New Yorkers Are Talking About:

The former Minister to Austria, who teaches Foreign Relations at Georgetown Univ. He is still on the Nazy payroll at $200 a week "pension" . . . Vincent Cullen, N. Y. insurance exec and former business associate of FDR, who may head the Stock Exchange . . . Alex King's new mag. It'll have a page (for obnoxious people) called The Bore of the Month Club. Nothing personal, I hope.

Gertrude Lawrence's "laryngitis" which is really heartache and nerves over news from abroad. Bert Lytell of the cast had to shake her before an eve'g performance to stop her from crying so hard . . . Grand Duchess Marie's withdrawal from the Paderewski Fund Party Committee, after he heard she was on it and hit the ceiling . . . The frosty glances these nights between Noel Coward and John Buckmaster Sets. Each believes the other should be in the British army instead of staging benefits over here.

The truth about Tommy Corcoran's magnesium fee. He received no coin, merely an offer of stock . . . Quentin Reynolds returning to England with 6,500 sulfanilamide tablets which are marked "Made in Germany" . . . The Communist leaders who last week voted to start an anti-Semitic campaign in an effort to get the public's mind off Communists.

Charlie Chaplin's newest and most torrid romance: The way he dunks hamburger sandwiches into coffee . . . Senator Wagner's recovery, which is everybody's idea of swell news . . . The new music mag, "Baton"—which is so superstitious it has no page 13 . . . The Britishers placed in the swank spots by the British Gov't at swell pay to watch and listen . . . Pod'n the proofreading: Wm. C. Bullitt's smarticle in Life is called "What Next?"

Jimmy Cromwell and Luise Rainer being glug-glug . . . Gen. Hugh Johnson being miffed at his publishers, Bobbs-Merrill, who are also publishing Ralph Ingersoll's "America Is Worth Fighting For" in 10 days. It contradicts almost everything Johnson says in his book . . . Dorothy Thompson's yip that she

HI-Y CLUB MEETS

The Hi-Y club held its weekly meeting in its club room over the Post Office on Wednesday night at 7:00 o'clock. The meeting was opened by Robert Stevens as the president was not present. Old business consisted of more work to be done in cleaning up the club room and finish building the ski trail on Carpenter's Hill. According to the demerit system of the club, the boys with the least amount of demerits will be rewarded with a trip to Boston, and it seems that the younger boys are the ones with the least amount of them. Some tests were given out to the boys to be filled out and passed in at the next meeting. They will be sent in to the national group to be corrected and graded.

Due to misuse of the rooms, the boys will not be permitted the use of the Ping Pong table except on meeting nights. Starting next September every boy will be furnished with a key to the rooms, and up until the time the room is being misused, every boy will be able to retain his key. Ping Pong was played after the meeting.

EDITORIAL CORNER

Apple Blossom Time

My neighbor just stopped by to leave my newspaper, and, with the washing blowing on the line, and a pie in the oven, I dropped down for a moment's rest, and a brief survey of the news.

Gaping headlines were not reassuring. They shouted insistently of raids and bombing, of disaster and tragedy.

Depressed and unhappy, I turned the pages in search of more optimistic tidings. I found it contained in that magic word "mother," in all the bits over the country relating to observance of her day. There were glowing accounts of the tribute paid to her in church services of every denomination. There were little intimate stories of mother and children in homes, and one picture portrayed four wonderful lads in uniform, with a smiling mother in their midst. There was no better reading in all the paper.

Down in Massachusetts, Sunday, a queen was crowned, at the seventh annual apple blossom festival of Nashoba Valley. Her picture appeared with the story. She was a young, stary eyed maiden, as fair as the kingdom over which she became ruler.

It brought to my mind the memory of a visit to Nova Scotia, and the apple blossom festival in the Annapolis Valley. Some years ago I stayed in the valley during the festival week. Laden with orchards it extends for over ninety miles, and at this season is a vision of beauty. Nova Scotia girls are beautiful, too, and their queen and the princess train were pleasing to look upon. It was a week of gala events, with parades of school children, of beautiful maidens, of handsome Northwest Mounted Police, and with strikingly uniformed bands from many towns throughout the valley.

I had never seen so many apple

Your dreams of conquests; memories of achievements will unfold themselves before you in review. What sort of dreams, you ask? The dreams that haunted you when in your classes during the past four years you were told that "the function of a newspaper is to present the public with facts and names." Perhaps you are getting older and perhaps you understand now that it is the way of all flesh to feel bitter as arrogant youth topples over what once was arrogant youth and now is old age.

The freedom of the Press in these United States of ours will permit you to state your stand on issues of national importance. You will be permitted to write your mind and to set forth the ideals and inspirations now buried in your soul. You will find solace in those who side with you and will curse those who fail to understand. You will make mistakes and will profit through your folly via the sound advice of those more experienced in the field. Your attitude will be watched and the progress for advancement will be entirely up to you. You will be on your own and those directly affected by your copy will be your judge and jury. This writer finds no reason for complaints about the town not being a suitable living place. It has many up-to-date houses with plenty of fine land tracts. Its roads are kept in fine condition by two worthy road agents. It has many recreation centers that are run on the so-called up-and-up basis. Among these are the theatre, pool room, race track, ball park, and many important clubs for men, women, boys, and girls. It has two well established churches and a fine schooling system.

Now, you may wonder what the author thinks is wrong with the town of Newmarket after hearing his fine build-up story. Well, to be frank, in this author's opinion, the only thing that is wrong about Newmarket is that it doesn't get enough support and help from its people. What this town needs, is the loyal support and help of the people as a whole. Help your town in every way possible. Stick up for it. Do not let people discourage you by telling that the town isn't the place for you to live. Advertise its good points and let other people share your good fortune of being able to live in such a town as Newmarket.

Cooperate with town officials and support them and their work. Establish a firm business with the merchants of the town. Support the worthy organizations of the community and know more about your town. If all these facts were firmly estab-

Bouquets and bridesmaids, weddings, and honeymoons—all completely engrossing subjects to the bride and her family. But before we become too involved in these absorbing details, let's plan a setting that will be as greatly enjoyed and long remembered as the wedding itself.

Plan your wedding table as you would a picture you wish never to be forgotten. It may be a breakfast, a luncheon, or an afternoon or evening reception. Later on you'll find outlined buffet refreshments and recipes that will be welcome at any of these events. Plates, silver and napkins your guests will find on a buffet or near-by table. They will help themselves to the sandwiches and individual salads on one side of the table. The little salads are made in paper cups well ahead of time. The base is of cream cheese, crab meat, and mayonnaise, the top layers of tomato aspic.

At one end of the table coffee is served, with punch at the other for those who prefer it. Opposite the sandwiches reigns the wedding cake, focus for all eyes. It's cut from the back, leaving the front attractive as long as possible. Your guests may stand to eat or be seated at small tables in the house or garden.

This buffet table would be just as appropriate for a hotel affair as for a home reception, but if a large number are present you'll need several cakes, alternated with bouquets and candelabra. If your table will allow it without crowding, add comports of nut meats and candies.

It's traditional for the bride to cut the first piece of cake for her brand-new husband. A clever idea is to slice this piece and tie it with a white satin ribbon and bow before the cake is frosted. Fit the piece back into the cake and frost over it, leaving the bow for the lady to hold as she cuts through the frosting, lifts it out and serves the groom. From then on a hostess or servant will continue the cutting. Oftentimes the bride prefers to turn the matter of the cake over to the caterer, but if there's a skillful aunt or friend, by all means, give her the pleasure of making the festive cake.

The origin of the wedding cake is interesting. Do you know it? It began back with the Romans, where

Reception Salad

Tomato Jelly Layer
1 tablespoon unflavored gelatine
¼ cup cold water
1½ cups tomato juice

ver dragees. Serve on silver tray or platter surrounded with sprays of fern, freesias, or bridal wreath. Place special favor on top of cake, if desired, or the small wedding bells or other favors to white ribbons and intertwine through sprays.

Ornamental Frosting

3 egg whites
1 tablespoon lemon juice
Confectioners' sugar, sifted
Put eggs in a large bowl; add two tablespoons sugar and beat three minutes, using a perforated wooden spoon. Repeat until 1½ cups of sugar are used. Add lemon juice gradually as mixture thickens. Continue adding sugar by spoonfuls, beating until frosting is stiff enough to spread. This may be determined by taking up some of the mixture on the back of a spoon and with a case knife, making a cut through the mixture. If knife makes a clean cut and frosting remains parted, it is of right consistency. Spread cake thinly with frosting. When this has hardened, put on a thicker layer, having mixture somewhat thicker. Then add enough sugar to remaining frosting so it may keep its shape after being forced through a pastry bag and tube.

Wedding or Groom's Cake

2 cups butter, scant
3 cups brown sugar
6 eggs, whites and yolks beaten separately
1 pound seeded raisins
1 pound currants
½ pound citron, cut in thin slices
½ cup molasses
½ cup sour milk
½ nutmeg, grated
1 tablespoon each of cinnamon, cloves and mace
4 cups sifted flour
1 teaspoon soda dissolved in 2 tablespoons cold water
Cream butter; add sugar and cream thoroughly. Add spices then molasses and sour milk. Stir well and add yolks of eggs, ½ cup water and 2 teaspoons vanilla. Stir well. Add flour alternately with beaten egg whites. Add the dissolved soda and stir again very thoroughly.

Mix the fruit together and stir into it 2 heaping tablespoons of flour; then stir into cake batter. Stir thoroughly.

I reached the head of the long rows of trees and found myself looking from a lofty height down into the valley of Gaspereaux. The sunset sky was aglow with rose and gold and its rays rested as tenderly as a mother's touch, upon the scene below.

This week we drove through some of the orchard lands near Kingston. Our immediate world was at peace, and there was no ugliness to mar the purity of the blossom laden trees.

I feasted my eyes upon their beauty, and thought, "It is spring, too, in Normandy. I wonder if, despite the horror of war, the apple trees still bloom there, and are the eyes of those simple Normandy folk, too blinded by misery, to catch any hint of their loveliness".

It sometimes takes a sudden thought of another's grief to bring one to a realization of his own cause for thankfulness. It must have been this picture of Normandy in mind that of a sudden, caused me to offer up a silent paean of thanksgiving, for the security of a nation at peace, and that glorified the trees about me until they looked like shining angels keeping guard.

MILDRED M. SPILLER,

Graduation—Then What

Word reaches us from Fall River, Mass., that Thibodeau College, our Alma Mater, will graduate a large class of students late next month. In the parlance of newspaper language, we are told that the bulk of the graduates will aspire to newspaper positions and that preparations to find positions for these simon-pures are already underway. How well we remember our cub days when we anticipated to set the world on fire with words of wisdom emanating from our vocabulary tinted with what we thought was rare and outstanding ideas and ideals. The day has long since gone under the bridge with the flow of time. Nevertheless, the intrigue still lives on. The grass of experience still is green.

We are asked at this time to enunciate the fundamentals of journalism as applied to modern science linked with the trade. As far as we know it has not changed and will never change. As a result, the duty of a newspaperman is to furnish the public with facts—to serve the community and to serve it well. The who, where, why and when is still the answer to news no matter how trivial and if these fundamentals are applied in a clear repertorial manner chances are that success in journalism will be the lot of those identified with the profession.

Naturally, the road is a hard one. You will find the disadvantages of being scoffed at and ridiculed. You will become public property and as such subject to stiff reprimands. For every kind word cast in your direction ten insults will find their way at your emotional balance. There is humor and there are pathos, laughter and tears; and there are entrances and many exits. Oh, yes,—you will find many, many things to write about. People you know and people you ought to know will furnish you with the stories you'll love to write. It's hard to get to the top and still harder to stay there. Once you have straddled the top of the field only then will you realize the plight of the plunge to oblivion. Indeed,—because those who have never felt the breathless ascent are not prepared to judge the whirling plunge to the bottom.

Don't be at all alarmed. The reading public in general is an intelligent people. They know the obstacles cast in the path of a free press. They depend upon that free press for information and facts. Your duty will be to supply them with what they seek. Never turn them down. It will be your solemn duty to perform your acts in a manner linked with integrity and character. To do otherwise will be a cardinal sin to those "strolling newspaper row."

Here's hoping your dream will come true. Give it all you've got. America needs good newspapermen,—especially so, in this decade of darkness when the light of freedom is on the brink of being extinguished.

—Robert Brochu.

OUR TOWN!

Newmarket is a typical small New England town. It is located in Rockingham County and is in the southeastern corner of the state of New Hampshire. It is named after an English town that is famous for the sport of racing.

Newmarket is strictly a factory town. It has a population of approximately 2600 people. This population is mostly mill workers, plus a variation of farmers and merchants. The people of Newmarket have for a motto one which is hard to beat. It is "Be Neighborly". We believe that this motto is carried out to the greatest extent that is possible. It is not an uncommon thing to be greeted by a snappy "Good Morning" or a pleasant "Hello" from a person whom you have not even a speaking acquaintance to or have not noticed before. It is the simple things such as these that help to make a town what it is. Neighbors are willing to help in time of need by granting whatever services that they may.

As to the town itself, Newmarket is mainly a one street affair. It has a short main street on which is located the majority of its business houses. These business houses are confined to one side of the street, depending on which direction you enter the town. On the opposite side of the street from these business houses, is located the Town Hall, bandstand, Post office, and a few places of business such as a lunch room, barber shop, and beauty saloon.

ON MEDITATION BENT

How can we in this world of stress In our most high estate With much to blame and much to bless Find time to meditate? We find our virtues, dig them out From ashes of the past, We see our vileness face about To nothingness—at last.

With stern resolves we face our soul On meditation bent, To find one common human goal By meditation lent:— Within ourselves we have a host Of human traits to train, But we have, too, what God loves most, A fertile human brain.

Jellied Veal Loaf

Mmm! Good!

Says Dorothy Greig

THIS summer I expect to serve this jellied veal loaf for many a hot day luncheon or supper. It is so very easy to make . . . and truly delicious. I'll just fix it up in the morning after breakfast, slip it into my refrigerator and it'll be all ready without further ado.

With it will be a hot soup—maybe vegetable or tomato—to put tummies in good humor for the cold jellied dish, and a salad of crisp vegetables. Dessert will be fresh fruit or maybe fruit shortcake.

Jellied Veal Loaf

- 1 can condensed chicken soup
- 3 cups cooked veal, ground
- 2 teaspoons gelatin (softened in 2 tablespoons water)
- ¾ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper

Strain the chicken soup and heat the broth. Mix the rice, chicken and celery from the soup with the cooked veal and put all through the food chopper, using the medium blade.

Dissolve the softened gelatin in the hot broth and then mix with ground meat mixture, salt and pepper.

For Garnish

- 1 hard cooked egg, sliced
- 5 stuffed olives

Arrange slices of hard cooked egg and stuffed olives in bottom of loaf pan (size 7 x 3½ x 3 inches). Put meat mixture on garnish and place in the refrigerator until firm. Turn out on lettuce or greens. Serves 6-8.

SPORT SLANTS

BY "VIC" ROBBINS

Kind of looked as though His Honor wanted the Granite State soaked to the very core before lifting the fishing ban, didn't it?... Some of the boys were pretty sore about it too, and from all reports, they made no bones about letting the officials know of what they were thinking.... It certainly was tough on the anglers in this part of the State but upon checking up a little we found that there were some other parts that received almost no rain fall at all, while we were getting soaked with a couple of nice showers.... Anyhow, it's all over now and we should let bygones be bygones and spend the rest of the season in quest of the speckled beauties instead of mulling over how many we could have caught last week if the forests hadn't of been so inflammable. There wasn't much time lost in tearing out to the favorite fishing haunts when the ban was lifted though, and I guess the boys (and gals) were pretty fortunate too, or at least some of them were for we scanned a few nice catches ourselves..... Makes a fellow want to get after them himself to see a basket or two full to the brim and secretive plans are already being laid for a trip in the very near future.... Well, along with the good

there is bound to be some bad news and we might as well get it off our chest.... It has always seemed to be kind of tough for the State to stock a nice lake or stream and have the fishermen (so called) rush right out there and catch the place dry almost before they are put in.... Every one knows how easy it is to catch fish right after they are released from the hatchery and it is a shame to take advantage of it.... It really is up to the State to pass some kind of strict regulations regarding such matters but even if they didn't, the ones that do it should know better.... We have seen two or three catches this past week that had been caught within a few hours of the time the trout were released and the ones that caught them bragged about the fact that the fish were biting on the bare hooks as soon as they struck the water.... You may call it fishing but I defy you to call it GOOD SPORTSMANSHIP.... If these fish were allowed to have the lake to themselves for a few months they would become more wary and the sport of taking them out would be one hundred times more exciting than is the present method.... The sportsmen's clubs are the ones to put a stop to this stuff and no time should be lost in acting on the matter either.... We also scanned a nice catch of salmon from Sebago Lake, in Maine, this past weekend.... Four of them in the catch and it actually made your month water to see them stretched out there on the green grass, where their proud owners had them on exhibition.... They weighed a total of fifteen pounds and the biggest one tipped the scales to not quite the five pound mark, and while this wasn't outstanding it was one of the best catches taken out of those waters this spring.

.... Young Dunn the red headed lad from Manchester hung a real K. O. on his opponent, the fast little Young Nadeau of Rumford in their four round get-together.... And in the evening's opener Young Tanguay of Somersworth and Pat Ryan of Manchester also were awarded a decision of draw.

Looks as though the Yankees were losing their grip on the baseball world doesn't it?... Their opponents are walking over them rough shod now that they have lost their fear for the heretofore unconquerable New Yorkers.... It's a good thing too, to see some of the others get a chance at the laurels that are handed out to the baseball greats although we do wish that some of them could be hung around the neck of our Boston Red Sox or Braves.

AS I SEE IT

By "ZEE" (Newmarket)

This is the week in which Joe Louis will again risk his heavy weight title. This time against Buddy Baer, brother of Max, the former champ himself. If you remember, last week I told you that Buddy would be in there throwing punches come the ninth round. Experts predict that he will last only about six rounds. This will not be so. Buddy may even win.

Last week, I told you that the local High nine would beat Exeter High by two runs. The result of the game was twelve to four in favor of Exeter. As you see, this writer was slightly wrong. That gives this writer a .500 average in predictions, which is not bad at all, at all!

Last Saturday, King Cole ran in the Preakness, a large stake race for three-year-olds. Entered in this race home run in the bargain.

The score of the Hampton game was 14-1 in favor of Newmarket. Once Newmarket got the lead, it didn't give it up. It was victory from the start. Audrey Phalen pitched again for our girls. The leading batter was Marion Hood for Newmarket. Although short in stature, she can hit that ball hard and far. She got a home run, along with a double and a single. She also played a good game at shortstop. The girls play Sanborn Seminary at Newmarket on Friday, May 16.

Boys Club Is Active In Baseball

The Newmarket Boys Club was very active in the past week in the game of baseball. On May 7th, they played the University of New Hampshire in a practice game. The score was 4-3 in favor of the college boys.

The Boys Club line-up was as follows: Zocchi, C.; Homiak, P.; Sharples, 1st; Grochmal, 2B; Kingsman, 3rd; Proctor, SS; Sopel, LF; St. Laurent, CF; and Kenney, RF.

U. N. H. won the game in the last inning on a passed ball by Zocchi. Kenney was pitching during this inning and is charged with the loss. Homiak pitched winning ball for seven innings.

On May 11th the Boy's Club took over the Dover Corporation team, 6-2. The Boys Club line-up was similar to the one in the U. N. H. game with Homiak pitching again. They will play Epping this coming Sunday at the local ball field. They would like to have a large gathering at this contest. Their team is peppy and they give a good game.

Newmarket Rams Win Three Straight

The Newmarket Rams won their third game in as many starts Sunday afternoon at the local ball field, 9 to 3 over Newfields. The Rams were led to victory by R. MacDonald and E. Hendzel who collected two hits each. Ed. Dostie won his first start of the year by holding Newfields to three hits.

Next week, the Newmarket High baseball team again plays Hampton Academy. The first game between these two teams ended with a surprise victory for Newmarket. This time, this writer believes that Newmarket won't be so fortunate. This writer predicts an easy win for Hampton by at least four runs, the margin of Newmarket's victory in the first week.

Casey Stengel has an odd habit. Every time the opponents score a few runs, when the Braves come to bat, he always sends out Buddy Hasset to the third base coaching box. Casey believes this is a good sign. It may be a good sign, Casey, but it can't win ball games for you. P. S. Buddy Hasset does a lot of coaching at third base for the Boston Braves.

JUNIOR HIGH NEWS

The local Junior High baseball team played its second game of the season last week against Raymond Junior High. This game was played at Raymond, the final score being nine to three in favor of the Raymond boys. Mr. McCormack let most of the boys play in this game to give them the needed experience for future years. They were scheduled to play Exeter Junior High last Saturday and because of bad weather, this game could not be played. Their next game was against Epping Jr. High.

This game ended two to one, in favor of Epping. Newmarket led one to nothing up to the fourth inning. At this time, L. Marshall, pitching for our juniors, forced in one run to tie up the score. Later, before the end of the inning, a walk forced in what proved to be the winning run. The Juniors next opponent will be Hampton Junior High. The boys ought to win this one and make their record two wins against two losses.

Girl's Softball Team Wins, Loses
