Aged Father Of Missing Woman Ends His Life By Suicide At Dawn

Newmarket Beats Gun In Junk Drive

PHELPS LAID AT REST BACK IN HOME TOWN

The curtain fell on the second act of Newmarket's first double tragedy in recent years with the burial Wednesday at Brewer, Me., of Fred Crosby (Phelps), 81, who ended his life last Sunday at dawn by shooting himself through the mouth.

Despondency over the recent disappearance of his 55-year-old daughter, Mrs. Blanche Loring, who vanished on Friday, August 14, taking with her $1000 in bonds and $10 in cash of his possessions, was said to have been the cause of Phelps' suicide.

Aroused by the discharge of a pistol at daybreak, Charles Robertson, at whose home Phelps had been residing for several months past, rushed to the lawn and found Phelps prone on the ground in a pool of blood. He had evidently died instantly.

Had Ample Funds

Chief of Police John A. Gordon and Sheriff Simes Frink of Portsmouth, conducted an immediate investigation. Loss of his bonds by their theft at the hands of his daughter had by no means left Phelps broke, as several hundred dollars—rumor had it up to $2000—in currency was found on his person when the clothing on the body was examined.

Those who knew him well are convinced that he was broken-hearted and chose death by shooting to terminate his sorrow.

Funeral services were conducted Tuesday afternoon at the undertaking establishment of Brown and Trottier in Newmarket. The officiating clergyman was Rev. H. A. Hangen, pastor of the Congregational church at Durham. Services were simple and private with only relatives and intimate friends attending. Chief mourner was Mr. Phelps' other daughter, Mrs. Esther Giovamiello of Waterbury, Conn., who came to Newmarket immediately and made arrangements for the funeral.

Old Time Pals

Meet Once More After 25 Years

Walter Varney, and Gus, Lupine were old time neighbors in their youthful days in Farmington. Gus came to Newmarket a quarter of a century ago and has been here ever since. He is now employed at Willey's restaurant in Newmarket.

Varney went to Alton and is now employed as a carpenter in Durham. He has taken an apartment in Newmarket, however, and the other day he dropped into the eating house and had a reunion with his old townsman Gus. Both had an enjoyable time, talking over former days.

EDITORIAL

WHY MURPHY CROSSED THE ROAD

Back about a decade ago, "Al" Smith, five times Democratic governor of New York—and in the opinion of millions of residents of the Empire State, one of the best, if not the best, chief executive that huge commonwealth has ever had—decided to "take a walk."

Not so long ago, the Republican party nominated at Philadelphia, as its candidate for the Presidency, Wendell L. Willkie, who at the time was a registered Democratic voter in a Southern state.

At that same convention a number of misguided, so-called leaders of the GOP, headed by red-haired John Hamilton, sought to read

Blackout Alarm Finds Newmarket Townsfolk Ready

The blackout siren blared just before 10 o'clock in Newmarket last night and a moment later the town was in complete darkness.

Civilian defense officials expressed entire satisfaction with the response of the townsfolk to the surprise statewide alarm.

Viewed from a vantage point at the Hotel Willey, the editor of the Newmarket News found occasion to agree that the blackout was immediate and absolute. Lights in homes and business places were extinguished practically simultaneously when the first blast of the warning signal sounded, and stayed extinguished until the "all clear" blasts came about 25 minutes later.

During the period of darkness, this observer saw only two instances of faint illumination; one the flicker of a match behind a window where somebody evidently lit a cigarette, and the other the glow of a flashlight where someone was evidently climbing stairs to a second floor.

Campaigner Needs No Additional Gas

Undaunted by the gasoline and tire shortage, John Adams of Exeter, candidate for register of probate in Rockingham county, is making the rounds in the conduct of his campaign in an old fashioned buggy whose motive power is a husky horse. He hitches up each evening and gets over plenty of territory behind old Dobbin.

Union services of the Congregational and Baptist churches at Exeter were conducted Sunday by Dr. Ernest Calver of Boston. Next Sunday the preacher will be Rev. F. W. Swaffield.

TWO CHANGES IN PAROCHIAL SCHOOL STAFF

When St. Mary's Parochial school opens for the fall term on Tuesday, September 8, there will be two new faces on the faculty of eight nuns of the Order of Sisters of the Holy Cross.

The two new teachers will be Sister Mary of Saint Olive of the Sacred Heart and Sister Mary of St. Julia of Corsica. They will replace Sister Mary of Saint Reginald and Sister Mary of Saint Leon, both of whom have been transferred to other parishes.

Aged Fall River Man Regains His Health On Visit

David A. Clement, now in his 76th year, is spending the summer and fall as a guest of his sister, Miss Helen Clement, manager of a Newmarket store, at her home on Chapel street. Mr. Clement, a resident of Fall River, Mass., recently underwent a serious operation for ulcers of the stomach.

Due to his affliction, he lost more than 50 pounds in weight and says that few persons other than himself believed he could survive the ordeal. But he did so and came to Newmarket to recuperate. He is now able to get out and around and says that with proper food, good care and New Hampshire air, he expects ultimately to return to Fall River once more in the glow of good health.

Miss Jennie Marelli, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Marelli of Main street, Newmarket, is spending her annual vacation from her father's fruit store at Dover Point.

NEWMARKET TO CLEAN UP TOMORROW; ONE FULL DAY AHEAD OF STATE'S DRIVE

RUN NO RISK ON SABOTAGE IN NEWMARKET

Taking no chances on possible spies and sabotage, the Newmarket police took quick action this week when the first questionable character came to its attention.

Matti Rasi, 58, an alien claiming Finland as his native land, who has been employed for the last several weeks at a Newmarket lumber establishment, was sentenced Tuesday by Judge James B. Griffin in municipal court to 10 days at the Brentwood house of correction, pending a check-up on his activities.

Arrested on an ordinary charge of intoxication by Officer John Valliere at noon on Monday, Rasi was found to possess no certificate of alien registration, social security card, draft registration certificate or, in fact, any other documentary means of identification.

The alien gave a disconnected story when questioned by police, first stating that his home was in Berlin, this state, and later changing it to Troy. He claimed to have come from Finland, but so far as authorities could discover, he had never made any effort towards naturalization.

It was pointed out that this was an unusual instance of severity in the case of a first offender on a common drunk charge, but the police felt justified in putting Rasi away for safe keeping pending a more exhaustive check-up.

TWO WEDDINGS AT ST. MARY'S EARLY IN FALL

The open season on fall weddings in Newmarket will open on Saturday, September 5, when two marriages are scheduled to be performed in St. Mary's church and rectory.

Miss Doris Chapman of Kingston, will become the bride of Armand Lebeau at a service in the rectory. The prospective bride is employed at the Sam Smith shoe shop in Newmarket. Mr. Lebeau, also working in Newmarket, lives at Wadleigh's Falls.

In St. Mary's church, on the same day, the marriage of Miss Elizabeth Beaulieu to Gerald Deshoies, both of Newmarket, will take place.

HELPED CELEBRATE

In 1804 U. S. Marines helped New Orleans celebrate the first anniversary of the acquisition of Louisiana by the United States.

If even one bent and rusty nail survives the national scrap salvage campaign in Newmarket, it will not be the fault of the local salvage committee, the public safety group and the citizens of the community. Tomorrow, for the second time, trucks will scour the town and countryside, and by 5 o'clock in the afternoon, knocking-off time, according to schedule, Deputy Sheriff Ralph Berry predicts that the region will be as bereft of junk as Ireland was of snakes after St. Patrick got through.

For tomorrow is Clean-up Day for Newmarket and environs, so far as the scrap salvage drive is concerned.

In a proclamation issued last week and used as text matter by pastors in Newmarket and throughout the state on Sunday, Governor Blood designated the period of August 30 to September 7 as the New Hampshire SCRAP HARVEST time. On the day before, last Saturday, Newmarket's patriotic cohorts had been in action and had made the first collection of junk over a terrain covering 25 square miles.

Started Early

When the junk drive was first announced early this month, Newmarket's Minute Men swung into action. As reported in the Newmarket News two weeks ago, the kids led the procession and were even then collecting all the scrap within reach—and possibly some just out of reach. But they got it, as they usually do, and the elder folks went to work with equal vim.

So last Saturday eight trucks assembled at the Town Hall and set out at 8 o'clock on the first of two collection days, of which tomorrow is the second. Chairman Berry and Director of Public Safety Stewart S. Humphreys were personally in charge, assisted by a host of enthusiastic lads from Boy Scout troop 200, under its scoutmaster, Rev. J. Desmond O'Connor, and the Hi-Y boys and 4-H club members, both directed by Milton Kimball.

All day long, on one of the summer's most sweltering days, the trucks plied hither and yon. When quitting time came at 5 in the afternoon a most impressive pile of metal, rags and rubber had been out of that party, Col. Frank Knox and Henry L. Stimson because, for purely patriotic reasons, they had accepted portfolios in the cabinet of Franklin D. Roosevelt, a Democratic president.

To go back a bit further, Herbert Hoover, once a member of the cabinet of Democratic President Woodrow Wilson, took about four years to make up his mind whether he was a Democrat or a Republican. He finally decided he was a Republican and became president on that ticket, but nobody—not even Hoover—is bragging about the results.

These men are national figures.

Let's get a little closer to home.

The late United States Senator Henry W. W. Keyes started his career as a Democrat. He wound up as a Republican governor and an able supporter of the Granite state in the upper house at Washington.

Former Republican John H. Bartlett of Portsmouth has long since abandoned the party he first espoused.

Ex-Gov. John G. Wynant, a Republican executive of this state who served ably and well, is now ambassador to the Court of Saint James and has held other very vital commissions under the Roosevelt Democratic administration.

The list is interminable. This Editor has been from birth, and still is, registered as a Republican. But like many other self-thinking Americans, he reserves the right to vote according to his conscience and for the best available candidates for any office—national, state or local.

All this leads up to a question now before the people of New Hampshire and the New Hampshire Democratic party in particular—a question to be decided at the state primaries on September 15. That question is why did former Gov. Francis P. Murphy desert the Republican party?

In his initial announcement, Mr. Murphy tersely and clearly outlined his attitude, but political opponents in both parties have since sought to becloud the issue. We have no right to speak for the former governor, but we believe we are right when we say he quit the cadence into which it has fallen. We assume that he is in agreement with Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, the eminent head of Columbia University, a life-long Republican, who recently wrote in the New York Times, that "the Republican party is dead."

Mr. Murphy, like the illustrious Americans mentioned above, has a right to change his political affiliations if he sees fit to do so. He gave this state two of the most business-like administrations it has ever enjoyed. He is one of the largest employers of labor in the state. He is an industrialist who accomplishes what he undertakes to do.

It ill behooves snipers of small-time cali-

HON. FRANCIS P. MURPHY

WHY THE "H"!

There's that pesky "H" again.

For some years we have been studiously leaving it out of the name of Senator Style Bridges, ever since he indicated a desire to drop it from in front, like Thomas Woodrow Wilson and William F. Knox did before.

For even more years, we have been battling it in small letter form in our own name.

And in spite of it all, now comes a letter from Sec'y Neil Tolman of the Bridges-for-Senator committee, telling us of the selection of President Hopkins of Dartmouth, as its chairman, and Mr. Tolman actually addresses us as "Mr. William J. Whelpley."

Please, Mr. Tolman, me and Stiles are both alike to the extent that we don't like that "H."

Newmarket POLISH CLUB Notes

What a cheer arose when the members of the Newmarket Polish club read last week in The Newmarket News that Selectman Stanley Szacik had abandoned the field of industry to become a prospective merchant prince. A standing toast was drunk to Stanley in ginger ale and cola with a fervent hope on the part of his pals that the Bay road grocery store he has opened will click with a capital "K". (As "Pap" would say, do you "C"?)

Just in passing, don't get the idea that the Polish club was asleep in last week's intensive scrap collection drive. The club had a special committee of three active and husky members to represent it; namely, Adolph Pohopek, Paul Dutka and Rudy Hamel. The trio went out to Rudy's farm and combed it for plenty of metal. They came back with a ton of junk among which was a heavy, old-time mowing machine.

As usual, the war time spirit prevades the activities of the club. It learned this week that Mrs. Antonita Jablonski had received a cablegram from her son, Theodore Jablonski, announcing his safe arrival in Great Britain as a member of the American Expeditionary Force.

"Joe Pete" Indziniak is at his home in Newmarket, visiting his mother, Mrs. Catherine Indziniak of Lamprey street. "Joe Pete" is now stationed at Fort Wetherill, R. I. He visited the club over the weekend and returned to Rhode Island on Wednesday.

Among week-end visitors at the club rooms on Central street was Mrs. Mary Lubinski of Manchester, who was on a visit to her daughter, Mrs. Sophie Pohopek of Exeter street.

Greeting his fellow club members from Camp Allen, Norfolk, Va. Electrician's Mate Charles D. Burton, U.S.N., of Newmarket, writes:

bre to take pot shots at such a man, regardless of which party they may pay allegiance.

It also is flying in the face of fate for any political observer to put himself out on a limb and expose his chin in predictions that may be upset by events and circumstances of the future. But this writer has won a bit of a reputation for guessing 'em right on political affairs.

So we are going to predict that Murphy will get the Democratic nomination for United States Senator at the coming primary. He'll get it because he is the only logical man in the field to put up any kind of a contest against Senator Styles Bridges.

What happens at the polls on Election Day in November is entirely another matter. We'll take that up when we come to it.

—WILLIAM J. WELPLEY

Everything fine and its a great life.

Also this week comes word from Corp. Bernard Pelczar, a member of the club now at the Bomb and Gunnery Range at Muroc, Cal. that he has been promoted to the rank of Sergeant.

(Pvt. Harold Noel was another member now in the military service who dropped in over the week-end. Noel at present is at Westover Field in Chicopee, Mass.

Mrs. Celia Illingsworth and her sister, Miss Helen Sobozenski, prominent members of the women's branch of the club, spent the week-end at Old Orchard, Me.

Among the bright and social notes of the week was the announcement received by Chief Steward George Grochmal to the effect that Joseph Wadja, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wadja, formerly of Newmarket, will be married next Sunday in Boston to Miss Sonia Edna Sienczyk of Dorchester, Mass.

As a sign-off item for this week, the boys at the club are wondering whether the club will have a dark horse candidate for state representative in the coming primaries on September 15. Both Newmarket Democratic seats are unsought. Its even betting that one of the politically minded members of the club will get aboard in a sticker campaign. As we say below the border, Quien sabe?

LAMPREY AERIE DEFERS OUTING

The general committee on the annual outing of Lamprey aerie, No. 1934, F. O. E., of Newmarket, of which Kenneth White is chairman, decided at a meeting last night to postpone the annual clam-bake and outing from August 30, the original date, to Sunday, September 13.

The decision to advance the date was necessary in order to give the committee more time to prepare for the large attendance of out-of-town members and guests expected to attend. The outing will take place at Rodier's farm on the Epping road as originally announced.

cal staff and a large number of outstanding physicians make up the visiting staff members. JUNK needed for War

In the attics and cellars of homes, in garages, tool sheds, and on farms, is a lot of junk which is doing no good where it is, but which is needed at once to help smash the Japs and Nazis.

Scrap iron and steel, for example. Old radiators, lengths of pipe, refrigerators, garbage pails, broken garden tools...

It may be rusty, old "scrap" to you, but it is actually refined steel, with most impurities removed—and can be quickly melted with new metal in the form of pig iron to produce highest quality steel for our war machines.

Even in peacetime our Nation relied on scrap to provide about 50% of the raw material for steel. Now production of steel has gone up, up, UP, until today America is turning out as much steel as all the rest of the world combined.

But unless at least 6,000,000 additional tons of scrap steel is uncovered promptly, the full rate of production cannot be attained or increased; the necessary tanks, guns, and ships cannot be produced.

The rubber situation is also critical. In spite of the recent rubber drive, there is a continuing need for large quantities of scrap rubber. Also for other waste materials and metals like brass, copper, zinc, lead, and tin.

America needs your active assistance in rounding up these materials. The junk which you collect is bought by industry from scrap dealers at established, government-controlled prices.

Will you help?

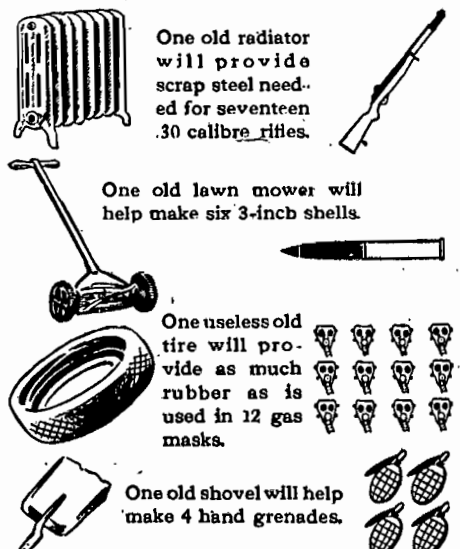

First—collect all your waste material and pile it up.

Then—sell it to a junk dealer, give it to a charity, take it yourself to the nearest collection point, or get in touch with your Local Salvage Committee.

If you live on a farm, consult your County War Board or your farm implement dealer.

Throw YOUR scrap into the fight!

JUNK MAKES FIGHTING WEAPONS

One old radiator will provide scrap steel needed for seventeen .30 calibre rifles.

One old lawn mower will help make six 3-inch shells.

One useless old tire will provide as much rubber as is used in 12 gas masks.

One old shovel will help make 4 hand grenades.

MATERIALS NEEDED

- Scrap iron and steel.
- Other metals of all kinds.
- Old rubber.
- Rags, Manila rope, burlap bags.
- Waste Cooking Fats—Strain into a large tin can and when you get a pound or more, sell to your meat dealer.
- NEEDED ONLY IN CERTAIN LOCALITIES: Waste paper and tin cans, as announced locally.
- NOT NEEDED at this time: Razor blades—glass.

wagon, the buggy and the carriage are coming back into their own. Both the farmers and the business men have felt this with the result that the horse is far from being superannuated. BILL COLE "STEALS SHOW" AT ROCKINGHAM GOP OUTING

State Senate President William M. Cole of Derry, Republican candidate for governor at the coming State primaries on September 15, all but stole the show at the annual field day and rally of the Rockingham County Republican club Wednesday at "Greengates" in Exeter. The Rockingham county gubernatorial aspirant delivered a forceful address in the interests of his candidacy and left a decidedly favorable impression on the 300 or more county members of the GOP who attended.

Practically all of the outstanding Republican candidates for major office addressed the gathering including Senator Styles Bridges, Cong. Arthur B. Jenks, Cong. Foster Sterns, Gov. Robert O. Blood and Chester E. Merrow of Ossipee, who is opposing Congressman Jenks in the first Congressional district.

Pointing out that in the last half century only one Rockingham county resident has held the office of governor, despite its long support of the Republican party, Senator Cole said:

Cole's Address
"For fifty years, my father supported the Republican Party in Rockingham County; supported it not only with money, but with actual hard, physical work; Rockingham County has always been the seat of Republicanism in New Hampshire. In many an election has the tide been turned when the final results from Rockingham became known.

"During the last 25 years, I have been carrying on in my father's footsteps. First as a selectman in the town of Salem. Later by serving on the budget committee of Derry. Then came one term in the Legislature, followed by five consecutive terms in the State Senate. These five consecutive terms constitute an all time record in the history of New Hampshire which has never been equalled. As you already know, I was honored during the last term by being elected as the President of the Senate.

"And how has our County of Rockingham been repaid? Do you people of Rockingham realize that during the last 50 years only one resident of our County has held the office of Governor? This year we have our chance. When the next opportunity will come, no one can know, but in the coming September primaries we have the chance to elect a man from our own county.

"It is needless to state that the man to whom I refer is myself. The only question that remains to be answered is, 'How much support will Bill Cole receive from his fellow Republicans of Rockingham County?'"

"I have in my hand a letter written on the stationery of the Republican State Committee. This letter was sent out by the secretary of a certain county committee, and in this letter is an endorsement of my opponent, Dr. Robert O. Blood. This is a perfect example of the evil to which I referred in a radio talk, wherein a party leader can cause unnecessary friction within the party thru interfering during a primary campaign.

"I maintain that the state committee, the county committee, and county committee, and the party leaders have a duty to the party, and that duty is to elect those candidates who are chosen by the people in the Primary election. How can we remain a Democracy when certain party leaders usurp the voters' right to choose, and try to make that selection themselves, and for their own purposes?"

Favors One Term
"Furthermore, I firmly believe that no man should try to hold the office of Governor for two consecutive terms. William C. Chamberlain, secretary to our present Governor, also shares that view. As I pointed out in a radio talk on May 19, 1941, since 1877 when we first began to elect a Governor biennially, only two men have served more than a single term.

"It is always difficult for a Governor of the Granite State to succeed himself. The future of the Governorship in this state will probably be one term instead of two. Honor and love of public service, rather than salary, seem to be the incentive for those who wish to become Governor.

"Our founding fathers agreed with this view, as the second Constitution of New Hampshire provided that no man could serve as Governor for more than three years in any seven.

"It is interesting to note our experience during World War I. Gov. Henry W. Keyes of Haverhill, elected for the years 1917-1919, found the task so exacting that he was disqualified by illness and the term was completed by Jesse M. Barton of Newport, President of the Senate, as Acting Governor.

"I have pledged myself, if elected, not to seek a second term, and that promise holds.

"Certain newspaper articles upholding my opponent, and stating that he is sure of reelection, have come to my notice. I wonder how many of you know that the writer of those articles, Harlan Pearson, is paid from our own state funds?

Phelps Buried In Home Town

She and her husband accompanied the remains to Brewer, Me., where interment took place on Wednesday.

Search Widens
Mr. Phelps was born in Brewer and for many years was employed as a surveyor of lumber in the forests of that part of Maine. He was well known in and around Bangor, where for years he was prominent in fraternal affairs, particularly the Odd Fellows. Only survivors, besides his two daughters are five grandchildren.

"The taxpayers' money is being used to promote the campaign of the present Governor.

"In my visits to various counties throughout the state, I have been pleasantly surprised by the strength of my support.

"During the last 50 years, Rockingham county has been represented in the Governor's chair for just one term, or 4 per cent of the time. In the meanwhile, Merrimack County has been represented for eight terms, or 32 per cent of the time.

"Don't believe for one minute that old hackneyed phrase about 'not swapping horses in the middle of the stream.' I have never seen a New Hampshire yet who wouldn't swap a horse at any time or any place as long as he got a better horse out of it."

Blood's Pledge
Governor Blood's speech constituted a pledge of a "continued policy of wise economy with due regard to the efficient administration of necessary state functions."

Meantime the search for the missing daughter has extended far beyond the confines of New England.

It is believed that she and the male companion she is known to have fled with, after leaving a suicide note as a blind, have reached a southern state. They are known to have left Newmarket by automobile, the woman taking all her clothing and a large black bag.

Clues indicating the couple may be in Maryland or Virginia were being traced today.

Cheese is a tasty protein food now in plentiful supply, that can help many a family fill out appetizing meals and still use less of the meat needed for our soldiers and allies.

BROTHERS OF JONATHAN

A Novel by Marie Malmquist

CHAPTER 19 A Letter

My Dear Son:—I take for granted that when you read this letter you are eighteen years of age. At that age a boy has become a man if, as in your case it has been, a shadow has been hanging over him as far back as he can remember. The sealed envelope beside this one is to be opened after you have read this.

First of all,—your name is like mine, Serge Harnoff, half Russian and half Austrian. My father was at one time a favorite of the Czar, and his real name may never become known to you. My mother was an Austrian lady, a Countess Harnoff, and my twin brother Vladimir and I took her name in order to hide our identity. There is no guilt attached to our right name, but we are in constant danger of the Czar's displeasure. God knows he has nothing to fear from us,— even if we are the sons of his half-brother. And we are not proud of the fact.

So, you see, circumstances made it advisable for us to take our mother's name, and you are, to all intents and purposes Count Serge Harnoff. Our estates are in the Ukraine, and our income is taken from them. Reliable persons are in charge there and regular amounts are sent to our New York lawyers to the credit of William Williams, or his son, William.

We, Vladimir and I, joined the Russian Black Sea fleet, at that time stationed at Sebastopol. After a short time my lung trouble began, and I was sent to Paris, transferred from active duty in the navy to a government position there. My brother remained in the navy until 1855, when Sebastopol was destroyed, and the fleet scattered. I have had no word from him since, and I do not know whether he is living or dead. At twenty-nine I married Anita V. in Paris, and three years later you were born. Soon after your birth she died, and I have never been able to shake off the illness that took hold of me after her death. I have never ceased to mourn her loss.

When you were three years of age we left Paris to come to the United States of America. My long continued illness made it impossible to go on with my search for Vladimir, and at this time you are too young to know what I hope and pray that you may do after you have read this—Continue the search faithfully. You will find instructions in the sealed envelope that you find with this letter. I have had one heart attack since I started this letter, and another one may soon follow.

I should have stated, that aside from your uncle Vladimir you have no living relative. There is a half-sister of my father and her two sons. They are both fine young men, older than you are, and not counted as relatives—for obvious reasons.

There name I do not know. Should you succeed in finding Vladimir my greatest wish would be gratified.

May God's blessing rest upon you, my dearly loved son. Do not fail me.

Signed: Count Serge Harnoff
What Came Of It?

On the third day after the funeral Jim Grant had a visitor. After meeting Jim it was but a short step to liking the cleanminded young Yankee, and Sonny found it no sort of a job to trust him; and he had need of a trusted friend in the plight where in he found himself after he had read his father's letter. After reading it he was conscious of a sense of disappointment over its contents. He saw no evidence of affection towards himself in the letter cited above, except in the last few lines. Important unfinished business had occupied nearly all of the short epistle. After the other letter had been read he changed his opinion. That had left him in no doubt as to his father's real feelings. There were tender references to his mother, a lock of her hair, a small ivory plaque, thin as a knife, with a profile of his mother engraved upon it, and a notice of her death in a Paris newspaper.

Also there were some family secrets disclosed. His mother had been barely mentioned before. Now the family history had been dwelt upon. The woman the older Serge had married in Paris was of French extraction, born in Austria, brought up in a town bordering on Russia. Her father had been involved in a quarrel, a duel followed, the other man was killed, and the man who had done the killing fled the country. The widow and her daughter moved to Paris. There Serge Harnoff had found Anita, fallen in love with her and married her shortly after their arrival.

Sonny had no knowledge of legal matters. Jim Grant had. Sonny had listened to a discussion of some technical point of law between him and Mr. Simms the day of the funeral, and Jim had convinced his hearers that he knew what he was talking about. That is why Jim Grant had a visitor on the 8th day of July in the year 1869.

But Jim had been less sure of his own legal ability after his talk with Sonny Barton. The young man's plea was too fantastic,—it was preposterous. He was only a boy after all and he would change his mind after he had grown older. Him giving away to strangers the fine property he had itely come to possess was not to be thought of. He, Jim Grant, would never let for Sonny in that capacity. Why,—that orchard handled well would be one man's worthwhile job, let alone a young fellow with Sonny's ability. Jim Grant would be dead against any such proposition, and he told him so.

Sonny insisted. Were the Stiles many children as clean cut as Steve, they deserved some encouragement. Jim said 'no', they had already been given a fair start in life, thanks to Sonny's generosity, with no handicap at all as far as Jim could see. It would be to the best interest of all concerned to let things be as they were. The transaction Sonny had suggested had in it the possibility of their undoing. Kindness stretched too far might prove a hurt instead of a help. Therefore he would not help in any way. Bar-deposited in the official, temporary junk pile in the railroad freight yard on the outskirts of the town.

Clean Up Junk Full Day Ahead

The outstanding piece of junk was an ancient safe, weighing a and a half, which was salvaged from the James Walker store in the town of Lee. The Newmarket committee had arranged with the selectmen of that town to pick up its junk if the town so desired, so Lee's scrap will go into the general junk heap at Newmarket again tomorrow.

Its All There

Every conceivable kind of scrap is piled high in the freight yard lot. There are bulky farm implements made of metal, such as out-moded mowing machines and horse drawn plows. There are discarded iron beds, old oil and water tanks, venerable stoves, metal children's play wagons, tons of metal pipe of all descriptions, iron wagon wheel tires, cast iron wash-tubs, and thousands of smaller items of iron, steel, copper and aluminum which in some way escaped the recent aluminum salvage campaign.

Down in the center of the town, at the Town Hall on Main street, there is another sizeable pile, where citizens have taken, and still taking, their individual scrap donations. Both piles are already of such dimension that it is a foregone conclusion that Newmarket will far exceed its quota of 15 pounds for every man, woman and child within its boundaries.

And by sunset tomorrow evening, the Newmarket clean-up will be complete—just 24 hours before the time set in Governor Blood's proclamation for the drive to start. Thus does Newmarket again attest its patriotism and maintain its reputation of keeping at least one jump ahead of the parade.

The highlight of the collection work tomorrow will be the dismantling and tossing into the junk pile of the historic cannon, located for years at the Durham cross-roads. This grim weapon was a relic of the first World War of 1917, and it has been turned into the general scrap collection by the Newmarket American Legion post.

While some citizens expressed regret that this old gun should follow into oblivion the ancient Elm tree at the other end of Main street, which was cut down a fortnight ago, the more patriotic element took the attitude that the gun base will remain, and that there will be another, and possibly more significant cannon, to replace it after Hitler Sam gets his cronies settled. Come and Get It!

So all the junk in town will be piled high tomorrow night, and all that will remain to be done will be to get it onto railroad cars and shipped to smelting plants. Newmarket's citizens who gave it, and who sweat plenty gathering it, unite in a common statement:

"Come and get it! Brave men shall not die because we falter!"

The committee aiding Messrs. Berry and Humphreys in the successful operation of the scrap drive included, besides Milton Kimball and Father O'Connor, Arthur LaBranche, Grover Kenison, Charles Kegal, Frank Schanda, and Alex Pelletier.

Assisting these were the "neighborhood leaders" under Agricultural Chairman Fred E. Doe. These comprised Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wright, Mrs. Annie Colby, Fred Durrell, Mrs. George Durrell, Mrs. Ralph Berry, Mrs. Norman Cilley, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Hanachol, Charles Brady, Mrs. Josephine Brady, Mrs. Edwina Bennett and Mrs. S. J. Williams.

Three Exeter men and one from Epping have been added to Rationing Board 8-2, Defense Chairman F. Leroy Junkins has announced. The Exeter trio includes F. Everett Winslow, Corning Benton and Dr. William D. Walker. Thomas Fecteau is the new member from Epping.

"GOOD-BYE, BOYS" SINGS POLISH CLUB AS FOUR MORE NEWMARKET LADS DON KAHKI

Seldom in the history of the American Citizens' Club of Polish Descent in Newmarket, has it staged a patriotic demonstration equalled by its "Send-Off" party of last Saturday night in honor of a quartet of Newmarket lads who left to day to take up arms, one in the Navy and the other three in the Army.

Solemnly was mixed with merriment as the spacious main auditorium was filled to capacity, with standing room unavailable, as the Polish club bade God speed to these valiant young defenders of freedom. A count of noses figured up to 125, not counting the committee and feminine workers who made the party to be.

Chairman George Grochmal of the general committee, expressed keen regret at the fact that between 50 and 75 persons had to be turned away because the full facilities of the organization were already overtaxed. This was added evidence of the interest of Newmarket citizens in its lads who are fighting to defend the American way of life.

The party was given in honor of these Newmarket boys who today discard mufti for the uniform:

Charles Miesowicz, John Grochmal and Walter Dziedzic, all of whom enter the Army, and Omer Langlois who joins the Navy.

At Devens Tonight

All of them will be bivouaced tonight at Fort Devens, Ayer, Mass., after a last leave-taking of their Newmarket loved ones this noon.

The party got under way shortly before 8 o'clock with Eddie Szacik as master of ceremonies. An old timer of the microphone, Eddie kept things moving with neatness and dispatch. He started getting the program under way immediately after a sumptuous luncheon has been eaten.

Before a period of informal dancing, there was a period of speech-making, with President Andrew Kruczek of the Polish club and Mrs. Joseph Hendzel, president of the Women's branch, as the first speakers. Others who spoke were Bert Langley, for 22 years chief water tender in the Navy and now retired and living in Newmarket; Steward Michael, chief commissary George W. S. N., now recruiting officer at Haverhill, Mass.; Chief of Police Everett Ryan of the Portsmouth Navy Yard, formerly of Newmarket; Steward John Grochmal of the Polish club, and others. The general committee was composed of Chairman John Grochmal, Adolph Chopek, Frank Gazda, John Kustra, Miss Gertrude Knight, Misses Mary and Stella Homiak, Miss Sophie Grochmal and Miss Frances Karkins.

Dance music was provided by a five-piece orchestra under the direction of John Homiak.

FOURTH SON OF MIESOWICZ FAMILY NOW UNDER ARMS

With the departure today for Fort Devens at Ayer, Mass., for induction into the Army of Charles Miesowicz, 22, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Miesowicz of Main street, Newmarket, bade farewell to their fourth and last son to respond to the call of the colors. Previously they had witnessed the departure, one by one, of their three other sons, Stanley, 27, Edward, 25, and Joseph, 29.

Now with all their boys in uniform and far from home, the old folks have only their daughter, Leonora, left to them in the cosy homestead they have occupied for years.

Mr. and Mrs. Miesowicz have been residents of Newmarket for nearly 40 years. He settled in Newmarket in 1907 and she came here five years later. They were married in Newmarket and all their children were born here. The parents of both were natives of Koczyna, Poland, where Mrs. Miesowicz still has, so far as she knows, two sisters and three brothers, not a word regarding whom she has had for more than two years.

Her brothers, she explains, were members of the Polish army when

Young Pigeon Loses Dinner, Kids Get Nuts

A white dove, which only needed an olive branch to exemplify the traditional bird of peace, alighted on the steps of Ben's barber shop in Newmarket the other day and strutted about, unmindful of customers who came and went. Big hearted Ben went over to the peanut machine and bought a couple of cents worth for the visitor. He even stepped on some of them to make the digestive process easier.

The bird went to work on the feast. But before long it took to its wings. Ben looked up from an oil shampoo job and saw two young lads about five years old, busily finishing up repast.

and Mrs. George D. Michaud, Miss Margie Hogan, Miss Josephine Bardel, Miss Kay Biscup, Miss Christine Flanigan, Mrs. Leo LaBranche, Mrs. Joseph Hood, Miss Clara M. Kelley of Durham.

Cirafne, Mrs. John Lizak, Mrs. Caroline Sopol of Lowell, Mass., John Grochmal, Walter Dziedzic, Mrs. Mary Dziedzic, Charles J. Miesowicz, Eddie Ross, Stanley Wiernasz, George W. Scott and Mrs. Susan Scott of Portsmouth.

the hordes of Hitler devastated her native land, and she takes consolation from the assumption that "no news is good news," and that all of her kin in the Homeland may still be alive and well. Like her husband, she feels keenly the loss of their four boys, but also like him she is proud of the fact that they are fighting not alone for their native America but also for the downtrodden country of their forebears.

Charles, who goes today, was employed as an assembler in the Rockington shoe shop at Newmarket. He is a director of the American Citizens' Club of Polish Descent. His associates last night.

The oldest son, Joseph, 29, who has been in the service since February, is stationed at the Motor Inspection base at Emeryville, Calif. Edward, 25, was selected in June, 1941, and is in the Bombardier squadron at Barksdale Field, La. Stanley, 27, Pfc., has been in since May, 1941, and is stationed at Camp Gordon, Augusta, Ga. All four of the boys worked in the local shoe shop before entering the service.

Tomatoes Vanish, Pork Chops Stay

Beginning last Monday the Federal government designated tomatoes as a Victory Food special for period ending Sept. fifth.

Walter Gillis must have had an advance tip. Any rate, Bill Soby says he got away with some tomatoes under remarkable and somewhat suspicious circumstances. The only alleviating feature, says Soby, was that Walter forgot the pork chops.

He is in Battery C of the 8th Battalion. His message read: "Hello, Humph! Looking over a wonderful corner of the U. S. A. Looks like they don't want to ship out a good man, so am still as Eustis but under a different commander. Regards to all. Harry."
