NEWMARKET CLAIMS JUNK RECORD

Famine Looms For Transients Caught In Newmarket Over Sunday

STRANGERS FACED WITH PROSPECT OF HUNGER ON SABBATH

Only Restaurant Still Open Loses Chefs To Army

Flash!

Willey's Cafe will close Saturday night and will remain closed indefinitely. It is reported that another of the three remaining Newmarket eating houses is also slated to fold soon. One of the remaining two will not open Sundays. The fourth had made no decision up to press time today.

Not "When," but "Where Do We Eat?" will be the question for stray salesmen or other transient visitors who happen to get marooned in Newmarket on any Sunday after this week.

And, as the situation stands today, the answer will be "nowhere." For some time past, the only eating house in Newmarket open on Sundays has been the cafe operated in connection with the Hotel Willey. Some time ago one of its chief employees, Frank Burke, was called into the armed forces. Now two of its chefs, Edwin Atherton and Lee Capon, have been called to the colors and will report next Wednesday.

With a shortage of restaurant help already acute the operators of the Willey cafe have decided to close, not only Sundays but possibly for an indefinite period on week days as well. This, it was said, will afford opportunity to remodel and renovate the premises, a procedure which has been in contemplation for some time.

This situation raises a serious problem, not alone for strangers "in our midst," but also for those unfortunate—or fortunate, depending on the viewpoint—residents who are in the tentative bachelor class and who are accustomed to "eat out." Into this category fall automatically, the editor of the Newmarket News and fellows like Ray Ballou, who recently retired after a lifetime as a railroader.

Getting to the crux of the problem in a front porch conference the other day, the editor put it bluntly up to Roy like this:

"What are we going to do?" Roy had the answer but it didn't solve anything.

"Damfino," was his reply.

Besides the Willey restaurant, there are only three other eating establishments in Newmarket. These are Soby's restaurant, Eddie's Lunch and Cy's lunchroom. Occasionally, Cy's has opened for an hour or two in the early evening on Sunday, but the others have remained closed all day. Recently Eddie's Lunch underwent a change in management. But there has been

Newmarket Primary Vote Up Threefold Over 1940

Results Are Chiefly Notable For Murphy Landslide and Heavier GOP Vote Than Usual

For a primary in which apathy was alleged throughout the state, Newmarket voters did themselves proud in turning out to the polls on Tuesday. The total vote of Newmarket was 319, of which 248 were Democratic votes and 71 Republican. The total Newmarket vote in the state primary two years ago, for both parties, was 97. Thus Newmarket citizens, despite lack of gasoline and usual transportation facilities, responded this year in numbers three times as great.

SMITH SHOE PLANT GETS SIXTH ORDER FROM GOVERNMENT Company Head Now At N. Y. Conference Of Leather Men

Sam Smith, president of the Sam Smith Shoe Corporation of Newmarket, is in New York this week, in attendance at a conference of shoe and leather men throughout the country in reference to recent suggestions by the War Production board relative to standardizing styles and types of shoes to be produced henceforth. Mr. Smith, it was stated at the Newmarket factory yesterday, is expected to return next Wednesday.

The sixth Army contract for Sam Smith shoes was received this week. It is a large order, but in the absence of Mr. Smith no figures were obtainable. Supt. Leslie stated to the Newmarket News, however, that the plant looks forward to full production operation beyond the opening of the New Year.

The employment situation, he stated, is still serious. The shop is employing nearly 300 workers at present, but still has positions open for both skilled and unskilled shoe workers.

The company's recent offer of paid vacations, made last week through the Newmarket News, has brought results, company spokesmen assert, but there is still ample room for more workers, who may apply daily at the office of the concern on Main street.

The first meeting of the season of the Newmarket Canteen group was held last night at Canteen headquarters in the vestry of the Community church. It was voted to urge all women of Newmarket to enter the work in the interests of the armed forces of the country being done by the Canteen and to advise them that all who desire to serve will be welcome.

According to the inspectors of check lists, the total number of registered voters in the town is 1428. Had the various candidates striven to bring out a really heavy vote as has been the custom in former years, unquestionably Newmarket's vote would have been much heavier.

Murphy Landslide
The primary in Newmarket was chiefly notable for two things, the veritable landslide in favor of former Gov. Francis P. Murphy for the Democratic nomination for United States senator, and the fact that the Republicans cast 71 votes. Last Monday it would have been questioned by observers on both sides of the political fence that the GOP would cast anywhere near that total.

Murphy's Newmarket vote was 218 to exactly 13 for his Democratic opponent, Alvin C. Lucier, his fellow Nashua townsman.

William J. Neal of Meredith, Democratic candidate for governor, drew a vote of 103. On the Republican side, Governor Robert O. Blood got 47 votes to 21 for his Republican opponent, Senator President William H. Cole of Derry.

In the first Congressional district, Newmarket's vote gave Chester E. Merrow a scant two votes over that accorded Cong. Arthur B. Jenks for the Republican nomination. The vote was Merrow 34, Jenks 32. Councillor Thomas A. Murray, unopposed for the Democratic nomination, received a vote of 110.

The vote for councillor was Carberry, Democrat, 95; Perkins, Republican, 57.

For state senator, Reinhart, Democrat, 83; Foote, Republican, 51.

Arthur A. Labranche, with 113, and Albert Sewall, 112, won the Democratic state representative nominations on a write-in basis. Arthur Willey, with 16, and Stewart Humphreys with 10, were the high men on the Republican side.

Other Officers
The vote for sheriff was Thurston, Democrat, 84, and Frink, Republican, 60.

For county solicitor: Marvin, Democrat, 86; McCarthy, Republican, 52.

For county treasurer: Young, (continued on page six)

TOWN HAS ALREADY CONTRIBUTED MORE THAN FIFTY POUNDS PER CAPITA

Total Turn-In Thus Far Has Exceeded 125,000 Pounds For Community of 2500 People

No town of its size in America has equalled or surpassed Newmarket in the thoroughness of the scrap metal drive it has been carrying on for the last several weeks. This is the statement of Chairman Ralph H. Berry of the local Salvage committee, who points to the fact, and points with pardonable pride, that the yield of junk to date is more than 125,000 pounds.

Berry and his associates believe this is a record for any town with a population of approximately 2500 in the United States.

CHURCH TO FORM JUNIOR RED-CROSS GROUP OF PUPILS

Parochial School Children To Enroll In-Coming Week

With the hearty support and sanction of the pastor of Saint Mary's church, Newmarket, Rev. Hector A. Benoit, a branch of the Junior Red Cross will be formed in the parochial school next week, in which the pupils will enroll for whatever service in the war effort they may be qualified to supply.

In a conference Wednesday with Mrs. Rollins of Exeter, field secretary of the American Red Cross in this vicinity, Father Benoit assured her of his complete sympathy with the aims of that organization and his willingness to help to the extent of his ability and authority.

Steps are to be taken immediately, the Newmarket News learned today, to enroll the pupils of the school and to make their participation in Junior Red Cross work substantial and effective.

In furtherance of this patriotic program, Father Benoit also announced that the women of the parish will take up a course in Home Nursing and contribute their time and services to the preparation, among other needs, of surgical dressings, a demand for which is becoming exceedingly urgent throughout the nation.

According to those in a position to know, there is a vast and growing demand for more surgical dressings and despite the devotion of a large number of Newmarket women to this work in the past, more workers are urgently needed.

This important phase of war work on the home front has been in charge, in Newmarket, of Mrs. Irene Walsh and Miss Rena Young of the local Red Cross unit. Now, however, comes word that Mrs. Walsh, due to declining health, must relinquish the work. An increased burden will devolve, therefore, on the remaining women who have given unstintingly of their time.

Women of all walks of life, of all (continued on page six)

The quota set by the Federal government at the outset of the junk drive was 15 pounds for every man, woman and child. The yield so far in Newmarket is more than 50 pounds for each man, woman and child within its boundaries.

More Junk in Sight

Volunteer scrap collectors report much material not yet turned in and the Salvage committee states that it behooves everybody to get out their old junk of every description and dispose of it to junk dealers. They in turn will get it into government smelting plants to be used with telling effect in the prosecution of the war.

Up to press time today it was understood that J. J. Cohen, Newmarket junkman, had not yet acted upon the suggestion of the Federal government that he dispose of his huge pile of junk at Durhamside. While no threats were made, it is said that Cohen was given 30 days to act with the inference that at the expiration of that period steps would be taken toward possible confiscation of the scrap heap.

In a statement to the Newmarket News yesterday, the Salvage committee said:

"The thanks and appreciation of our State and Federal Salvage committees is extended by Chairman Berry to all who donated their scrap and to the local Salvage committee members, to Boy Scouts, the Hi-Y club and the 4-H club, the Newmarket Board of Selectmen, to Robert Fillon, Frank Schanda, Alex Peletier, Rev. J. Desmond O'Connor, Milton Kimball, Elmer Bailey, Grover Kenison and all others who in any manner contributed to the success of the scrap collection campaign.

"Our trucks collected 45,660 pounds of metal which was sold to official government junk collectors.

Plan New Drive

"We expect to make another intensive scrap collection drive later as there is still a lot of junk in the neighborhood that could and should be put to work in the war effort."

Dates and other information concerning future junk drive activities will be found in succeeding issues of the Newmarket News.

DEMOCRATIC SWEEP FORECAST

The reactionary forces within the Republican party, by the outcome of the primary contests on Tuesday, have given to the Democrats a lot for which to be thankful. They have practically assured a Democratic sweep at the polls in November.

The principal, and practically the only, issue in the campaign which got under way on Wednesday morning is that of continued confidence and support of President Franklin D. Roosevelt in the prosecution of the war to a victorious end for America and its ideals of freedom. What counter issues, what political red herrings, the Republican party and its candidates can produce are intangible at this time.

They will all probably foreswear support to the president, but every citizen of average intelligence knows that you can always depend more securely on a friend than a foe, be he political or otherwise.

The renomination of Governor Blood will, as we pointed out in this column some weeks ago, make the pathway to the executive chamber in Concord less difficult for William J. Neal, the Democratic candidate, than would have been true had William H. Cole of Derry, State Senate president, been his opponent at the polls.

The fight for United States senator will be spectacular beyond any doubt. In former Governor Murphy and Senator Bridges, each party has a strong and capable candidate. No matter which man wins, the state will be assured of strong representation in the upper house at Washington. On a basis of patriotism and support of the Roosevelt administration, the odds would seem to be with Murphy.

The same applies in the Congressional fight in the First District. In knifing Congressman Jenks in the back, an ungrateful party has paved the way for the election of Councillor Murray of Manchester, the Democratic candidate. Jenks has the love and confidence of many citizens in both parties. His record in Congress has been clean and courageous. Against him Councillor Murray would have tough sledding. But with a new and untried candidate, the prospects would seem to be in Murray's favor.

The Newmarket News and its affiliated newspapers are chiefly concerned with Rockingham and Strafford counties which they serve, and consequently the First Congressional district. The situation in the Second district, however, is somewhat similar as a result of the recent primary.

Cong. Foster Stearns was happily not a victim, as was his colleague, Congressman Jenks, of political party thuggery. Nobody swung a sandbag at him while his back was turned. Consequently, he will not be called upon to heal such festering sores as the defeat of Jenks has created in the First district.

Nevertheless, in his Democratic opponent, Henry J. Proulx, he will undoubtedly encounter substantial difficulty. The Democratic party will recognize its many advantages as a result of the primary and will utilize them to the limit. With the right kind of campaign direction, we assert again, the New Hampshire Democracy should achieve a clean sweep in November.

WITH THE STILES
Chapter 22

A week had passed. Sonny Barton had started on his long voyage. The Stiles had become used to their new Stiles conditions. Living like owners of the splendid new home, big enough to meet all needs, enjoying themselves to the utmost they worked and played until no one was able to determine which was work and which was play. And happier than any of their children were the father and the mother of the lucky brood.

"To think that such good luck should come our way," said Mrs. Stiles. "To us, stranded in the North, as it were. John, do you suppose that we are to wake up some day and find this a dream?" Too intent upon watching what was going on in the yard, John did not respond.

"Look, Mary, the youngsters are up to something." And he called her to the window.

"Nothing bad, I hope," she said. "No, but just listen." She saw the children leading the cow to the pump. Web pumped a dipperful of water, and handed it to Dan. He stepped up on the edge of the trough, took the dipper from the top of the pump where he had placed it, took hold of one of the cow's horns, and solemnly pouring the water over the cow's head he said, "I christen thee Glorianna, and what else should I say, Ann?"

"Why, nothing, I guess," Ann replied. Dan jumped down.

"I say, Zeke would not like this," chimed in Wash.

"No, he wouldn't," very emphatically from Marthy.

"And why wouldn't he?" asked Frank.

"Because it is imitating baptism, and baptism is sacred," said Wash.

"And if Zeke had been here Dan would not be doing what he oughtn't."

"Cows are sacred in India," answered Ann.

"Yes, and India is no Christian land, and we are not heathen, Ann." This from Marthy.

"Do you think Zeke can see us now?" asked Frank soberly.

"Don't know," said Web. "He used to say that he had to be almighty careful of what he did, for his mammy would be watching him and she had told him he better look out."

"Well, go on. What else did his mammy tell him?" asked Steve coming up from the barn.

"Zeke said that his mammy was buried, but she wasn't at all dead. And that the good Lord didn't like to have sacred things mixed in with play; and that she would ask the dear God to let her look down from a window in heaven so as to keep an eye on Zeke, and that if he kept on doing good, and nothing bad, she would be at the door to meet him when he came. And Zeke came, you know," he finished with a sob. Deep silence followed.

Then up to the pump stepped Doug, pumped water into the dipper, stepped up onto the trough so as to reach the top of the pump, and tipping the dipper so as to let the water run slowly all over it, he said solemnly, "I christen thee THE WELL OF HAPPINESS, and may you never run dry."

"Golly," burst out Henry, "Why didn't we say that to the cow?"

And the cow said, "M—m." The family prospered. Two years went by, and no word had come from Sonny Barton. Jim Grant had made an occasional call on the Stiles; he enjoyed their talk on what had been done and all that they planned to do to improve and to make the most of the place. They had the future all arranged. As yet nothing had been said about the "Deed," that lay waiting in his safe, and the family had no inkling of what was coming.

This July day Jim came earlier than was his wont to make his call. He had made up his mind to tell John and Mary the good tidings so as to be able to see the reaction to what was to come to them at the end of the year. As yet they had taken for granted that Sonny Barton would return at some future time, and that they should do all in their power to keep everything in shape for him when he did appear. Not having had to pay rent they had been able to save quite a sum of money over and above expenses, and they had made plans for Doug. He wanted to become a minister, and, therefore, he had to go to school somewhere to prepare himself for the ministry. Steven would consider nothing for himself but farming, and the remaining youngsters were not old enough to give any thought for the future.

Jim alighted. The horse did not need to be tied. John appeared in the doorway, and with a hearty greeting asked him to come inside. Jim responded as warmly, and when Mary came down from her morning duties up stairs there were still heartier greetings. "And how are the babies? There are three now, or is it four?" asked Mary. "Three is correct," was Jim's answer. "Lizzie is all alone doing the work, and there is too much for one to do. One part of my errand this morning is to ask you for the loan of one of your girls. Can one be spared?" John and his wife looked helplessly at each other. Jim Grant had a right to ask this of them, and up to the present they had all been together.

"We'll let the girls decide," said John. A long rallo brought the boys and girls flocking into the kitchen. "Oh, hello, Mr. Grant," they chorused. "We didn't know you were here until we saw the horse near the piazza. "You didn't come about Zeke, did you?" asked Frank. "No, Frank, I didn't, but while we are talking about him I can tell you that the headstone is up, with an inscription on it that you will like," and all waited for what was coming.

"We decided among ourselves to order a good-sized granite slab, and to have this one sentence hewn upon its surface, 'Here lies Zeke, beloved by all who knew him.' We thought it most fitting," said Grant.

"Nothing could be better or more to the point," said John, and Mary wiped away the tears that would come unbidden whenever Zeke was mentioned. "Every word is true."

Then came the usual small talk as between farmers. Grant's farm was a hundred acre one, nearly all clear. He had some fruit trees planted, that some day would be the beginning of an orchard, but farming was his business, and he intended to stick to it. "If the townspeople will let you," observed John. "Your ability may carry you out of that line sooner than we think, or I am much mistaken," declaration was left unheeded by Grant.

Time was getting short and his errand was not done. Would one of the girls help out? Ann volunteered. On the morrow Steve would take her over.

POLISH CLUB
Notes

Nearly a dozen new members were admitted at the first fall meeting of the board of directors of the American Citizens' Club of Polish Descent in Newmarket on Sunday. The meeting was under the direction of Pres. Andrew Kruczek and was attended by a large percentage of officers and members. It is planned to hold meetings every month through the fall and winter months.

Tentative plans were made for a series of socials for members and out of town guests on dates later to be determined. A committee for this purpose was appointed, consisting of the stewards, George Grochmal, Adolph Pohopek, and John Kustra.

The newly accepted members were Albert W. Caswell, Miss Jean Lizak, Raymond Ricker, Edgar Rousseau, George W. Scott, Miss Helen Dziedzic, Guy L. Trow, Mrs. Beatrice Pohopek, Royal Smith and Harvey Dunn.

Corp. Frank Shina of MacDill Field, Tampa, Fla., who has been in the Army since April, has been visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Shina of the North Side, Newmarket, for several days, and was due to return to his base tonight.

Word reached the club this week of the safe arrival in England of Corp. Joseph Merck of Putnam, Conn., formerly a resident of Newmarket, and now a member of the American Expeditionary force.

Sgt. Chester Kruczek, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Kruczek of Newmarket, was a week-end visitor at the club rooms on Central street.

Other week-end visitors included Mr. and Mrs. Michael Pelczar of Meredith.

News of the promotion of two former Newmarket boys comes in the club's mail-bag for this week. Pvt. Henry Homiak of Fort Clayton, Canal Zone, has been advanced to the rank of corporal, and Corp. Walter Lizak of Hunters' Field, Savannah, Ga., has been promoted to the rank of sergeant.

Last Sunday a birthday celebration was held for Mrs. George Homiak at her Newmarket home, 26 Elm street. She received numerous birthday gifts and dinner was followed by informal entertainment. Guests included Mrs. Joseph Hendzel, Miss Ann Gula, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Kruczek, Mrs. Mary Olsanowski, Mrs. Lucy Olsanowski and Walter Magusiak.

Leo Lavote, who recently joined the United States Navy, is now at the Naval Training station at Newport, R. I.

Cupid Scores Over Heavy Marksmen In Newmarket Romance

That Cupid is still effective with bow and arrow despite effective marksmanship by mere mortals with heavy calibre guns, was demonstrated this week in Newmarket when Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hood announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Marion Hood, to Capt. Donald Stilson, U. S. A.

Captain Stilson has just completed a furlough of 14 days and returned at its completion to Camp Shelby, Miss., where he will be stationed for the present. Captain Stilson took advantage of his stay at home to win the betrothal of his fiancée, and both have the best wishes of their many Newmarket friends.

Before he entered the Army, Captain Stilson resided in Exeter, with his mother, the widow of a veteran of World War I.

MERAS TURNS "THUMBS DOWN" ON MERROW FOR CONGRESS SEAT

An interesting sidelight on this week's primary is contained in the following letter to the editor of the Newmarket News from Ralph E. Meras of Exeter, long an ardent and sincere crusader against what he believes to be the forces of evil.

While we do not always see eye to eye with Mr. Meras, we must admit a sense of satisfaction that a man of his intelligence and understanding should endorse the attitude of this newspaper in its repeated emphasis on the superiority of Congressman Jenks over his opponent, Chester E. Merrow of Ossipee. Mr. Meras writes: Editor, Newmarket News:

I have registered as a party prohibitionist. Since all other parties are strong allies of Hitler et al through alliances with, or subserviancy to, vicious interests which seem to own them body and soul and since there is almost no difference in them in other respects, I could not consistently do otherwise.

All must suffer the consequences of this situation, however, and therefore it is our privilege and duty to protest against whatever seems likely to hasten the doom of Democracy.

It is evident that money is being spent very lavishly in an effort to buy the nomination of Chester Merrow. I lack definite information as to just what interests are backing him; but Merrow has never, to my knowledge, raised his hand or his voice against the several vicious rackets legalized by the once grand, good state of New Hampshire, nor made any protest against inconsistent and unjust procedure in our legislature; but on the contrary has been always, as far as I can judge, a "Yes, Yes" man and is evidently most acceptable to the Rockingham political machine.

Notwithstanding the notorious corrupt practices and lack of high ideals of the Rockingham-(Exeter) machine, it has always (for 4 years at least) been able to secure the services of some member or members of the Phillips Exeter Academy to lend respectability to its slate or delegation. This has been a source of regret and pain to me, knowing that many good citizens are deceived thereby. I think the people of Exeter are not misled as much as others.

I do not know that Mr. Jenks has the desire and courage to stand up and oppose these racketeers, but I do not know that he is allied with them as I feel sure is the case with Mr. Merrow.

I think every patriotic citizen should view with great alarm the possibility of Mr. Merrow's becoming a congressman.

RALPH E. MERAS,
 Exeter, N. H.

EXETER GRANGERS HELP OBSERVE GOLDEN JUBILEE AT KENSINGTON

A large and representative group of members of Gilman Grange, No. 1, P. of H., of Exeter, journeyed to Kensington recently to attend the golden jubilee celebration of East Rockingham Pomona grange of that community. Chief among the guests was National Lecturer Jas. M. Farmer of Keene, who delivered the principal address at the evening ceremonies.

The closed session of Pomona was held in the afternoon. Business included election of Mrs. Ruth Ralston of Greenland as treasurer to succeed Mrs. Amanada Noyes of Portsmouth who died recently.

It was voted to hold only the closed business sessions of Pomona for the duration, because of difficulties of transportation.

Resolutions were adopted on the death of Mrs. Noyes, and of Past Master Charles Evans of Seabrook.

The required discussion followed a speech by Roy Gilmore of Hampton on "The effect of an adequate law providing for the equalization of high school costs."

Other speakers who took part in the discussion were Granger Preston of Massachusetts, State Lecturer Charles Eastman and Mrs. Charles Floyd of South Hampton. Supper was served to the grangers by Kensington Grange.

Main speaker of the evening session was Farmer, who compared the grange and its members of 50 years ago with those of today. He paid tribute to grangers who saw the beginnings of state and county organization.

Herman Kruger, of Gilman Grange, Exeter, was general chairman of the anniversary program.

Those from Exeter who attended were Mr. and Mrs. William Peters, Mrs. Pauline Brewster, Miss Annie Connor, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Kruger, Miss Abbie Hayes, Miss Ida Hayes, Mrs. Daisy Ellison, Mrs. Jennie Staples, Miss Florence Adams, Mrs. Marion Frame, Mrs. Kari Ford, Mrs. Emma Rowe, Miss Agnes Brown, Mrs. Hattie Brewster, Mrs. Grace Goodwin and Miss Edith Green.

In the square of a little village not far from here I came on the prettiest flower garden you ever saw.

It was a lot of flowers all mixed up—hundreds of different kinds, I guess. So I asked a passerby if he could tell me about it.

"Well," he says, "in this town whenever anybody plants a flower garden and has any seeds left, they scatter them over this plot."

Then he leans over and pulls out a couple of weeds. "We all have to help pull out the weeds too," he tells me. "That way the village has a flower garden to be proud of."

That's about as pretty an illustration of co-operation as I ever come across. But there's plenty of examples of co-operation and civic spirit these days.

We were talking just yesterday about how the brewers and the beer distributors are working together and co-operating with law enforcement authorities.

Numerous Friends Heartily Welcome Langley On Visit

Who popped into town last Friday and received a vociferous welcome from the Newmarket populace at large, but Guy H. Langley, former editor of the Newmarket News, and now functioning in a similar efficient capacity for the Rochester Observer?

In Newmarket on a brief business trip, Editor Langley nevertheless took occasion to say "Howdy" to numerous old and valued friends. His visit made more than twice as much of a stir as did that of Gov. Robert O. Blood, a day or two before.

Informal receptions were staged at Turcotte's news stand and Ben's barber shop, as were also curbstone conferences along Main street. The former Newmarket editor certainly has many well wishers in town.

around beer. But the weeds—well—they've got to be pulled out, too.

Everybody has to lend a hand. And the brewing industry is just sensible enough to recognize that . . . But what's more—they're doing something about it.

The brewers don't want their beer sold in the wrong kind of places, and so they've teamed up with the authorities in a self-regulation program to make careless beer retailers "clean up or close up," as they say.

From what I read, the plan is working out mighty successful in a number of states, and is spreading out into others.

From where I sit, it looks like a fine idea . . . a mighty practical example of how honest co-operation works out to the benefit of everyone—the brewers, the beer retailers, and us plain citizens that like our gardens and our pleasures—the weeds kept out.

Exeter Items . . .

For the first time in many months Lieut. James R. Lane, USA, visited his parents at Exeter recently. His visit was made the occasion for an informal reunion at the family residence on Whitley road.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Pearson of Exeter, recently entertained their daughter, Mrs. Lindsey R. Brigham of Brookline, Mass. Mrs. Brigham is now assistant director of personnel at Harvard university in Cambridge, Mass.

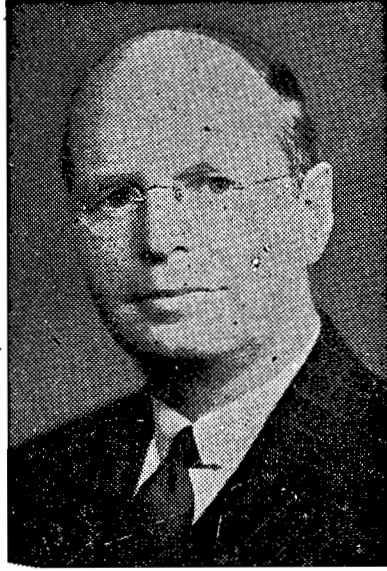

The old Button estate on Union street, Exeter, lately owned by Martel Brothers, has been purchased by S. E. LaPerle, who plans to demolish the aged barn and effect other improvements.

Plans for the formation of a Past Noble Grand's association were made Monday by a group of such officers of Fraternity Rebekah lodge of Exeter, at the home of Mrs. Pauline Brewster on Marlboro street. The lodge held its first full meeting the same evening in Odd Fellows hall, when nomination of officers for the coming year was the chief item of business.

'CAP' SURPRISED, FINDS NO BIG BLAZE RAGING IN ROCHESTER

"Where's the fire?" Excitedly, a man hopped out of his automobile and dashed into the Rochester fire station shortly after noon, Monday. "What fire?" queried the asounded lads on duty. "Why, I heard there was a big fire here in Rochester," explained the wide-eyed visitor. And he turned out to be a Sanford fire captain, who was in Berwick when he heard a report that a serious blaze was raging here. Being a good fireman at all times, he decided to race up to Rochester to inhale a little smoke if something was burning. None of the Rochester firemen who were relating the yarn Tuesday were able to reveal the name of the zealous Maine "smoke-eater."

Autoists Warned To Save Plates

New Hampshire automobile plates are valuable, said State Motor Vehicle Commissioner Virgil White in an interview today. Due to the war effort, enough steel cannot be obtained to make two new plates, he added. It is possible that the plates now issued will be used another year with a further means of identification being furnished by the department. The public will be informed later relative to the details of how this is to be accomplished. In the meantime, he said in conclusion, each car owner should take good care of the plates on his car. The New Hampshire apple harvest this year calls for the picking of 140 apples for every hundred in the 1941 season. Men, women and children are taking time out from other work to accomplish this job of harvesting a million bushels of fruit.

Some of the Pleasantries must go FOR THE DURATION

"SHE never should have opened that hand with a heart lead"—"Wasn't yesterday a terrible day?"—"Looks like a real offensive in the Pacific"—"I'll let June go to the Saturday night dance if your Carol can go with her"—"Did you get enough sugar for canning?"

These and a thousand other pleasantries make up the friendly pattern of American life. They are the subjects of many of the one hundred million telephone calls made every day. In normal times they are the life-blood of the telephone industry which employs 400,000 people. In war time they hamper production and jeopardize security. For the switchboards over which these pleasantries pass are the ones over which go the orders and instructions for the building of ships, the transporting of troops, the dispatch of aircraft, the supplying of munitions of war, the functioning of civil and military authority. Certainly, the interchange of friendly conversation helps morale, and there's room for a little of it on telephone lines and switchboards. But "little" is the word. If your own family exceeds that "little," you have an opportunity to speed war communications by cutting down on non-essential calling. Will you help?

Prior to the actual fair opening, the usual special program of entertainment and amusements will be presented the coming Sunday, when a concert will be given by the Rochester City Band, under Director J. E. Alcide Blodeau.

In the afternoon two closely matched baseball teams will engage in a championship game starting at 2:30 p. m. The opponents have not yet been announced.

Governor's Day
Thursday, Sept. 24, will be Governor's Day, when Gov. Robert O. Blood and his staff will be official guests and special entertainment features will be added to the regular program.

This year's entertainment program for the entire fair period is very attractive.

Donahue & LaSalle
Donahue & LaSalle, exponents of acrobatic and slapstick pantomime, will attempt to destroy themselves "right before your very eyes," in the words of the circus barker. The agile duo features dextrous manipulation of barrels, including high and long-distance jumping over and into the globular objects and daring blindfold leaps. The male member of the team jumps in and out of the barrels with the dexterity of a kangaroo. At times while he is still in mid-air, his lady partner rearranges the barrels so that, in a matter of seconds, he has a new landing place. As an additional feature in a thrilling presentation, there is table balancing.

Stetson Band
Patrons will be glad to welcome again the Stetson Radio Band, popular music-makers at Rochester's big agricultural Fair for many years. Under the baton of George W. Ventre, a native of metropolitan Boston, this music-making contingent first achieved international fame by annexing the musical trophy at the national convention of the American Legion Parade, held in Paris a few years ago. Back in the United States, a long, commercially sponsored radio engagement developed their legal and moral rights to the use of the name "Original Stetson Radio Band."

Dr. Bernard Elephants
One of the most entertaining acts ever presented at the fair will be Dr. Bernard and his elephants. Dr. Bernard, a man as unusual as the act he presents, is considered one of the foremost elephant trainers in the world. He taught his pachyderms to ride tricycles and one of them to walk a tight-rope. His personal career has been so interesting and varied that two books have been written about him.

Two Saxons
Unbelievable balancing skill will be demonstrated by the Two Saxons who have invented difficult footings to support various acrobatic routines. These two men, mounted on a platform above the stage, have placed a polished cylinder on the narrow flat surface and on top of this narrow board. They mount the latter to form pyramids and other gymnastic stunts as their footing shifts from one side of the platform to the other, threatening to send them hurtling to the stage at any moment.

Deteros Sensation
One of the most unusual aerial riggings used by daredevil stars is employed by the Deteros Sensation. Towering many feet in the air it supports two miniature airplanes which revolve constantly during the presentation of the act. Suspended from the planes are trapezes which sway back and forth as the circular motion of the apparatus gains momentum. This provides the hazardous perch on which the Deteros go through a thrilling series of gymnastic and acrobatic routines while suspended from the trapezes by their hands, feet or teeth. Two girls and a man comprise this troupe.

The Shaw Sisters
The Shaw Sisters, of Shrewsbury, Mass., are two girls, now seventeen and nineteen years old, who have been riding since they were five and seven years old. Their father bought them their first ponies, but several years later told them they would have to make them pay their own way if they wanted to keep them. Without ever taking lessons, these two kids trained their ponies and themselves, copying tricks performed at nearby rodeos, gave shows of their own, operated pony rides, and traded horses and equipment, until now they have a string of seven outstanding ponies and horses, all their own equipment and a comfortable bank balance.

FIRST COUPLE BECOME DONORS AT BLOOD BANK

Harry Germon and his wife, Frances, of Lebanon side in East Rochester, became the first couple to donate their blood simultaneously during today's session of the blood bank which is being operated at Frisbie Memorial Hospital under the supervision of Dr. Louisa M. Norton.

Other donors at today's session included Mrs. Edward Therrien and Mrs. Gladys Hodgens, both of Farmington; Waldron C. White, manager of the F. E. Small Agency in Rochester, and Harold Colby of Rochester.

Donors on Tuesday included Edward Leavitt and Fred Littlefield of the Rochester highway department, Mrs. Carlyle Sweet of the Rochester chapter of the American Red Cross, Mrs. Edna Woods and Mrs. Leona Miller. The latter is employed at the Maybury Shoe Co.

It was emphasized again today that still more volunteers are needed at the blood bank sessions, which are held each Tuesday and Thursday. One hundred pints of blood is needed as a reserve, and although many have already contributed, the blood is constantly being used for emergency cases at the hospital.

Firemen Attend Durham Sessions

Four members of the Rochester fire department attended the New Hampshire fire defense training conference held at the University of New Hampshire last Saturday and Sunday.

Chief Gordon Cushing and Ralph Dunlap, a department driver, attended the Saturday session, while Deputy Chief Joseph E. Woodes, who is chief of the civilian defense auxiliary force in Rochester, and Leon Dixon, who is captain of the auxiliary department, were present at the Sunday gathering.

Still seeking a way out of a perplexing predicament, the editor suggested to Roy that perhaps the best solution would be to buy a can opener and a Saturday night can of beans.

"How are we going to," asked Roy, "with all the metal in this end of the county up on the Newmarket junk pile, and a serious question as to whether we can get the can of beans without returning the empty tin, like we have to do now on tooth paste and shaving cream?"

The editor had to pass that up and admit that it looks like both of us are stuck.

There will undoubtedly be some solution, but the fact remains that despite the evident humorous features of the situation, it has its serious side for a large number of individuals.

Incidentally, among the selectees who will enter the service on Wednesday with Atherton and Capon are Walter Olsanoski, Arthur Lang, Francis Mullen and Armand Lepage.

SNAKES, FROGS AND SCORPIONS MAKE IT ALL FUN ON DESERT

The following letter from Sgt. Al Puchlopek, now with Company D, 22nd Engineers, on desert maneuvers with the Army in California, was received this week by his pals at the Newmarket Polish club. The letter vividly describes some of his experiences and was read with interest by his Newmarket friends, who felt that others might like to hear how he is doing and released it for publication in the Newmarket News. Sergeant Puchlopek says: Somewhere in the Desert

September 4th

Hello Fellows:

At long last I've found a few minutes to drop you a few lines.

Today was a "Red Letter" day. I woke up this morning, shook the scorpions out of my shoes, and went down to chow. We had some very nice wieners for breakfast. I took a look at the sky and set the safety valve on my canteen at 100 degrees, so the steam could escape and it wouldn't blow up.

We went on a little dismounted problem this morning (hike to you). Everyone down here seems to have lots of lead in their pants, even the rabbits. We scared one this morning, he took two steps, then stopped and then slowly walked away. A little later on we came to a big frog. The frogs down here don't hop, they walk as they all carry tail antenas.

It wasn't as hot as yesterday tho'. Yesterday the snakes, even the sidewinders, were ranning themselves with their tails. A sidewinder is an appeaser. He can't make up his mind to go forwards or backwards, so he crawls sideways.

Lizards here are a foot long. They change their colors according to the color of what they are on. Yesterday a Sgt. put on a plain blue uniform. The lizard got so crazy trying to match colors, he came up in fleeces.

This noon the cooks ran out of gasolme they use for their held ranges, so they fried eggs on the hood of the kitchen truck. You know fellows, I never did like my eggs fried hard and these were like bricks.

Fellows I'll tell you about the twisters we have out here. Twisters are whirlwinds, full of sand, that start from nowhere and end most anywhere. Last night a sandstorm, mused up the company clerk's papers. He was frantic as to what the company commander would say to his losing the company records.

He was wildly trying to straighten them out. Along this time a twister came along and lifted them way out of sight. Well fellows, do you know that darn twister turned around, came back and the company clerk was amazed to find that all the papers had been reshuffled and filed perfectly. These twisters are mighty versatile out here in California.

We have lots of greasewood bushes around in this country. You can't use them for wood very well, but some days when it is cool, say around 125 degrees, we use the grease from the bushes to lubricate the axles of our army trucks.

We have the most comfortable beds. They are not equipped with "Beauty Rest" mattresses, but the sand is nice and soft, at least when we first get to bed. The nice thing about sleeping on the ground is the pets we make. This morning one of the boys woke up with a friendly rattlesnake snuggled up close to him.

Well fellows, I guess this will be all for now. The first sergeant wants me to dig a little hole out here or something.

The Newmarket News is still chasing me all around and it usually catches up with me. Thanks!

Regards to you all,

AL PUCHLOPEK.

ity the scrap drive which is still in progress. This is in reply to the appeal of Donald M. Nelson, chairman of the War Production board, to the press of America to save a critical situation in the war effort.

The effort to supply scrap metal which is essential for the production of steel has fallen down. Mr. Nelson stated that thus far the methods of collection have not produced the necessary supply. He said that in his opinion the newspapers could solve this number one problem of the nation.

As this is written, over 1,000 pledges have already been received from daily newspapers that they are accepting the assignment and will aggressively take part in the

Women's Club To Resume Shortly

The year book of the Newmarket Women's club is now complete, and the organization will hold its first monthly meeting of the current season at 3 o'clock on the afternoon of Saturday, October 7, in the Community church vestry. The meeting will be directed by the president, Miss Laura Sewall.

Chief guest of the occasion will be the president of the New Hampshire Federated Women's club, Mrs. Bernice Seaverns of Jamaica, who will deliver an important address.

AUTO CHIEF SEES GRADUAL EASE IN GAS RESTRICTIONS

But Urges Drivers To Limit Speed Under 35 Miles

William A. Thibodeau, General Manager of the Automobile Legal Association, urged today that Newmarket motorists immediately cooperate with the recommendations of the Baruch committee in reducing their maximum driving speed to 35 miles per hour. Even though the President has promised to take immediate action, it will probably be several weeks before the orders come through in their final form and meanwhile every motorist should cooperate with the spirit of this enlightening, courageous and heartening report, he said.

Newmarket motorists, as well as those in all rationed areas, are pleased with the findings of the Baruch committee because they not only conform with opinions of the best informed sources in such areas, but also are distinctly encouraging. It seems reasonably certain that conditions in the rationed area will continue to improve gradually, with a promise of substantial relaxation in restrictions by next summer.

Best of all is the committee's realization of the importance of "keeping America on wheels." Drivers now feel sure that the government realizes fully the importance of civilian automobile transportation, and that every effort will be made to interfere as little as possible with this vital part of American economy.

Two Room-Mates At Keene School Have Same Name

Miss Barbara Jean Kendrigan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Kendrigan of Newmarket, returned to her studies at the Keene Teachers' college on Sunday. Miss Kendrigan is starting her second year there, and has for a room-mate, by odd co-incidence, a student whose name is Barbara Jean Manning. Miss Manning's home is in Hancock.

Driven by William Carter and accompanied by her parents, several trunks, a bicycle and various other accessories, Miss Kendrigan reached her destination in complete triumph. En route the party enjoyed a picnic lunch.

Everybody who knows Ben, the Barber, knows he would never start anywhere unless his equipage included plenty of groceries. Ben and Stewart Humphries are engaged in a tight contest for the eating championship of Newmarket, with no betting odds on either contender.

Also entering the Keene Teachers' college from Newmarket this week was Miss Josephine Brady.

William J. Welpley, Editor
Newmarket News
Newmarket, New Hampshire

Dear Bill:
The August 28, 1942 edition of the Newmarket News has just been called to my attention, and I read with considerable amusement "Why the 'H'."

You can be sure from now on I will leave it out in any communications addressed to you as editor and advertising manager of the paper. Will you please pardon the error?

Sincerely yours,
NEIL TOLMAN,
Secretary

Bridges-for-Senator Committee.
P. S.—Please, Mr. Welpley, "me and Styles" are both alike to the extent that we have dropped the first letter of our first names. In my case, it is "O."

N. T.

That ought to settle the superfluous letter issue for some time to come, but it probably will not.

It is disturbing to note that Brother Tolman also has had some difficulty in this respect, as his postscript clearly indicates.

Never mind, Neil. We'll all beat this ugly issue yet, "me and you and Styles."

—WILLIAM J. WELPLEY.

HVERHILL OFFICIAL APPLAUDS NEWMARKET DRIVE FOR DOG TAX

The drive of the board of selectmen in Newmarket for the collection of delinquent dog taxes, as publicized for the last two weeks in the Newmarket News, has drawn the attention of observers at distant points. The deadline set by the board for the payment of these taxes expired on Wednesday and steps have been taken since to enforce their collection from dog owners who have ignored the warning.

We print herewith the comment of Frank J. Spofford, secretary to Mayor Albert W. Glynn of Haverhill, Mass., who offers some timely remarks on the experience of his municipality in dealing with the same problem:

CITY OF HAVERHILL Massachusetts

September 15, 1942
Mr. William J. Welpley
Editor, Newmarket News.

I have followed the affairs of Newmarket through your columns with a great deal of interest for some little time, now. I haven't said much about things up there, because you folks are perfectly capable of handling your own affairs. But, now and again, something comes up wherein I feel that I can add a bit to the common fund of "News" readers. I take from it, why shouldn't I give?

It is on the subject of dogs. Strange, but good citizens who cheerfully pay their bills, meet all their personal and real estate, income, automobile, and what not taxes, will utterly refuse to protect the dog they profess to love, by paying his license, so that, if lost, he may be identified and returned. And so that he may be rightfully within the community.

It is a matter of education though. In 1939 a new Dog Officer was appointed here, and he went to work to straighten out a very similar mess to what you folks probably have. He was an energetic sort of cuss, and the results speak for themselves.

In 1939, the Assessors reported 2365 dogs as being within the city. But, there were 2340 dogs licensed, and 520 dogs destroyed. Fourteen persons were summonsed into court. Dog Officer Perley D. Ramey had made a record. In 1940, again the Assessors found 1860 dogs. But 2450 dogs were licensed, and 436 destroyed. Twenty-six persons were summonsed into court. 1941 and 1942 showed the same results. Putting these figures into a chart, we have:

1939: Assessors' Lists, 2365; licenses paid, 2340; dogs destroyed, 520; prosecutions, 14.

1940: assessors' lists, 1860; licenses paid, 2450; dogs destroyed, 436; prosecutions, 26.

1941: assessors' lists, 2094; licenses paid, 2540; dogs destroyed, 312; prosecutions, 12.

1942: assessors' lists, 2173; licenses paid, 2434; dogs destroyed, 241; prosecutions, 7.

Necessarily 1942 is only to date.

There are several reasons for Officer Ramey's persistence. In the first place, if an unlicensed dog bites a person, under Massachusetts law the city has to stand the cost of the Pasteur treatments to the victim. If the dog is licensed, the County, through the dog fund, pays it. (All dog license moneys go to the County, and the unexpended balance is divided annually pro rata amongst the Public Libraries of the County.) The city is saved several hundred dollars in this way annually, by keeping the dogs licensed. Again, if a dog is lost, if licensed, he is returned to his owner. It is more or less a routine procedure for a dog to be returned to its owner in this way. Then, too, it is to be noticed that the more dogs are licensed, the fewer dogs have to be destroyed. Tramp dogs beget tramp dogs, and before long, the community is overrun with them. By keeping down the number of unlicensed females, especially, the problem of increase can be most successfully met.

A further study of Officer Ramey's chart shows that once the people find out that the Dog Officer means business, there is a lot less trouble. Note the drop in prosecution in 1940 and 1941. Note, also, that each year has seen a decrease in dogs destroyed. The supply has dried up at the source! The assessors' figures are merely curios.

I believe very strongly that, after the people of Newmarket have tried a system of enforcement of dog licensing, that they will agree that, after all, it is a long way ahead of the "doggies wild" system. We found it to be better for the City, the dog owners, and the dogs themselves. I would like to see it tried out, anyway!

Sincerely,
FRANK J. SPOFFORD,
Secretary.

Newmarket Priests On Annual Retreat

Rev. J. Desmond O'Connor, curate at Saint Mary's Catholic church in Newmarket, returned today after a week in retreat at Saint Anselm's college in Manchester.

Rev. Hector A. Benoit, the pastor, will go next week. The retreat is an annual requisite of church procedure and applies to all priests of the diocese.

Newmarket Man Buys Prize Bull

(Special Dispatch)

Brattleboro, Vt., Sept. 17—The Holstein-Friesian Association of America reports that Percy B. Johnson of Newmarket, N. H., has recorded his first investment in registered Holstein-Friesians, the purchase of one bull. He purchased this bull, Hollyhock Calamity Vale Laddie 852000, from Rockingham County Farm, Epping, N. H.

Exactly 14,272 dairymen were recorded by the national Association as becoming owners of registered Holstein-Friesian cattle for the first time in 1941, an average of about 275 each week.

Parent-Teachers Prepare Program

The Newmarket Parent-Teachers association will hold its first meeting of the fall season at the high school next Tuesday evening. Mrs. Julia Lank, the president, will occupy the chair. Plans for the autumn and winter will be made and important matters of business pertaining to the organization will be considered. For this reason, a full attendance is desired.

Butter, oil and skimmilk powder, two dehydrated products, can be shipped and stored in even tropical countries and converted into good butter with the aid of a little cold water and salt.

Total food production of United States farms is expected to be nine per cent greater than in 1941, but demands for civilian, army and lend-lease use are expected to take all the increase.
