Jackets were awarded at ceremonies last week to seven members of the Tiger Hand Tub Association for their attendance at all nine musters held during the 1959 season.

The jackets are reversible, with black and red wool on one side, and a brilliant red satin on the other side. On each side is a "6" insignia, with a picture of the hand engine.

Small Trophy" won in Marblehead, Mass., at League Championship Muster last September. This trophy has to be won three times for permanent possession. The Engines which have already won it are:

Gerry No. 5 of Marblehead, Mass, 1957, and the D. A. Taggart of Goffstown, N. H., in 1958. The smaller trophy is a companion trophy which can be kept by the Tigers.

The practice of giving out jackets to anyone who has perfect attendance at the musters will be continued in 1960. It is hoped that a greater number will qualify for them at the end of next season.

Efforts will be made to obtain hand engine badges which will be awarded for perfect attendance at the meetings in the 1960 season.

Water Commissioners To Ask for $8,000 for Repairs to Standpipe

With the proposed repairs to the Standpipe on Great Hill still to be attended to, the Newmarket Water Commissioners plan to petition the town for the sum of $8,000 for this purpose.

Extensive repairs are necessary which includes scraping, painting, resurfacing, replacing broken rivets, etc. If tax revenue is not made available for this purpose, then an increase in water rates will be necessary to finance these repairs.

The tank has a capacity of 21,200 gallons and was erected in 1894. If a new tank with a capacity of half a million gallons (recommended for future expansion) was to be constructed at this time, it is estimated the cost would be from $60,000 to $100,000.

same during most of the repairing.

Repairs include removing of rust and scale, resurfacing both inside and outside, welding and riveting and painting the outside.

Gallant suffered a fractured skull when he was struck by a tire rim. He was inflating the tire of his utility truck outside a store in Stratham when the old-type split rim let go because of the increased air pressure. He was discovered unconscious on the ground and rushed to the Exeter Hospital where emergency surgery was performed.

Mr. Gallant, 34, is married and the father of three children. He purchased the local mill which manufactures synthetic fabrics, from Textron Corp. in 1955. He is also manager of the Florence Mills, Inc., of Greenville, N. H., manufacturers of synthetics, of which he is vice president and treasurer.

AQUATIC JEEP

It only stands to reason that when you have a private skating pond covered with snow, that if it's good skating weeather, and if your many friends enjoy skating, the thing to do is to plow off the snow. Such was the case with George Hauschel. He harnessed his faithful jeep to a plow and drove diligently up and down the frozen surface to remove every trace of snow. However, George didn't reckon with Mother Nature. A spring, hidden under a layer of thinner ice, proved his undoing. The weight of the jeep broke through the ice and settled in the shallow water. Several hours of labor by volunteers finally got the jeep back to the edge.

Through The Years . . .

With Mary Richardson

STORIES OF THE CIVIL WAR As Told By Edward Richardson

My father, his two brothers, Uncle Joe and Uncle Jimmie, enlisted from Newfields or So. Newmarket, as it was then called, in the Union Army at the beginning of the Civil War. Dad joined the Eleventh New Hampshire as a musician. He joined the Union Army August 23, 1862, and was mustered out June 4, 1865.

Upon the assembling of the Eleventh Regiment at Concord, preparatory to leaving for the front, it was ascertained that there was a considerable number of musicians — members of the bands at Lisbon, South Newmarket, Candia and perhaps other towns — all of whom, or nearly so, had enlisted as privates. It was proposed to form a regimental band and the following became its members. From Co. A — H. Jenness Paul, Edward Richardson, Jimmie Richardson, Daniel C.

Smith, Oliver Sanborn; Co. B — Charles L. Rundlett, Thomas A. Tuttle, Elias True, Jr., J. Anson Littlefield; Co. G — Thomas Baxter, Levi Bisbee, Hiram S. Carr, Daniel J. Coburn, Moody C. Marston, Jonathan C. Pennock, Edwin P. Philbrick, James W. Sampson, Joseph P. Willis, Orrin M. Whitman, Ira Gould, the first tenor drummer of the band. James W. Sampson was chosen leader. After a little practice, the band furnished excellent music.

Before the battle of Fredericksburg, General Ferrero gave a short speech to the Eleventh, "Men of the N. H. Eleventh, I expect every man to do his duty in the coming fight. I will not ask you to go anywhere that I will not lead you. Follow me."

It was a terrible battle. At one time the enemy's front seemed alive with men preparing to repulse the Union charge, which was made with a terrible rush. Hundreds of pieces of artillery from the Rebel works rained their fierce defiance of grape, canister, shells and solid shots and thousands of muskets filled the air with leaden hail. The heavens were lured with a fiery flame, peal on peal, crash on crash, benumbing the hearing, raged the fearful charge. But it was as bravely met. New Hampshire earned for itself a proud name for its bravery. For at no point was the fighting more severe than upon that part of the line where the Eleventh New Hampshire was engaged and where it had been fighting for six long hours. During this time, the men of the Eleventh quailed not, fully meriting this complement from its division commander, General Sturgis himself, one of the best fighters in the Army of the Potomac. While urging forward, some of his old troops during that terrible afternoon he said, "See the men of the Eleventh N. H. standing on that crest, standing like so many stone posts, imbedded in the ground."

My father was cook for the regiment for a while and he certainly did a good job. While they were encamped near Richmond, some of his comrades procured some oysters one day. Honestly, I hope — but nevertheless, they gave them to dad to make a stew. Some of the boys purchased milk and crackers from a nearby store. When the stew was eaten, it was declared to be the best stew they ever ate and kept urging dad to have some but he said he didn't feel well. They didn't know until a long time after what the true story of that stew really was. It seems dad, who had brought his razor along, started to shave, wiping his razor on a piece of newspaper which he placed on a nearby tree stump while he finished shaving and forgot about it. He was just finishing his stew when the wind came up and something went whizzing by, landing in the precious stew. Dad fished it out as quickly as possible and no one saw it. Here is one on Uncle Jim — how he became lost. Our soldiers were encamping near Richmond in a grove, and all of a sudden the sound of marching feet were heard. Coming up the hill was a regiment of Rebels. Our men didn't know what to do — they couldn't run as they would surely be seen and there was no place to hide. They decided to keep very quiet and perhaps they would not be seen. The soldiers came nearer and near, passed over the hill and marched out of sight, without seeing our men. But where was Jim? He couldn't be found! Finally Uncle Joe said, "Look there he is!" And there he was, sticking his head out between two feather beds that had been placed there as a barricade which only went to prove that Jimmie would rather be a live coward than a dead hero!

there will not even be time for a partial evacuation, should a warning come. Therefore the safety of the many depends on the few who will be capable of determining the fallout hazard. The second class in the series will be held Friday, January 8 at the Newmarket Fire House. The third and fourth classes will be held in Epping, Tuesday, January 12, and Friday, Jan. 15.

American Legion News

by Fred L. Beale

Another year has rolled by and we have started on a brand new year with reports from those who think they know that this year will be a banner year in all ways.

The holiday season is over and we enjoyed two excellent parties during Christmas week and New Year's Eve. I had occasion to take a ride around and examine the Holiday trims and believe me, little old Newmarket did herself justice. I saw no place where I thought we would have to take a back step. Yes, the Christmas decorations both outside and inside were very good. Perhaps next year there will be an incentive to try harder and have some new effects. The Legion Club was well decorated to help make the holiday season a happy one.

The winners of our cheerful awards were as follows: Priscilla Cook, Walter Piecuch, David Noon, Joe Dostie, E. Bernard and Justin Renner.

One of the projects of the Post this year and which has already been started, is the remarking of the Veterans' graves at the Riverside Cemetery. New markers will have to be purchased and all known veterans in the cemetery will be marked and flagged by Memorial Day.

Another project will be the flagging of the business street and anyone desiring lawn flagging may get same by contacting the Post. It is planned to have this flagging take place on July 4th, which is the first time that the new 50-star flags may be flown. The flags on the business thoroughfare are discolored, lost or in some way, damaged so that they are not flown on our holidays and we hope that next summer at the official date to fly the flags, all business establishments will be properly flagged and that many public spirited persons will also have lawn flag flying.

The marking and flagging of the veteran's graves is the duty of the Graves Registration Officers and the Officers of the Post. When a veteran dies, it makes no difference if he is a member of the Legion or not. His grave is marked and flagged with the proper marker for the war in which he served. However, if he belongs to the Post, the marker will be the official American Legion marker. It is the duty of the Graves Registration Officer to notify the department Graves Registration Officer of the cemetery and lot and in what county or town the body is buried. He, in turn, notifies the State Veterans' Council and they officially note this in their records. In that way a record is kept of all N.H. veterans who have passed away.

The starting of the New Year 1960 makes it imperative that all members get their 1960 dues card. Check your card and if you do not have the new one, get in touch with the adjutant, or Finance Officer of your Post and get it taken care of. Remember, your magazine stops coming to you if not paid and so will your insurance if your insured, under the American Legion Insurance plan.

The next district meeting of the Third New Hampshire District will be held with Dover Post No. 8 on Friday, Jan. 22.

Watch this column for news of the affairs of both the Post and District — better still — subscribe to The Newmarket Times, then you'll receive this news and information without fail.

International Farm Youth Exchange Program Gaining In Popularity

What do the people of Ecuador and Belgium look like? How do they live? What do their homes look like — their towns and cities?

What do we really know about our neighbors in other parts of the world? For that matter, what do they know about us?

With today's means of travel the world is very small. Someone said the United States is only 6 hours long and 2 hours wide by jet airliner. This even makes the people on the other side of the world our neighbors.

The International Farm Youth Exchange program started after the 2nd World War. Young people greatly concerned about the terrible suffering brought on by war, sent food and clothing abroad.

But something more was needed — a better understanding between people of all nations. Since the family is the basis of all society, they attacked the problem at the rural family level.

They decided if young men and women from farms in the United States could live and work on farms in other countries, and if their counterparts abroad could learn the way of life here, on American farms, better understanding must result.

This is an Exchange program of thoughts, ideas and people.

Earl Blood, Durham, has spent 6 months in Ecuador and was in Rockingham County January 4-8. Cynthia Smith Milford, went to Belgium and will be in Rockingham County February 8-12.

Because many of us are unable to travel abroad for one reason or another, hearing these young people and seeing their slides is a good alternative and a means of developing understanding.

If there are any organizations interested in having one or both of these I.F.Y.E. Delegates speak, please contact Robert Goodrich, Ass't. County Agricultural Agent, 61 Water st., Exeter, N. H., Tel. PR 2-2741.

Peace is possible, but only by developing a better understanding between all people in all nations.

Understanding is only possible if people are willing to open their minds and their hearts.

Mules Trounce Exeter

by Ronnie Griswold

Newmarket was host to the Blue Hawks of Exeter in a game played Tuesday night at the High School Gym. The game was marked with top scoring and rough play. The Mules who had a 5-0 record going into the game played against another undefeated team in Exeter, who sported a 4-0 record. As the Newmarket High Gym filled to almost capacity, a tense feeling went through the large crowd. As the buzzer went off to start the game, Walsh started off with three straight baskets and then Byron dropped two to make the score 6-4 Exeter. From then on it seemed like a two-man ball game as Byron and Walsh took turns swishing baskets throughout the first quarter.

Fast moving and great shooting kept the Mules in the game as they trailed 16-19 at the end of the first quarter. Watching the two teams play was like watching two pro teams in action as they had over an eighty percent field goal shooting performance. As the buzzer rang for the beginning of the second period, the crowd knew that there would not be a relaxed moment throughout the remaining quarters. The Red and Black outshot the Blue and White in the second quarter as Byron, Sklarski and Walker combined in making the points. The real ball handlers were Hayes and Kustra, as they brought the ball down, set up the plays, thus leading to many assists. As the Mules scampered to a 35-28 lead at the half, the boys knew this lead could be taken away in minutes.

As both teams went to take a short rest, the crowd emptied the gym and went outside to have a smoke and discuss the first half. Everyone was delighted with the great shooting of Walsh and Byron. These two boys seemed to be seeing who could outscore the other. The other players could not be forgotten as they grabbed many rebounds and showed dazzling ball handling. As the teams warmed up, the crowd filled the gym again to watch the next exciting half. After getting a pep talk from the coaches, the teams walked onto the floor to the junipers and thick alders like a ferret. Before you try the rabbits, get a 1960 hunting license and stamp. Don't be like my old Uncle "Flub". A warden hailed Flub New Year's Day and Flub, with a big smile on his face, pulled out a 1959 license. Nice going Flub - that's the way to start the New Year.

PICKEREL LAWS

Last year's session of the State legislature changed the law on pickerel. It now reads 10 fish or ten pounds.

Two hand lines and six tip-ups or bobs may be used for the taking of lake trout, yellow perch, shad or white fish, smelt, pickerel, white perch and cusk. Also the person setting these lines must be present and have control over the same. If bob houses or smelt shacks are used, they must have the owner's name plainly marked on the outside of the door.

As the ball went up, Walsh got the tap and threw to Osbourne who dropped it in. The game see-sawed back and forth and continued to be a very close contest. The Mules felt a little better in this quarter after outscoring their opponents 19-9. Still a bruising ball game, elbows flew and tempers flared as fouls started to be called left and right. Now, the show started as Young Duane "Bang Bang" Walker, center for NHS started to connect for the Mules. Still continuing for the Exeter Hawks was Young Walsh who kept hitting from all angles.

Outscoring the Hawks 15-12 in the third quarter, the Mules continued to roll up the score. Quot in front 50-40 at the end of the third period, the crowd could see that both teams were beginning to tire.

In the fourth quarter Duane Walker and D. Sklarski hooped baskets and the Mules looked like they might have another victory on their schedule. The Hawks then started to press the Mules near the beginning of the fourth period but had to fall back as the Red and Black continued to be fast and strong. After falling back, the Mules would set up the plays and handle the ball almost any way they wanted to. The Mules knew that the Blue from Exeter would have to come out and get the ball if they wanted to score. The coach from Newmarket finally sent in his substitutes to deal with the Exeter team. As the subs went in for NHS, the Exeter coach sent in two boys for his team. The new Mules seemed fast but were a little weak at handling the fine ball club from Exeter. The Exeter team scored a few points but not enough. A foul was called on young Walsh and he seemed very upset and bounced the ball to the beams on the ceiling which led to a technical foul being called.

Coach Cross seems pleased with his starting combination and will probably stick with this lineup most of the season.

Outscoring the opponents 20-12 in the final quarter, the fast, strong Mules have continued their winning streak to six and hope to make it seven when they tackle the Blue and Gold of Holy Rosary at Rochester on Friday night.

The J.V.G game was fast as the Young Mules defeated Exeter J.V. 30-18. With the great shooting of Dick Homiak and Charles Belmont, the Junior Mules chalked up another victory for Coach O'Connor. Close throughout the game, the J.V.'s broke away in the last half and thus led to a surprising upset.

1842 SPRINGFIELD MUZZLE LOADING ARMY RIFLE 50-CAL. BORE

The gun pictured above was made in Springfield, Mass., at the new, then modern, gun factory which, by the way, is still turning out guns for the armed forces. This gun figured in the early Indian Wars and later was used in the first few months of the war between the states. The gun is a cap and ball model and was loaded from the muzzle end of the gun. This was a slow process and you can well guess what happened to the poor trooper who missed his man and then tried to reload. Directly below and to the left is a powder horn and to the right is a shot pouch. This gun belongs to the collection of Richard Schanda.

Last Monday, Jan. 4th, your sport's columnist took a ride around looking for deer signs. I checked about 10 crossings and failed to see a single track. The snow cover has been on the ground since last Monday, Dec. 28th and from all appearances, the snow is deep enough to hinder the movement of the deer herd. Before the rains came, there was about 14" of snow on the level and more along the exposed fences and clearings where it had a tendency to drift.

This would be a good time to remind all you readers to keep a close watch on your dogs. For some strange reason at this time of year, dogs seem to range far from home. If the average dog runs across fresh deer tracks, he will trail and if he is persistent enough, he will jump the deer. If a dog once experiences the excitement of a deer chase, he may become a confirmed deer runner. If this happens, the dog and the owner may be in a jam with the Conservation department. A dog caught in the act can be shot on the spot and the owner is subject to a large fine. If you have any doubts at all about your dog, tie him up until spring or until the snow is gone. Last year in the state of N.H., dogs and cars killed over 1500 deer. Many of these deer were does with unborn young. Our deer herd is a million dollar business in this state and we are all major stock holders — so we must do all we can to protect our investment.

I checked the river Tuesday for thickness and promptly stepped into a half-frozen ice fishing hole. The hole was small enough to keep me (or rather two-thirds of me) above water. The ice in the moat is plenty thick, but the main river, outside of the ice house cove, are not what you would call truly safe.

The rains of Sunday made the river rise somewhat and also wore the ice quite thin in the middle of the river. Also the swifter parts of the river are still too thin to be called fool-proof. Keep the children off another week to be on the safe side.

It would be nice to see the town locate some life rings with a few hundred feet of line along the river at spots that do not freeze too solid. A life ring at the bridge would be a sound investment and could save a life.

Very fine rabbit hunting last New Year's day, although the snow was deep enough to need snow shoes. I never could figure out how a little dog like a beagle could thrash through the snow as well as he does — but you ought to see them go. They look like a little brown and white seal chasing a school of pollack. Of all the hunting dogs in the country, the beagle is the most popular. He is tough and durable and also gentle with children. Being low to the ground, he can poke through
