner and Mrs. Omer S. Rowe.

Heading the visiting State grange officials were Master William J. Neal of Meredith; Sec. Scott W. Eastman of Goffstown, Lecturer Charles W. Eastman of Kensington and Lady Assistant Steward Agnes Greenwood of Kensington.

Other guests were Deputy Joseph Parks of Stratham, Clarence H. Rumford, master of Piscassic grange of Newfields, Charlotte Day, master of Mountain Laurel grange of Northwood and F. W. Pease, master of the Newington grange.

Exeter Items . . .

Miss Carolyn Nash of Brockton, Mass., has been appointed teacher of English and geography at the Exeter high school, succeeding Miss Marion McDowell, resigned.

Retired since 1937 after serving 30 years in the United States Navy, Carl W. Stoddard, formerly of Exeter and Durham, is back in the service as chief boatswain. He is at the Portsmouth Navy yard.

Services Sunday at the Phillips Exeter summer session were conducted by Rev. John Bean, rector of the Old Farms school at Avon, Conn.

Lee Dotson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Dotson of Front street, Exeter, who has been a corporal at the Basic Flying school of the Army Air Force at Greenville, Mass., has been promoted to the rank of sergeant.

The funeral of Mrs. Emma J. Stevens, 97, oldest resident of Exeter, was held last Friday with burial was in the Exeter cemetery. Services at the Brewitt funeral home were conducted by Rev. William J. Davis of the Methodist church. Mrs. Stevens, who died at North Hampton, had resided in Exeter on Highland street and Portsmouth avenue.

Entering the officers' training corps at Harvard university, Harry Cournotes, who has been an instructor in commercial subjects at Exeter high school, has resigned from the faculty.

Fish Take Cover As "Mike" Plans Newmarket Trip

Great Bay, Oyster river and other tributaries in and around Newmarket are in for a wonderful going over.

Margos Mardigian, operator of Mike's lunch on Tarrytown road in Manchester, and one of New Hampshire's most faithful followers of Isaac Walton, is preparing to invade these precincts and see what's in the water.

Mike simply cannot resist the lure of the bait can and fish line. He has been hereabouts often in the past, and says he gets plenty of enjoyment whenever he fishes the neighboring streams. He has a camp at Squam Lake where he also takes plenty of the finney tribe, but he says he likes this region fully as well.

CHURCHES GET BEQUESTS IN LYMAN WILL

Three Exeter churches, Phillips Exeter academy and the Exeter hospital receive bequests by the terms of the will of Mrs. Emma Brown Lyman, resident of the town for 30 years prior to her death in July, it was disclosed following a special session of the Rockingham county probate court.

Mrs. Lyman's estate was estimated at approximately $135,000. The Episcopal, Baptist and Congregational churches were each given $300, and a like amount goes to Phillips Exeter academy. Income from the later fund is to be used for the purchase of flowers in memory of Mrs. Lyman's mother, Anne M. Brown, every Easter Sunday.

Also in memory of her mother, Mrs. Lyman bequeathed $2000 to the Exeter hospital for the establishment of a free room.

Executors of the testament are Dr. and Mrs. Arthur G. Leacock. It was executed on April 18, 1938. Mrs. Lyman formerly occupied the Otis residence on Front street, but in 1930 she purchased the Lucy Bell estate, where she made her home up to the time of her death.

Hold Murphy Rites Today At Exeter

Funeral services for William H. Murphy, 79, for more than half a century a resident of Exeter, were held this afternoon at the Advent Christian church. Mr. Murphy, who died at his Water street home last Tuesday evening, was a retired carpenter and janitor of the Hall Place school.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Lulu M. Murphy; a son, Herbert O. Murphy; three daughters, Miss Christine L. Murphy, Mrs. Winifred H. Johnson and Mrs. Mabel L. Rinfret, all of Exeter; three sisters, Mrs. Sarah Dow of Seabrook, Mrs. Margaret Glynn of Detroit, Mich., and Mrs. Kate Howe of Exeter; and seven grand children.

Eagles To Have Annual Bake At Rodier's Farm

Lamprey aerie, 1934, F. O. E., of Newmarket, will conduct its yearly clambake and outing at Rodier's farm on the Epping road Sunday, August 30. Kenneth White is chairman of the general committee, and is being aided in arrangements by a group of 15 other members.

There will be sporting events for both man and women, with suitable prizes for the winners. Eagles from nearby towns and more distant points are expected to swell the attendance.

YOUTH PARLEY PLEDGES HELP IN WAR WORK

The four-day Youth Institute at the University of New Hampshire in Durham, attended by over 250 boys and girls from all parts of the state, closed last Saturday, with the young folks solemnly pledging themselves to devote less time to play and more hours to their part in the war effort. They will engage in the production of Victory gardens, Red Cross work, the purchase of war defense savings stamps and particularly scrap collection.

The part of youth in post-war planning was discussed at length at the final session, and a comprehensive 4-H club program for 1943 was outlined. The club members decided to conduct their meetings after school as a means of saving transportation. The members also agreed to walk rather than ride whenever possible, and to safeguard their health by correct nutrition and proper exercise.

Winners in the junior clothing contest, picked Friday afternoon, were: Leona Buxton, Milford, best wool outfit; Louise Rounds, Berlin, and Phyllis Joselyn of Laconia, tied for top honors in the school costume division; Bernice Rounds, Berlin, best school dress; Bernice Gould of Concord and Olive Prescott of Berlin, tied for first place in the party dress division, with honorable mention also going to Elizabeth Currier; and Dorothy Brewster of Wolfeboro, first place in the "best" dress division.

In the concluding session Saturday morning, the subject of what youth should do now to prepare for the postwar world was discussed, first in group meetings and then in a general assembly. Group leaders were Theresa Carter, Lebanon; Harold Aldrich, Lisbon; Myrtle Hight, Warren; Kenneth Wolfe, Fenacook; John Whitney, Plainfield, and Frank Smith, Claremont.

Durham Items . . .

The University of New Hampshire Extension Service has announced the appointment of Miss Ruth Geneve Stimson of Dover, as home demonstration agent at large as of September 7. She will succeed Miss Ruth Smith of Barrington, who has been transferred to a similar post in Carroll county.

A recital was given Tuesday evening at the UNH by Caballero, noted Chilean pianist, in connection with the Summer Opera school. The famed musician, who has toured North and South America and European countries, was well received by an appreciative audience.

Entering a new field, Perley F. Ayer, rural organization and recreation specialist of the UNH, left Durham last Saturday to undertake agricultural and extension work at Pleasant Hill academy in Tennessee. He will start his new duties on September 1.

Co-ordinator Arnold E. Hanson of the Engineering Defense and War Training courses at UNH, announced this week that over 1600 persons have received training in war industries at the Durham university since these courses were instituted in January of last year.

Rosalie, Dover Cow, Sets Record

(Special Dispatch)

Peterborough, Aug. 20—A new record exceeding the average of the Guernsey breed for her age and class has just been completed by a two-and-one-half year old cow, Great Elm Rosalie 660376 of Dover, tested and owned by A. J. Young.

Her official record supervised by the University of New Hampshire and announced by the American Guernsey Cattle Club, is 12731.7 pounds of milk and 6617.6 pounds of butter fat, class FF.

Youth Club Picnic Supper Tomorrow

Mrs. Ruth S. Ham of Rochester, county 4-H club agent, has announced that the Strafford County

Youth Club will hold a picnic supper at Milton Three Ponds tomorrow night, when there will also be a report on the recent Youth Institute at the University of New Hampshire.

Announcement was also made by Mrs. Ham that Natalie Graves, 15, and Barbara Bowen, 14, both of Somersworth, were adjudged the best team in the state in making baking powder biscuits at the Youth Institute. Marion Henderson of the Chestnut Hills group placed second in the canning judging.

Lecturers At Grange Session

Rochester Grange observed Presiding Lecturers' Night at a meeting in the Grange Hall last Saturday evening, with State Lecturer Charles Eastman of East Kingstons as acting master and State Secretary Scott Eastman of Manchester as acting secretary. The acting lecturer was Mrs. Lottie B. Farnsworth of North Rochester, lecturer of the Eastern New Hampshire Pomona Grange.

The remaining stations were filled by lecturers from 13 other granges, and they also furnished the program for the meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl York headed the refreshments committee.

Her Idea of It

An elderly woman was visiting a ranch in Wyoming, and, on noticing a lasso coiled up on a cowboy's saddle, she inquired what it was used for.

"We use that for catching cattle and horses," came the reply.

"Indeed," retorted the woman, "and what do you use for bait?"

That Extra Something!

...You can spot it every time

ON the campus or off, Coca-Cola has that extra something that rates with youth. That's why Coca-Cola—a long-established product—belongs to the younger set year after year. Choicest, special ingredients and special care in its making, give Coca-Cola a special refreshing taste and quality.

This unique taste comes from a finished art in its making, unknown to others... a blend of flavor-essences merging the ingredients of Coca-Cola into a taste all its own. And it leaves that unmistakable after-sense of refreshment that everybody recognizes... and welcomes.

It's natural for popular names to acquire friendly abbreviations. That's why you hear Coca-Cola called Coke. Coca-Cola and Coke mean the same thing... the real thing... "a single thing coming from a single source, and well known to the community".

Coca-Cola 5¢

The best is always the better buy!

"Let's go see if the Coke's in", and off they troop to enjoy youth's ritual of refreshment... a custom particularly "special" in these war days when there's less Coca-Cola.

SEANEY RITES HELD IN MAINE AFTER SUICIDE

Funeral services were held in Augusta, Me., for Maurice L. Seaney, 27-year-old textile mill worker, who committed suicide by hanging in the cellar of his home on Main street in East Rochester, Monday, after what the widow said was his third attempt to end his life. It was reported to investigators that the suicide followed a quarrel which occurred over the week-end while Seaney and his wife were visiting at the home of the latter's mother in Augusta, Me.

Mrs. Seaney, who is 22 years old, said she hitch-hiked back to East Rochester, Sunday night, after the alleged dispute, and her husband returned Monday morning, when the argument was resumed.

She said Seaney started to drink a can of oil, which he picked up near the stove, but she knocked it from his hands with the advice "not to be foolish."

Later, when her husband failed to return within reasonable time from a trip downstairs, where he said he was planning to do some work, Mrs. Seaney started to investigate and found the body hanging in the cellar. A rope had been thrown over a beam, with one end tied to a doorknob and the other placed around the victim's neck.

City Marshal Ralph V. Gould and Patrolman Charles Levesque of the Rochester police department were called to the Seaney home at about 11:50 a. m. State Trooper Frank D. Manning also went to the scene and Medical Referee Dr. Forrest L. Keay of Rochester pronounced death due to suicide by hanging. Dr. Keay estimated the man had been dead about one and one-half hours when his body was found.

Mrs. Seaney blamed jealousy for the three attempts which she claimed her husband had made to commit suicide. She said he slashed his wrists once and on another occasion drank iodine.

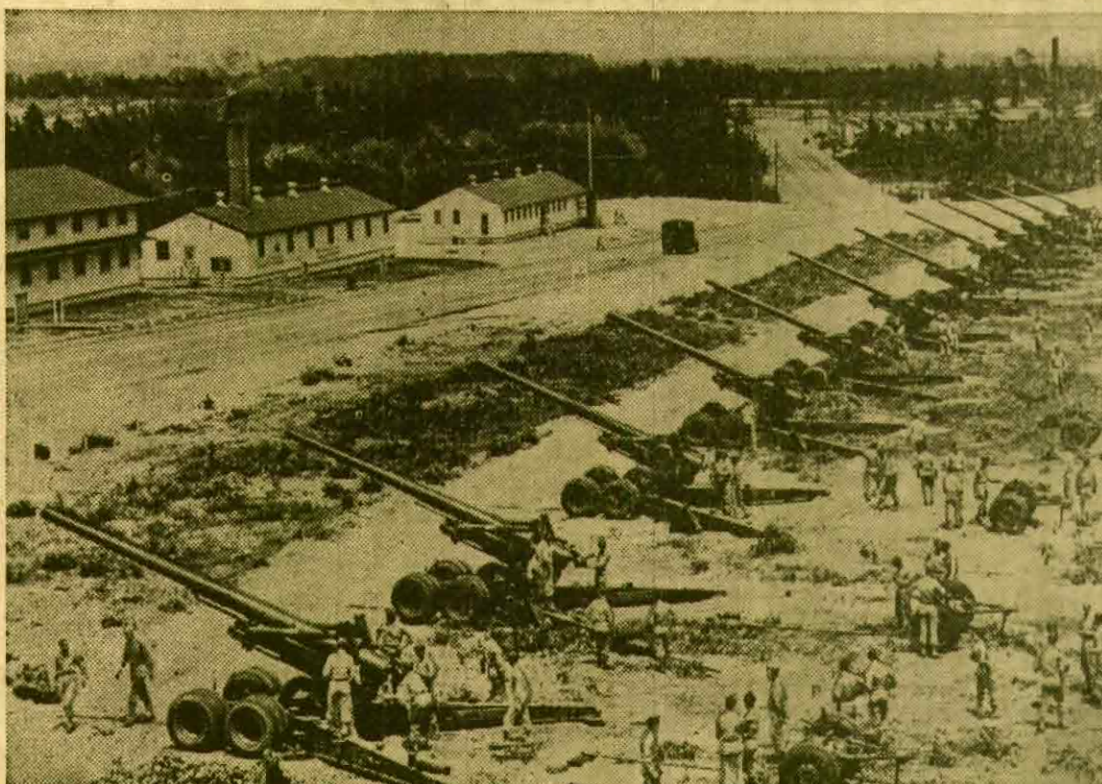

The body was removed to the funeral parlors of R. M. Edgerly & Son in Rochester and then sent to the Knowlton & Hewin funeral home in Augusta, where funeral services were conducted.

Seaney, who was born in Corinna, Me., had been working in the card room of an East Rochester mill.

Besides the widow, survivors include his mother, Mrs. Ivan Seaney of Augusta; a brother, Ivan Seaney of East Rochester; three sisters, Mrs. Irene Beamis of Dover-Foxcroft, Me., Mrs. Kathleen Buzzell of Newport, Me., and Mrs. Gladys West of Corinna, Me.

Guns Lined Up for Inspection at Fort Bragg

These 155-mm guns shown at Fort Bragg, N. C. represent some of the heaviest hitting power of the Army. They are not in firing position, but are drawn up for inspection by Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson. Col. Walter W. Hess Jr., is in charge of the Provisional Field Artillery Brigade. These guns have a range of more than fifteen miles. Many of the Army inductees from the Newmarket district are stationed at Fort Bragg and may be among those shown manning the guns above.

Former Postoffice Clerk Staying In Navy 'Igloo' With Brooklynites

Postmaster Harold D. Foss and employes of the Rochester post-office have received an interesting letter from Delmar Smith, formerly employed at the stamp window and now serving at the Naval Training Station in Newport, R. I.

The young man, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Smith, went into the navy about two weeks ago and writes that he likes the service very well.

He is quartered in one of the round tin shelters, known as "igloos," and most of his buddies are from Brooklyn.

Judging from his letter, the lads from the home of the Dodgers are pretty "tough gobs." One of them, he wrote, still carries a scar from his last fight, but is eager to get another leave so he can keep a date for two more impromptu engagements at fisticuffs.

MAGOON COULPE FETED ON GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY

An open house party marked the 50th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Magoon at their home on Highland street last Sunday. The former served four years as head of the Rochester police department and was once a baseball player in the New England, National and American Leagues. He is now 67 years old.

Mr. Magoon, a native of St. Albans, Me., and Mrs. Magoon, who was born in Lisbon Falls, Me., were married Aug. 16, 1892, in East Rochester, with the Rev. J. A. Wiggin, pastor of the Free Baptist Church, performing the ceremony.

Mr. Magoon began playing baseball as a member of the first grammar school nine organized in East Rochester, and by the time he was 15 years old, he was serving with the regular East Rochester team. Other members of that aggregation included Ora Quimby, pitcher; Arthur Winn, catcher; Milliken, first baseman, and Jack Gildea, outfielder.

He joined the Portland team of the New England League in 1887 as a third baseman and remained with that outfit for two years, after which he played for Brockton in the same circuit. He was bought by Brooklyn in 1898 and was given his choice of staying with Brooklyn as a sub or playing regularly with Baltimore. He chose Baltimore and went from there to the Chicago Cubs. He signed up with Indianapolis in 1900, when the American League was organized.

During the remainder of his colorful baseball career, Mr. Magoon was with Cincinnati in the National League, the White Sox, Toronto of the Eastern League, Des Moines in the Western League, Trenton in the Tri-State League and Savannah, Ga., in the South Atlantic League. After retiring as an active player, he produced a championship team as coach at the University of Maine in 1912 and 1913. In 1915, he was coach at the University of New Hampshire.

It was in 1917 that Mr. Magoon became city marshal of Rochester succeeding the late Charles Cook and serving until December, 1920, when William S. Davis was named to head the department. He still serves as a policeman at the Rockingham racetrack in Salem and is a special officer at Rochester Fair.

Mrs. Magoon is a member of the Rochester Emblem Club, Bethany Methodist Church in East Rochester and the Women's Christian Temperance Union, which she has served as president. Mr. Magoon is affiliated with the chapter and Blue Lodge of the Masonic order.

The couple have two sons, Kenneth Magoon, a Bridgeport, Conn., defense plant employe, and Malcolm Magoon, an employe of the Lane Construction Co. in Portland, Me., and exalted ruler of the Rochester Lodge of Elks.

'TOWN MEETING' PROGRAM TO GO ON AIR IN N. H.

The "American Town Meeting of the Air" program is coming to New Hampshire, and will be broadcast Thursday evening, Sept. 3, at 9 o'clock, by radio station WMUR from the Practical Arts High School auditorium in Manchester, according to an announcement by Atty. Justin A. Emery of Rochester, a member of the committee which is making arrangements for the important program.

Mr. Emery says this will give the people of New Hampshire not only an opportunity to see a nationwide broadcast in production, but also to participate by asking questions.

"What is Woman's Place in the War and Post-War Period?" is the subject that has been selected for the Manchester broadcast of "Town Meeting." Among the national figures in American life who will lead the discussion is Richard Frankenstein, United Auto Workers' aviation chief.

Prior to the regular broadcast at 9 p. m., a preliminary session will start at 8:15.

A limited number of reservation tickets which are free can be obtained at the office of Attorney Emery in the Michael Building. Mr. Emery says that he is endeavoring to have a section reserved in the hall up to a certain time for Rochester people.

The committee of civic leaders working with the management of WMUR for this "Town Meeting" broadcast includes: Mayor Wilfred A. Laflamme; Superintendent of Schools Austin J. Gibbons; Med. M. Chandler, Freeland H. Burrell, Onil O. Cote, E. William Bisson, O. Lee Hodgkins, William Partlan, Arthur Fournier, Maxwell E. Duck-off, Edwin A. Norton, Arthur E. Moreau, Albert E. Genest, Col. John I. Moore, Ralph W. Davis, Maurice F. Devine, John L. Barry, Frank J. Beliveau, Leo J. Manseau and Walter Duda, all of Manchester; Dr. John S. French of Northwood, Attorney Emery of Rochester; Labor Commissioner John S. B. Davie and Atty. Mayland Morse of Concord, Atty. Robert Hamblett and Louis J. Guillet of Nashua, Mayor Henry J. Proulx and W. Erle Goss of Franklin, Dr. Fred Engelhardt, president of the University of New Hampshire, and Doctor Leslie Sawyer, president of Colby Junior College at New London.

NAVY PLANT IN SOMERSWORTH IS DEDICATED

Nearly 2,000 employes and guests, including a number of workers from this section attended the dedication of the new Electrical Shop 37, Somersworth branch of the Portsmouth Navy Yard, last Saturday night.

During the program, Rear Admiral Thomas Withers, USN, commandant of the Portsmouth Navy Yard and former commanding officer of Uncle Sam's Pacific submarine division, gave an address in which he declared that the United States undersea craft are the best in the world. He said they had taken the offensive against the enemy right from the time of the Japanese attack upon Pearl Harbor.

Admiral Withers was less optimistic, however, on the length of the second World War, asserting that he expects it to be a long conflict, lasting possibly 10 years.

President Roosevelt sent a letter to the dedication officials, expressing regret that conditions made it impossible for him to accept an invitation to attend the event. The navy yard electrical manufacturing branch was established in Portsmouth while Mr. Roosevelt was serving as assistant secretary of the navy during the first World War.

Others from whom regrets at their inability to attend were received and read included Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox, Under Secretary James F. Forrestal, Assistant Secretary of the Navy Ralph A. Bard, Rear Admiral Alexander H. Van Keuren, Chief of the Bureau of Ships; Rear Admiral William B. Young, chief of the Bureau of Supplies and Accounts; Rear Admiral Wilson Brown, commandant of the First Naval District; Cmdr. Charles F. Grisham, former shop superintendent at the Portsmouth yard and commanding officer of Admiral King's flagship; Lt. Cmdr. Herbert L. MacBride, who had charge for the Navy Department of fitting out the new plant; John T. O'Brien of Portsmouth, first vice president of the New Hampshire State Federation of Labor and T. E. Cassey, principal engineer of the Bureau of Ships.

The speaking program got under way with addresses of welcome by Mayor Alfred J. Boucher and John F. Bemis, president of the Somersworth Chamber of Commerce. Greetings were also extended by Roland G. Bede, president of the Quarterman's and Leadingmen's association; Thomas F. Gamester, president of the Master Mechanics Association; Lt. Cmdr. Walter T. Eckberg, public works officer; Capt. G. C. Kriner, captain of the Portsmouth Navy Yard, and Capt. Andrew McKee, planning officer in the industrial department.

BROTHERS OF JONATHAN

A Novel by Marie Malmquist

CHAPTER 18 In The New Home

In the Stiles family all was excitement; had been, ever since Steve had brought the wonderful news. How could it be possible that THEY had something definite to look forward to. The death of Zeke had come like a thunderbolt from a clear sky to the ones at home, and the three girls cried as if their hearts would break. Zeke had been so splendid, they would miss him, and John solemnly declared: "Such another little black bundle of fun, frolic, and sense would never again cartwheel himself into their yard, for such a one could not be found." And Mary had added, "For all that Zeke was a lonely little boy."

Pap said very little. Anna was his delight, but he missed Zeke, he missed his humor and fun, his quaint sayings, and his deeply religious sentiment. Zeke's frequent hints about his "Mammy watching him," had gripped everybody about, and they gripped the harder now that he had gone. "To be with her," Pap reverently told them; and that he hoped soon to "be buried beside Zeke."

Incredulous John Stiles had a long talk with Mr. Simms. Was the offer genuine? Could he vouch for the sincerity of Sonny Barton? He could. Was the house big enough for his big family? Mr. Simms declared that it was. And what about the rent? The privilege of working the orchard as they were able to? No doubt about anything in reason. Mr. Simms had vouched for the Stiles as now he vouched for Barton. Everything had been arranged and everything was in readiness for their acceptance. Jim Grant was to see to the drawing up of all papers necessary for the one thing wanted—their signatures. Mary Stiles felt that at least, Fortuna had smiled upon them.

Thus it came to pass that a very happy family came to occupy the Barton house. Nothing like it had seemed likely to happen to them. Now, after they had moved into their new home, everything seemed possible. Joyful hearts make happy homes and the Stiles were happy.

It was late in the afternoon of the day when the family arrived. Everything had been left as it had been when the Bartons were alive. Even the clothing left by them was there. There was nothing for the newcomers to do but take possession, and this they did. There were not enough beds, but the boys said that the hayloft was good enough for them to sleep in, and board beds were easy to make; filled with hay they would do for winter in the house. The three girls and the younger boys had ample room and there were attic rooms that never had been used. What fun it would be to fix things up. The horses were loosed in the pasture behind the barn. The cow in the barn had been milked. Jenkins was there to see that all was in shape for the family.

They set about getting supper. Plenty of provisions were there. One of the girls made biscuits, there was a jar of jam on a shelf in the pantry. There was some butter left over in their lunch basket, and there was the mornings as well as the evenings milk. Tea and ginger cookies made a fine finish to their first meal in the new home. They ate their supper in high glee, but after all had been satisfied there was silence.

The mother was the first one to speak. "We ought to go down on our knees, and thank God properly for all this," she said. "And why don't we?" came from Doug. "Yes, yes, yes, why don't we?" was chorused all around. John looked in awe at wonder at his flock. "I say, why don't we?" came again from Doug. With one accord they knelt beside their chairs.

John Stiles thought he didn't know how to pray. At first words would not come. Then he began, haltingly at first; then realizing what it would mean to his children should he fail them now, he waxed eloquent. He thanked God in a manly way for all good gifts he had received at His hands, for his devoted wife, for his seven splendid sons, and for loving daughters. And for this latest gift,—a house of refuge and a chance to make good. A faint "Amen," came from the family. Then they rose. Steve was the first to speak. "Father, did you really think so well of us in Vermont?" "I don't know, Steve; I don't think I realized how much you all mean to me until I heard what Doug said a few minutes ago," he replied. "But that cinched it, I think I fully appreciate my family now, and that is a fact."

The memory of that prayer stayed with the children through life, and a decade or so later, when Douglas Stiles, as a newly ordained Minister of the Gospel, and in a church of his own, preached his first sermon, he had for his subject, "What ye have done unto these, the least of my brethren, ye have done unto Me." And next to his thoughts for the Master his inmost soul went out in gratitude to Sonny Barton.

John Stiles had prayed fervently and right. The boys were his glory. The girls were his joy. He lived to see them grow up likeable and lovable, sensible and resourceful, a cheery bunch, as one neighbor expressed himself after a visit with the Stiles.

And the orchard! How the boys and girls revelled in buds and blossoms, fruit unripe and ripe. The horses grew sleek and glossy under the trees in early summer, and the cider mill by the brook had a goodly lot of apples from their orchard to "grind" in the Fall. The whole family prospered. Talk about "the mills of God"; John Stiles thought there had been no slow grinding where his family had been concerned.

"There can be no happier family on God's earth than ours," he declared to Mary. And she had most heartily agreed with him.

Newmarket Items . . .

While summer services are being held in the vestry, the executive board of the Newmarket Community church are having the main auditorium redecorated and a new finish applied to the floor. New aisle carpets will also be laid.

A canning demonstration was being given today in the Community church vestry at Newmarket for club members and women of the district by Miss Martha Garland, featuring sugar substitutes. A party of six Newmarket folks who went out last Saturday on a deep sea fishing cruise returned with 50 pounds of fine fish. The party included William Ham, Mr. and Mrs. George Phalen, Miss Henrietta Ham, Miss Ruth Ham and Robert Carmichael.

Miss Ruth Ham of Newmarket, is spending a vacation of several weeks with her grandmother at Packers Falls.

Personal

The bad boy of the class kept asking silly questions. The master kept his temper until the youngascal asked: "How long can a onkey live without brains, sir?" The master's chance had come. "Wait and see!" he snapped.

Raphel Finds Army "Swell"

His letter reads in part:

Dear Ben:

Feeling fine and hope this finds everyone at home the same. I received your letter a few days ago and was glad to get it. I could always depend on you for interesting items about Newmarket and you came through like a major.

I think if it wasn't for receiving mail, half of this Army would have deserted before now. Newmarket must be quiet right now, with so many of the boys away in the service, and also this gas rationing. Believe me, I don't exactly envy folks at home.

My first two months in the Army were swell. I was down in Virginia and time went by rapidly. New England lads, basic training and so forth made everything pleasant.

But now I'm located in a Regular Army camp where we are all supposed to be hardened veterans. In the three weeks I have been here, my company hasn't done a bit of work and there isn't much to look forward to. Word has it that my outfit will be out of here by September 6. I hope so. Southern hospitality is sure lacking in the neighboring cities around here.

The weather is very cold right now. I never thought I'd be wearing heavy underwear in August, but it sure is cold here mornings. My company is made up of mechanics and truck drivers and is a heavy maintenance unit. I'm stock room clerk, in charge of tools and parts; a grave job is there ever was one. I'm putting on weight all the time. I imagine its due to the regular hours of sleep I'm getting.

I'm due for a furlough pretty soon and I hope to be able to let loose some of this pep, vim and vigor that I've been saving up for the last four months. One thing the Army has done for me is to make me appreciate my home very much. That's about all for now. With best regards to all and hoping to hear from you again real soon. I assure you again that all the news about Newmarket is deeply appreciated.

Sincerely yours,
BOB RAPHEL

Wheeler Wins Confirmation

was also the choice of Atty. Gen. Kenison. But when the show-down came, the three Republicans voted with the governor, and gave to the chief executive what The Manchester Union called his "fourth major major victory."

Only Temporary

The governor and his Republican backers laid heavy stress on the fact that Rockingham county has had little recognition, whereas Hillsborough county has had a lot, in the matter of appointments to state jobs. Neither the governor nor the three Republican councilors emphasized the fact that this particular appointment is merely a temporary one, and none of the four had any comment to offer concerning the merits and ability of the respective candidates.

Asst. Atty. Gen. D'Amours is a graduate of Harvard law school and one of the few New Hampshire attorneys holding the degree of L. Ld. His qualifications were freely admitted by every member of the governor's council, but it was indicated that, in this instance, as in the recent case of the ouster of Supt. of State Police Colbath, political expediency was of more account than actual ability.

Councilors Thomas A. Murray of Manchester, and William A. Molloy of Nashua, both Democrats, voted for D'Amours. Councilors George D. Roberts of Jefferson, Harold G. Fairbanks of Newport and Ansel N. Sanborn of Wakefield, all Republicans, supported the Wheeler candidacy. Both Roberts and Fairbanks expressed their willingness, according to the report of the session in the Manchester Union, to support the candidacy of D'Amours

"in other circumstances." Sanborn felt that he was obliged to support the candidate from his councillor district.

The attorney generalship has been a pivotal political plumb for some years past. The late "Tom" Cheney sought in vain to use it as a stepping-stone to the governorship.

Mr. D'Amours still holds his post as assistant attorney general and the betting is "two gets you ten" that he will carry the burden, of the department.

OBSERVATION POST WORKERS OFFERED CARS

An appeal made last Thursday by Forrest Davis of 17 Linden street, district chief of the AWS, brought response the following day from two public-spirited Rochester residents who were willing to donate the use of their automobiles so that the two observation posts in the city could be adequately manned in spite of the OPA ruling on gasoline rationing.

Mr. Davis stated, however, that further offers were desired, as there might be other residents who needed their machines to less extent than those who had already volunteered the use of theirs.

The original appeal stated that machines could be donated or sold at a reasonable price.

Following announcement of the OPA ruling, Mr. Davis, who is district commander of the American Legion and is in charge of aircraft warning posts in the Rochester district, took steps to assure continued manning of the important observation posts.

A number of observers in the Rochester area were reported to have sent protests against the OPA ruling to New Hampshire senators and congressmen in Washington. One observation post in the district, situated 12 miles from Central square, Rochester, was especially hard hit because volunteer observers were reluctant to consume their entire allotment of gasoline to travel back and forth for the civilian defense duties.

SAVED ONLY HIS UNDERWEAR WHEN LEXINGTON WAS SUNK

In a letter to a feminine relative back home, Charles Johnston, U. S. N., former Newmarket high school football, baseball and basketball star, writes graphically from Bremerton, Washington, of his experience when the Lexington was sent to the bottom.

Johnston, who also escaped when the Japs made their treacherous attack on Pearl Harbor, reveals that for the second time, he got away from the wreck of the Lexington with only his underwear and dungaree pants when he leaped overboard. He lost nearly $200 worth of gear in both the Pearl Harbor bombing and the sinking of the Lexington. His letter follows:

July 11, 1942

Dear Relative,

Have a breathing spell from all the rush so here goes with a line.

Have received your recent letters and as usual they were appreciated. At the present I am in Bremerton, Washington. Just arrived by train from San Diego and it was some trip. Took us 3 days and 2 nights and was quite a jump.

There is a possible chance I may get enough leave to get home and if I do, look out.

All us gobs off the Lexington have been taking it easy for a while and not a think to do but rest on our victories.

The people back here treat us like kings and it seems good to be back in the states again. June 2nd I landed on U. S. soil for the first time since Jan. 2, 1941, about a year and 6 months. It will soon be 2 years since I've been home and it seems like 10.

Berwick Autoist, Chased by Police, Fined As Speeder

Byron A. Tibbetts of Berwick, Me., was fined $25 and costs of $5.70 when he appeared before Special Justice Leonard C. Hardwick in Rochester Municipal Court and pleaded guilty to a charge of speeding. He was driving 80 miles an hour on Route 16 and was chased to Somersworth before being stopped, according to police.

Wilfred D. Grenier of R.F.D. 3 was fined $8 and costs of $5.70 after entering a plea of guilty to a charge of misusing plates. Investigating a car reported in the woods near Rochester Neck, police said they discovered one plate used on the machine by Grenier to go swimming had been issued to another resident.

Charged with operating without a license, Kathleen Holmstrom of Barrington was fined $8 and costs of $5.70.

ELKS TO HOLD GAME TO AID SERVICE FUND

The Army and Navy Relief Fund will receive the entire proceeds from a baseball game and field day to be sponsored by the Rochester Lodge of Elks on Sunday, Sept. 13.

It has not been definitely decided yet where the event will be held, but it will probably take place either at Spaulding Field, Cold Spring Park or the Common, according to those making the arrangements.

It is hoped to have a Marine Band brought to Rochester to furnish music for the occasion, and the baseball game will be arranged by Tony Villanova, who has had much experience in lining up interesting diamond tilts in Rochester. Exalted Ruler Malcolm Magoon will toss out the first ball to get the game going.

Orville C. Durocher will serve as general chairman of the benefit event.

Muddled

—An old rattly-bang car was carrying three slightly deaf gentlemen through a London suburb.

"Is this Wembley?" said the first. "No, this is Thursday," said the second.

"So am I," said the third. "Let's stop and have a drink."
