At the Epping school meeting in April, voters accepted the bond issue for a new school, with only a 9 vote margin over the cooperative school question. A two-thirds vote is necessary for the approval of a bond issue.

Epping voters are divided on this school question. Those favoring a cooperative school with Newmarket state that erection of a 14-room school building will raise the tax rate a possible $20. Proponents of the new building have voiced their objection to the long bus ride from Epping to Newmarket.

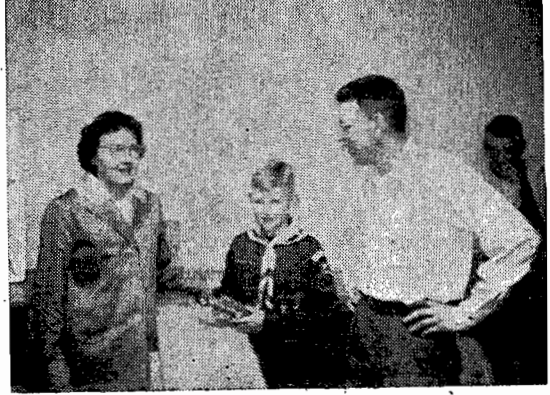

Newmarket school officials await the outcome of the Epping meeting with considerable interest. Local voters voiced their willingness at the last town meeting to investigate the possibilities of entering into a cooperative school. The outcome of Friday's meeting will determine the outcome of Newmarket interest in the cooperative school plan.

American Legion News

By Fred L. Beale

The Robert G. Durgin Post, A. L., conducted the annual Memorial Day ceremonies starting with Memorial service at the Calvary cemetery followed by a volley from the firing squad and taps by Leman Hatch. The service started at 9 a.m. and ended at about 10.

Due to the inability to procure music before 11, the parade did not start until 11:30 with the Oyster River High school band. The parade was headed by the Civil Defense Auxiliary Police. The following units participated: the Robert G. Durgin Post led by Comm. Charles A. Bennett, Jr.; the Durgin unit led by Mrs. Helen Silver, president; Oyster River band; the Polish American club and their auxiliary; the Lamprey Airie Eagles and their auxiliary, the Boy Scouts, the Girl Scouts and the various teams of the Little League baseball groups, the Civil Defense and the Newmarket Fire Department.

Comments heard following the parade would lead to the conclusion that the parade was one of the best held here. Many favorable remarks were heard about the band. Big city style in having the parade led by the auxiliary police who looked very nice in their uniforms. It was noticeable that the veterans of WWI were very scarce and can be accounted for by their age and inability to parade but they rode to the cemetery in cars and were there for the services.

Coming back from the cemetery we proceeded to Elm street and to the Eagles' Flag Pole at the Little League ball field where we participated in the flag raising to start the season of the league. The parade broke up there and sandwiches and coffee were served at the Legion hall. Every one cooperated in making this a fine day. Even Jupiter Pluvius held back his tear drops.

The Legion and the Eagles journeyed to Stratham to assist them in their parade which started at 2 p.m. at the church and proceeded to the new school for services.

The officers and members of the Robert G. Durgin Post wishes to thank those units who assisted in making this a fine Memorial Day of the town of Newmarket, our town.

The next regular meeting of the Post will be on Monday, June 6th. Jack Pot and 50/50 club drawings will be held and special business is expected to come before the meeting.

Socials at the club every Friday evening. No work clothes, please.

Shuffleboard tournament now going on at the club, every Tuesday night.

GIRL SCOUT NEWS

By Carole Willey

The eleventh meeting of Girl Scout Troop 585 was held last Wednesday, with 40 scouts present.

After the dues were collected, the girls spent the afternoon practicing marching.

On Sunday, May 29th, the scouts attended their respective churches in a body.

The hike has been rescheduled for June 11th.

of the cemeteries this year. They were in the best condition in years and made it a lot easier to flag the graves as no markers were found to be off the lot on which it belonged. The Legion flag pole was painted last week and a new flag was flown Memorial Day. More markers are needed and we are finding more veteran's graves which are unmarked and will be marked as soon as we get new markers.

Home Demonstration Officers-Elect Attend May 26 County Program Day

Over one hundred Home Demonstration officers-elect attended Rockingham County Program Day on May 26 at the auditorium of the County Home in Brentwood. This was a training session for the new officers, according to Miss Ruth G. Stimson, County Home Demonstration Agent. They'll return to their twenty-nine local Home Demonstration Groups to hold program planning sessions in June.

The day's program included registration in charge of Hampton and Brentwood groups. Mrs. G. Newton Weeks, president of the County H. D. Advisory Council, welcomed the group and introduced Mrs. Louise C. Dix. State Home Demonstration Leader from Durham. She discussed the need of an Assistant Home Demonstration Agent for the county, 1961 program, the responsibilities of the women as leaders in their local groups, and installed the new presidents.

Miss Stimson presented the leaders with Officers' Handbooks. Goals and program planning were discussed. The Rockingham County Extension Service is studying new methods of operation to meet changing needs with increased population.

Mr. Richard Moll, Associate Director of the League of N.H. Arts and Crafts, spoke on the availability of craft instruction for homemakers over fifty years of age. Details of future classes were explained. This will be a cooperatively sponsored project between Extension Service and the League of Arts and Crafts.

The annual Williamson-Babb Home Demonstration Scholarship Luncheon sponsored by the Advisory Council members under the chairmanship of Mrs. Charles Peabody of Stratham, was served at noon. New Council members are Mrs. George Jong of Portsmouth, Mrs. Charles Waters of Hampton, and Mrs. Herbert Norris of Londonderry.

Mr. George Hilton, superintendent of the County Home, spoke on Occupational Therapy as a method in the care of elderly people. An exhibit was shown. Home Demonstration members have contributed materials in support of the pioneer educational program. Mrs. John McEachern of Hampton Falls announced the winner of the 4th Newsbound Contest, public information program. There were fifteen entries in 1960 with an increase in news pictures and print. Any Home Demonstration group scoring more than 100 points received a citation.

The final speaker of County Program Day was Miss Bodil Jorgensen on Life in Denmark.

Two Men Held After Local Car Theft

Friday afternoon, May 27th, Conrad Baillargeon of Lee reported to officer John Jordan that his car had been stolen from the parking lot at Priest's auto sales on Exeter street. A full description was given by Jordan and an alert broadcast over the state police network. A call from state police later announced that the car had been found abandoned in Leominster, Mass., and that 2 subjects apprehended in Athol, Mass., had admitted stealing the car from Newmarket and abandoning it.

Saturday morning Sheriff George Sampson and Deputy Sheriff Stevens went to Athol, picked up and returned with the two men. A hearing was held Saturday afternoon in Newmarket before Associate Justice John A. Edgerly Jr. A plea of guilty was entered by both Rene C. Lebeau, 18, of Epping, and Philip E. Roussel, 18, of Gardner, Mass., to a charge of auto theft.

Recently Raymond Demers reported a car with no plates had been left on New road. Investigation by police chief John Valliere revealed that the car had a wire jumper attached to a foreign battery and was apparently stolen, although no stolen cars had recently been reported. The vehicle was towed to a local garage and a complete description given to state police for checking.

The court found probable cause and ordered the men held on $1500 each. The pair unable to raise bail were remanded to the House of Correction, Brentwood, to await trial.

Saturday, May 28 at Municipal court with Associate Judge John A. Edgerly presiding, Irwin Hunt of Newmarket was charged with engaging in a brawl which ended in a fist fight with Robert M. Fleming of Clinton, Mass., on Main street. Hunt entered a plea of guilty, was found guilty and fined $25 and ordered to post a bond of $50 to keep the peace for one year.

Five Car Crash Injures Woman

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Hauschel were involuntary participants in a 5 car chain-collision recently on Route 108 in Dover. Unhurt and unidentified were the occupants of the first two cars. The 3rd was driven by Sam Smith of Durham and the 4th occupied by the Hauschels.

The fifth car driven by Richard Lafayette, a student at UNH, rammed the Hauschel vehicle from the rear. Mrs. Hauschel was shaken and bruised and she was taken to the Exeter Hospital for X-rays and later released. She still had not been able to return to her job at Turcotte's Hardware.

Interesting Items of Newmarket

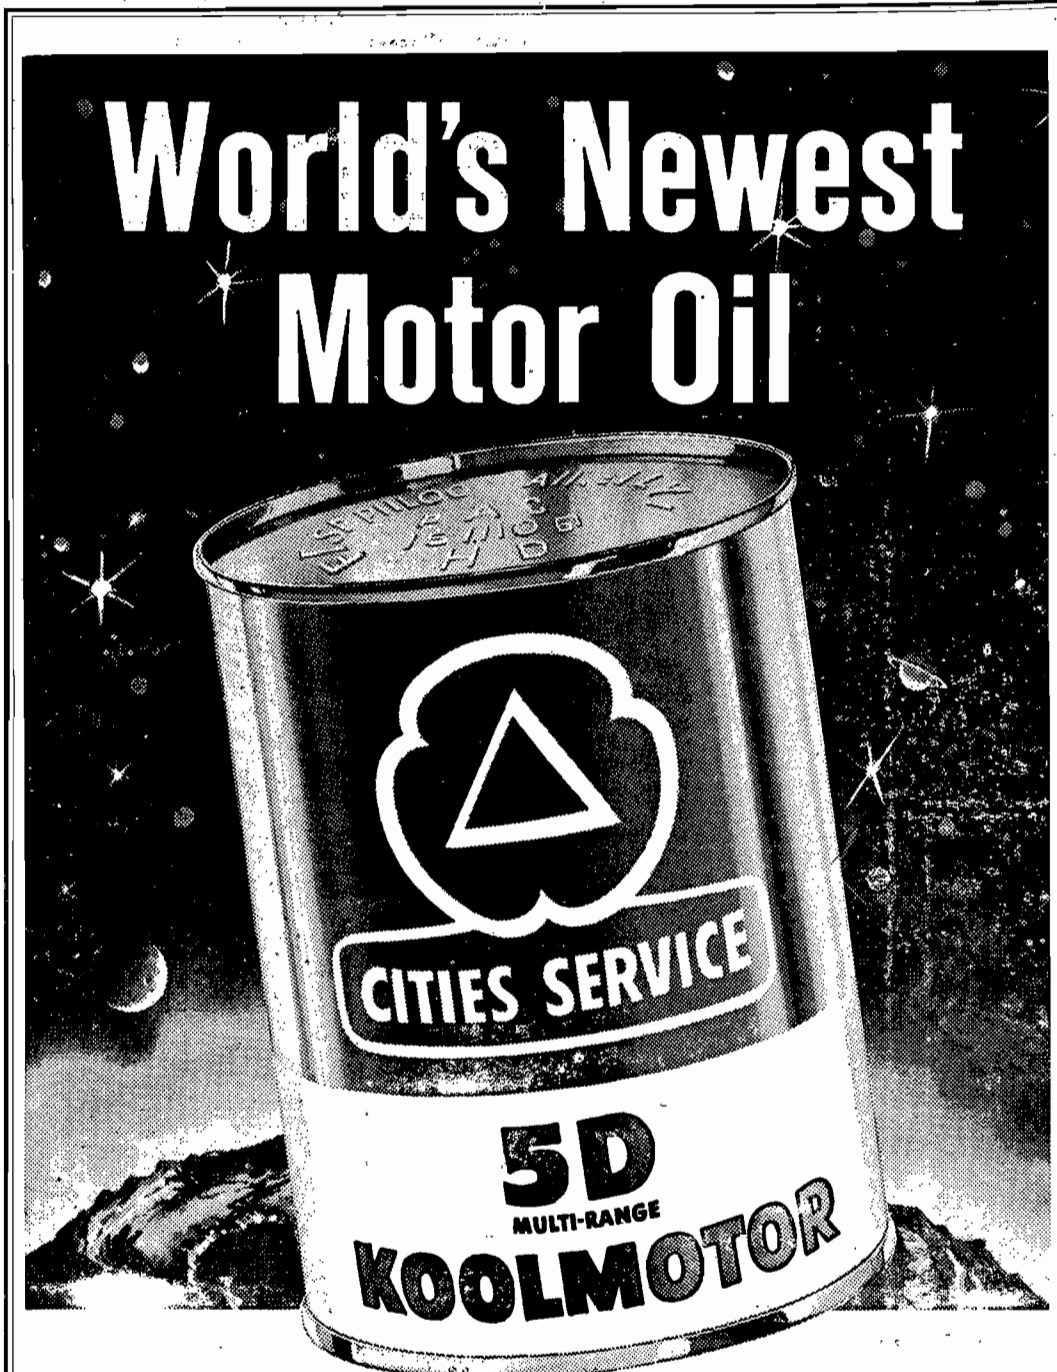

Many years ago gold was found in Newmarket. The mine was situated on Great Hill. Tradition has it that some of this gold was made into a ring. After an attempt or two, the mine was deserted, but the mine is still visible and a friend of ours, a former Newmarket resident viewed this mine sixty years ago with as he expressed it, considerable amazement.

Miss Jennie Young of Colonial street, Newmarket, said this was not a gold mine but a silver mine for she possessed a piece of rock that came from this mine and it was full of little pieces that looked like silver. Many in time past has viewed this mine and taken away a piece of rock as a souvenir. Some one in our town recently tried to locate the Leavitt house at Rockingham Junction but were unable to do so. We have since been told that there was a little house and that the cellar of this house is in a part of what is now Calvary cemetery. This house was situated north of the residence of Ralph Waugh. Mrs. Ernest Menter of Lee Hill was born in this little house. Mrs. Nellie Bresnaham of Newmarket told her niece Florence Gallagher that the cemetery was purchased by the Catholic bishop of Manchester, from an Irishman whose name she couldn't remember. He was glad to sell as he said the land was so poor he couldn't even raise potatoes. Before the land for the cemetery was purchased, the dead were buried in Portsmouth. Very few remember the little house, but some do remember Florence Leavitt, who attended school with Jennie Young and that they resided in the Wright house and that Mr. Leavitt was station agent at that time at Rockingham. The family might have lived for a while in the little house. Many of the towns in New Hampshire can boast of having one Indian name but not many have two like Newmarket. The first name, Pascassie or as it is sometimes written, Pocasset, and Washucke or Watchet, the first undoubtedly derived from the three words pos, meaning great cooash, pines and auke place, signifying "the great pine place" and the second from the well-known Indian word wache hill and auke place or "the hilly place". The first covering in the early days the entire region about the Lamprey river, from its mouth to the confluence of the Piscassic, later confining itself more particularly to the territory between the first falls of the Piscassic and the second covering the territory between the west bank of the Piscassic and the western main stream of the Lamprey, including parts of the present towns of Lee, Epping and Newfields.

About these falls, known as Pascassic, dwelt quite a colony of the subjects of Passacaconaway and of his under-chief Wadononamin, the sagamore of Washucke and Piscataqua, who were known as the Pascassic or Pocasset Indians, although history is silent on this point. Their presense being intimated by an ancient mill grant which mentions the falls in the Lamprey river as being "a little above the wigwams". And it tery was purchased, the dead were buried in Portsmouth. Very few remember the little house, but some do remember Florence Leavitt, who attended school with Jennie Young and that they resided in the Wright house and that Mr. Leavitt was station agent at that time at Rockingham. The family might have lived for a while in the little house. Many of the towns in New Hampshire can boast of having one Indian name but not many have two like Newmarket. was here about these falls that pre-historic Newmarket was peacefully pursuing its village life in the honest work of fishing, hunting and planting corn. There is a story told of the great and good Chief Passacaconaway. He lived to quite an old age and he knew his end was near. He was given a vision, in which he was told to go to a certain place, on a certain day. So taking two of his friends he went to the place indicated to calmly await the end. There soon appeared a spot in the sky which gradually grew larger and soon a white sleigh became visible, filled with robes of sort of white fur. The sleigh was drawn by six white wolves. It came nearer and nearer and stopped beside the chief. The young man who drove the wolves was also in sparkling white. The young man invited the chief to get in which he did and the sleigh slowly commenced to rise and soon was out of sight where it reached the Happy Hunting Ground.

MADBURY ROAD DURHAM

Joe Dixx's Sport Corner

By Richard Schanda

During the first part of this week I was lucky enough to watch a family of wood ducks feeding and playing in Broad cove, out back of brother Joe's house. There were seven young ducks along with the parents.

The wood duck has made a strong come back in recent years. With proper conservation and restricted bag limits the wood duck has now become an important game bird up in our section. Ten years ago it was a rare treat to see a pair of wood ducks during the open season; now you can see flocks of 10 or 20 of these beautiful ducks.

Some of the major reasons why this duck was threatened with extinction was the over-shooting and extensive lumbering operations of the late 30's. The timber cutting exposed and dried up many midwood ponds. As we know, the wood duck builds its nest up in the trees. At times these nests are a full 30 feet up and up to two miles from open water. You can well imagine the high death rate from the nest to the doubtful safety of the various ponds and rivers.

Ed Hilton, up on Epping road, had a pair of wood ducks nesting up in an old maple tree just across the road from his house. Now these ducks had to walk at least a mile to reach a fair amount of water. The jump from the nest to the ground is usually taken within 24 hours after the hatch. How many little ducks made it is anybody's guess.

Reports from up country have shown that the high and cold waters are still holding the trout down. A fair amount of brookies have been taken but the big fellows, the rainbows, browns and salmon have not been biting. Right now the black flies are murder up above Wakefield. It would appear that your best bet is still the southern areas.

Deep sea fishermen are having spotty luck. Good catches one day and no bites at all the next day. The seas have been running high and rough. The wind has been out of the East for three weeks and believe me that old East wind feels as if it comes straight out over the Greenland Ice Cap. The fish are moving up the coast now and within a week or so we should be catching a few good haddock or cod. The pollack are also showing up.

Down off Plum Island the fishermen are now catching a few school stripers. These fish will be making their spring runs up into Great Bay and I imagine many a bridge fisherman is waiting for them. Striper fishing from the Sullivan bridge has become a popular sport.

I happened to get my hands on a book on trapping by Walter Arnold who lives in Guilford, Me., and I have never read a book that explains the tricks of trapping as well as that book did. This book would make a nice birthday present for some young trapper. This book was written by a real trapper who is loaded with fine pictures of different trap sets and fur bearing animals.

A raccoon has been seen up at Maplecrest and it seems to have developed a taste for Mario Zocchi's rubbish can. A call for a trapper has been issued by Mario, but as we go to press Mario is still picking up his rubbish every morning. His neighbors tell me "Zoc" has tried everything from a box trap to a sunken pit and the only thing he has caught so far was his lawn mower, which fell into the pit he had dug.

Newmarket's Sport Classic

Indianapolis took a back seat last Tuesday when the Cub Scouts held their Junior "Pine Wood Derby." Dens 1, 2, 3 and 4 of the Newmarket district held their eliminations which ended with Bruce Hodsdon of den 4 beating the field. These "Pine Wood Derbys" are getting real popular. The derby racer is carved from a solid block of white pine and fitted with regulation wheels. Overall weight of the racer must not exceed 5 oz. The racers are then placed on an inclined track which, by the way, was built and loaned by the Pease Air Force Base.

The judges, Rose Bargiel and Barney Turcotte had no easy time picking the winners who were Den one, Tim Marcoux, Den two, Ed Turcotte, Den 3, David Schmeer and Den four, Bruce Hodsdon. Bruce being the final winner, will enter his car at the next derby which will decide the winner of the Southeastern district. This will be held sometime in July, at a time and place which will be announced later.

George Prescott Builds Stockcar

A stockcar built by George Prescott, Newmarket, entered New England racing competition for the first time last Saturday night at the West Peabody, Mass. speedway. The car, No. 24, driven by popular Jerry Dolliver of Kingston, N. H., finished 6th in the West Peabody feature event.

Prescott began building the car last winter and has since incorporated many new and radical ideas in the little racer. It is powered by a V-8 Ford flathead engine build especially for racing by a specialist in this field.

Prescott's car with Jerry Dolliver again at the wheel, is expecting to race Friday night, June 3rd at the Dover, N. H. speedway.

LITTLE LEAGUE NEWS

By Joe Dixx

Sunday's double header proved to be a rousing success and was attended by over 225 fans. After the opening day ceremonies during which the 4 Little League teams were introduced, the first game got under way. Being the first game of the season, the boys were a bit nervous but we all enjoyed two fine ball games.

Directly after the first games, the winning tickets on the bike and spikes were drawn. The winner of the bike was Walter Linscott who lives at 74 Exeter street. Jack Harolerode, who sold the winning ticket, received a fine baseball glove. By the way, Mr. Linscott presented the bike to Jack who needless to say, was tickled pink. The spikes were won by Francis Piasick, Sr.

The refreshment stand had a banner day with over 200 hot dogs sold along with 360 bottles of tonic. Chief cook and bottle washer Ken Anderson had a lot of nice looking help, Mrs. Howcroft and Mrs. Piasick. They really dished out the grub.

HISTORY OF LAMPREY AERIE TRACED THROUGH 50 YEARS

On May 19, 1910, the Lamprey Aerie No. 1934 was duly instituted in the town hall at Newmarket, N. H., by D. G. W. J. John Webb of Portsmouth, assisted by Somersworth, Dover, Portsmouth and Haverhill, Mass. Aeries. Although the Charter had fifty-seven names on it there were actually sixty-one at the institution.

William P. (King) Haley was chosen as the first president and down through the years has been known as the founder of the Aerie.

The young Aerie began to grow right from the start and in looking back through the records hardly a meeting went by without several new members being taken into the Aerie.

One of the problems confronting the new Aerie was finding suitable quarters. After trying out several halls, the Aerie moved into the hall above Brisson's store and there it stayed for many years.

As the years went by the Aerie grew steadily.

When World War I came along many of the brothers answered the call to arms. The Aerie voted at a regular meeting to carry all members in the armed services as being in good standing.

During the war years the Aerie had a special committee to raise money to send cigarettes, tobacco, etc., to the boys in the service.

After the war the Eagles did their part in welcoming the boys back home and the Aerie continued to gain new members and several large class initiations were held with degree teams from several neighboring Aeries helping the local Aerie.

The local Aerie grew steadily during the next few years and the members enjoyed all the good times that go along with a fraternal organization, such as outing, dances, etc.

But in 1929, when the mills went out on strike, the Town of Newmarket suffered a severe depression and the Eagles also suffered from this. Many members moved out of town and many had to be dropped for non-payment of dues. But the members who were left kept right on working for the Aerie and by running benefits and other fund raising activities, they were able to hold the Aerie together.

In 1937 the Aerie had a chance to buy the old company officers on Main street, which they made into their new home.

After quite a bit of work by the members in renovating the building and making it suitable for an Aerie home, the Aerie finally had its own home and once more the Aerie began to prosper and grow.

In 1939 some of the members got together and organized a Drum and Bugle Corps and many can remember that the Corps did very well and won many prizes.

About this time the Aerie started to have its children's Christmas parties. At first the parties were small but as the years went by the parties grew larger and larger and today the Eagles bring a little joy and happiness to about 600 children of the community each Christmas.

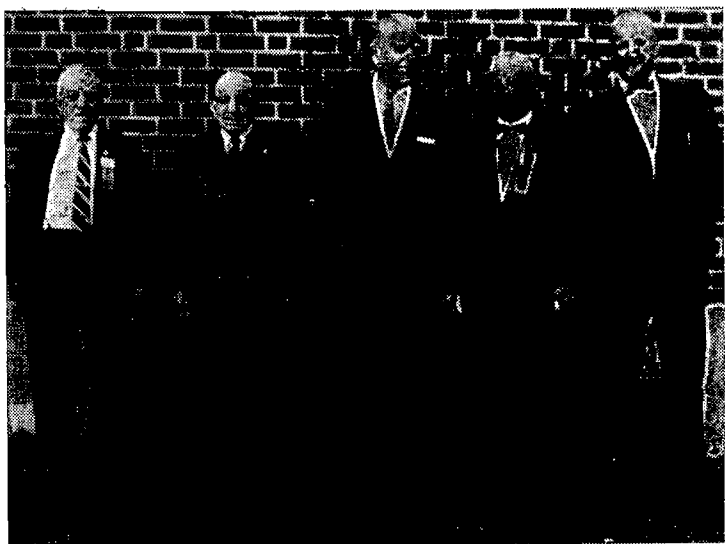

When the Second World War broke out, the Lamprey Aerie again sent many of its members to answer their country's call to arms. The Aerie itself did very much in helping the cause by buying War Bonds and sending gifts to the boys in the service.

In 1947, when the New Hampshire State Aerie was formed, Lamprey Aerie did its share in making the state Aerie a success and it now has two past state presidents and one member of the present board of State Trustees.

In 1954 the Aerie home was completely renovated and the club rooms were moved upstairs. Today, Lamprey has one of the most beautiful club rooms of any Aerie around.

nation have always been known for its work in helping make life easier for everyone, especially the children. Lamprey Aerie has always done its share, both on a national and local level.

Some of the activities along these lines for which the Eagles of Newmarket are known are its annual Children's Christmas party, the support of the children's summer playground, the support of the hot lunch program in the schools, donations to various children's and charitable organizations and most recently it's support of the Little League in Newmarket.

The Eagles Ladies Auxiliary which was instituted several years ago is a very important part of the Eagles and have been a great help to the Eagles and the work it is trying to do.

The Eagles are proud to be a part of the community life of Newmarket and feel that the town is proud of its Eagles. We hope that the next fifty years will bring as much success and prosperity to the Eagles and the Town of Newmarket as the past fifty years.
