Trio Entiring Navy Honored By Polish Club

Three Newmarket boys who departed by train together Wednesday morning to enter the U. S. Navy were given a farewell party on the previous evening at the Polish Club. Despite a short notice on their time to go, a good sized crowd was on hand and an enjoyable program was arranged.

The guests of honor were John Dzedzic, a popular member of the club, and two non-members, John Gingras and John J. Pazdon. All reported in Boston, Wednesday, after enlisting at the Haverhill, Mass. naval recruiting station under the direction of chief commissary steward George I. Michaud, a retired naval officer who was recalled to service from Newmarket.

The party was made happier by the appearance of three servicemen, Private Edward Miesowicz of the Army Air Base at Columbia, S. C.; Private Ernest Pelletier, who is serving in the same outfit; and Private Joseph Grochmal, who is stationed at Kessler Field, Miss.

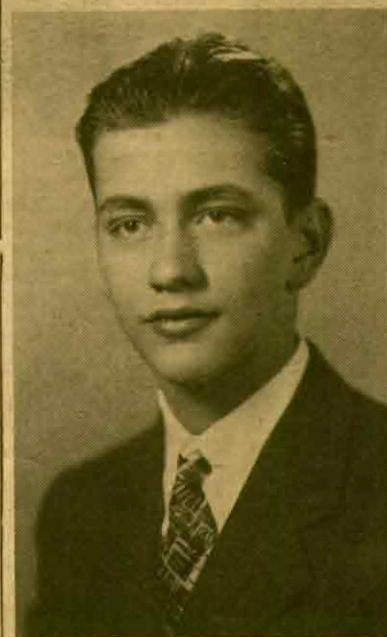

Approximately 60 persons attended the party, including relatives of the boys who were leaving for the Navy, and appropriate words were spoken by toastmaster, Selectman Stanley Szacik, in wishing the departing trio the best of luck.

A number of those present were called upon for brief talks by the toastmaster. Those who responded included: Chief Commissary Steward Michaud, who offered the advice of a naval veteran to the incoming "freshmen." Bert Langley, a retired chief petty officer, who hoped the Navy would be as good to the newcomers as it was to him. Others to speak were Gene Rousseau, who served many years as a Marine sergeant; Joe Shina; Joseph Dow, an official of the Rockingham Shoe Company, where all three boys were employed and who paid a glowing tribute to them not only as shoe factory employees, but as "good boys" of whom the Navy should be proud; Andrew Miesowicz, former Pres., of Polish Club and father of three boys in military service, who, speaking in Polish, said he was glad to have his sons fighting for America and wished he could be in the service himself; Adolph Pohopek; Andrew Kruczek, president of the club, who spoke briefly in Polish; and John Homiak, who commented on the fact that all the prospective sailors were "Johns" and said he hoped to join them in service soon.

Gifts were presented to the guests of honor by George Grochmal.

The program closed with all singing "God Bless America," and dancing followed. Music for the quadrilles was furnished by George Grochmal at the piano and John Homiak playing the violin.

HONOR STUDENTS ARE NAMED AT NEWMARKET HIGH SCHOOL

Charles Humphreys

Elizabeth Sanders

Headmaster Austin J. McCaffrey announced today the honor students for the graduating class of 1942. Elizabeth Sanders of Lee is Valedictorian and Charles Humphreys is Salutatorian.

Miss Sanders is president of the senior class, vice president of the student council, the winner of the local D.A.R. award, member of the camera club, member of the senior play cast, and an all around participant in school activities. She has taken the four year commercial course and plans to enter the University of New Hampshire next fall.

Charles Humphreys was a football and basketball player, worked on community surveys and construction maps in Sociology, wrote athletic news for the paper, member of senior play cast, and has had a fine four year record in the activities of the school. He has taken the four year academic course and plans to enter the Coast Guard Academy next fall.

The other students who were commended for outstanding scholarship were Virginia Harvey, Arlene Behan, Delina Blanchette, and George Bouras.

'News' Forced To Adopt Different Plan On Free Copies Mailed To Servicemen

The Newmarket News regrets to announce that it will be unable to add any more names to the list of Newmarket service men who are being mailed the paper free of charge every week.

We are still eager to have all the boys get their home town news through our columns, but the rapidity with which the armed forces are being shifted around in this country, as well as abroad, has presented a big problem, not only in keeping addresses correct, but in mailing.

Approximately 40 soldiers, sailors and marines, from the Canal Zone to Hawaii, are being mailed the Newmarket News every week. In a few cases, despite the fact that the papers are addressed properly, etc., relatives report that service men are not receiving them. Of course, there is absolutely nothing we can do beyond making sure that they leave the Newmarket post office, properly addressed.

Each transfer entails changes in the machine that stamps addresses on the papers, and, all in all, it will be quite a task just to keep up with the 40 service men already on our list.

This does not mean, however, that free copies of the paper are not available to additional service men from Newmarket. Relatives who want to assume the responsibility of keeping space with changing addresses and mailing the papers themselves may continue to get free copies.

Under this plan, a relative may go to any store in Newmarket where the Newmarket News is on sale and leave his or her address, as well as the name and address of the boy to whom the paper will be sent. Free papers will be left at these stores each week and the relatives may pick them up there and then take care of the mailing. Only persons on the list may receive the free copies.

Remember, the boys already on our mailing list will continue to be taken care of, to the best of our ability. Any changes in their addresses should be reported immediately. Also remember that the papers are being mailed faithfully, and if they fail to reach the service men, they should check up at their postal stations.

Truth-At Last

The Newmarket News has taken another stiff sock on the chin from a letter-writer who signs himself "Disgusted," although it is quite apparent that he is nothing more dangerous than being the same correspondent who hid his identity under the anonymous monicker of "Patriot" in a recent issue. There is a good reason why our friend never signs as "Consistent", because it is evident there is no such word in his dictionary.

It is a trifling matter that our friend writes: "I have read a great number of newspapers. Some are great truth-heralders, some are mere(ly) gossip-filled, but of all the papers I have ever read, the so-called Newmarket News seems to be the worse."

It is the more puzzling statements that follow, with which we're concerned. For instance, our devout follower says the columns of the News "are literally filled with mere gossip and hearsay, which is (of) no interest whatsoever to the people of the town." And right here, we beg to differ! Newmarket actually THRIVES on gossip, and hearsay is quite a feature of the average day, too. If the editor went always seeking nothing but the TRUTH, many of our residents would duck for a hide-out so fast that our recent blackout would have been slow motion in comparison. In a day when the real truth even fails to emanate from quarters far loftier in prominence than ours, we cannot be expected to perform miracles.

Our esteemed reader (apparently a news reader in spite of himself) admits he got a good laugh when he read about plans to hold the Syd Langley-Stewart Humphreys pistol match in Madison Square Garden. In almost the next breath, he complains that the News is not worth a nickle a copy. A good laugh, most certainly IS worth a nickle these days! Of course, we're not so sure, however, that our correspondent spent a nickle to buy the News. More likely, he borrowed a copy from a friend. In either case, he ought

NEWMARKET EVENT DRAWS BIG CROWDS

The big carnival held last Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights in No. 5 Mill in Newmarket, under auspices of the Newmarket Civilian Defense Council, netted more than $1,000.

This estimate was given by Emile Roy, general chairman of the event, before the figures had been checked accurately or the expenses had been cleared up. However, Mr. Roy felt certain this would be the approximate profit.

At the time, his books showed gross proceeds of $1,558.25, although he admitted further checking might revise this figure. All proceeds from the booths operated by the many Newmarket organizations which so patriotically cooperated in staging the carnival were turned over to the fund, which will benefit every Newmarket resident through the civilian defense program.

The carnival was a success in spite of several obstacles. The weather wasn't ideal the opening night; a hillbilly show was a competing attraction in the Town Hall the second night, with a snow-storm to also interfere, and on the closing night (Saturday) walking conditions were not such as to bring out some of the older people.

Chairman Roy estimated that the first night's attendance was 300, the second night's between 600 and 700, and the closing night's, 500. The carnival was scheduled for only two nights, but it was decided to extend it to Saturday night, with no admission charge.

The many booths operated by civic and fraternal organizations did a brisk business on all three nights, and entertainment and dancing were also enjoyed by the crowds. On Thursday and Friday evenings, "Hectic Harry" of Bangor, Maine, formerly of Newmarket, performed as a magician. Various musical programs for general dancing and singing were given each night.

Much credit for the carnival's success should be given to chairman Roy, who worked untiringly to see that everything was ready to give patrons a good time. Practically the entire responsibility for the event rested upon his shoulders, and the writer can vouch for very complimentary remarks heard from prominent people in town regarding his fine efforts.

One of the busiest attractions at the carnival was the game sponsored by the Polish Club, Adolph Pohopek was the chairman and as assistants he had John Kustra and John Homiak.

There was also much activity at the beano tables sponsored by Lamprey Aerie, No. 1934, Fraternal Order of Eagles. Hubert Raddall was in charge of this feature, and John Burke did well with his tedious job of calling out the numbers for three evenings. Others who served at the game were Omer

CHAPTER 2 Forward March

There had been rumors of coming war,—a struggle between the slave states of the south, and the Free North. Fugitive negroes were travelling through to Canada. Early in 1861, the call to arms was sounded. Hugh Clayton decided to join a regiment in his native state, Massachusetts, and late in July he was expected to leave for the South.

There had been very few social gatherings in and about Albany that year. The gayest of the gay always held their revels, but the people of the small towns near the city cared nothing for them. An occasional dance, a circus, a spelling match, or a concert, had enough attraction for country folks, and there were always church activities, such as harvest suppers, sewing circle affairs, and for the devout ones the weekly prayer meetings gave enough stimulus for their daily need, so that social life did not become stagnant for want of diversion.

A barn dance was scheduled for the evening of May 17. Young and old went to these dances, where everybody knew everybody else; and on this occasion Hugh Clayton went.

So did the young school mistress, May Lord. They met, and that it was a case of love at first sight no one doubted. What was to be done? He loved her and he wanted to marry her. She knew that he had enlisted. She could wait.

Hugh couldn't, and wouldn't wait. They could be married, and she would then be sure of a roof over her head, and something to live on while he was gone. His stable of horses could be sold, if need be, during his absence, and the war would very likely be over before long.

Hugh Clayton was a handsome man, and he was as brave as he was handsome. May could not say "no" to his pleading to become his wife, the sooner the better, as he told her. She yielded to his ardent plea, and they were married, just six weeks before the time he was to start for Massachusetts. He would ride Lady, his favorite; leave her in Charlestown to be cared for during his absence. The two rooms already finished and furnished in one part of his big barn, would have to do for the present. He would find better quarters for himself and wife when he came back from the war.

They were ideally happy—for six short weeks. He was thirty-three, she twenty-three when they were married, and the terrible war years had to be lived through.

In the course of time, a daughter was born to them. The mother named her Della.

Day after day, week after week, and month after weary month dragged by without word from her husband. A short note sent upon his arrival in Boston was all. After that she had had no letter. She sold the horses, and those who bought them each paid the highest price going. And the time came when she had to earn a living for herself and child. Then she resumed her maiden name, calling herself Mrs. May Lord.

One by one the soldiers came home from the war covered with glory and filth and misery, some minus an arm, a leg, a hand. Some came home with intestinal trouble, injuries they would have to carry through life; others came whole as to body, but sick of soul, and with memories of scenes so revolting as to haunt them ever after. But—they had come home.

The large Town Hall was packed. Only a few extra seats were kept in reserve. Only a quarter hour before the programme was to begin. From far and near people had come to welcome their heroes back. On the platform were ten chairs; eight were occupied, two were not. Soldiers in uniforms were seated there, one with an arm in a sling, one with a crutch at his side, and one with an empty sleeve. All glad to be back home.

A long table had been set in front of the platform. Snowy tablecloths covered the rough boards, and on one end of the table were piles of plates, cups and saucers, knives and forks, and small plates for pies. Sugar bowls and pickle dishes were set here and there along the whole length of gleaming whiteness, and all was in readiness for the feast.

The minister rose to speak. He asked God's blessing on what was about to take place among them. He thanked God for the outcome of the war. Briefly and reverently he dwelt upon the devastation of the South soon to be rebuilt; and he asked for a special blessing on all returned soldiers.

The address of welcome was brief. It was a time for feasting, and all speakers must express themselves briefly and to the point. Then all joined in the Lord's Prayer.

Down near the entrance stood a tall stranger, a returned soldier covered by a long cloak. Behind where he stood an old negro and a young black boy stood side by side, half-hidden by the man in the cloak. A seat was found for him, and he slowly and carefully seated himself. Seats were found for the two negroes, and then the speeches were to begin. Five minutes was to be allowed for each speaker. No more.

A hearty "Welcome Home" by the minister was the beginning. Others followed. The soldiers on the platform were asked to speak. One of them rose and told how glad he was to be back home. Someone in the audience asked that he tell of some one experience in the war; the man sat down, and no one else responded. Then the armless man stood up and said simply, "We saw hell down there." He sat down.

Then the tall man down by the door rose. "You men, up on the platform! Why don't you tell them all the hell we have seen in these last three or four years of war? I say, let them have it, since they want it. Tell them what we went through with and our very souls hated. If you will not, I will."

The minister was the first one to rally from the shock the speech had produced.

"Sir", he said, "I take it that your presence here is timely. Please come forward. Your comrades will be glad to welcome you, Mr. Simms". The tall stranger filled in, "Gideon Simms. But I have with me two of my dearest friends, Pap Jones and Zeke, and I would wish to be with them. I can have my say from her." Then he sat down.

NEWMARKET SERVICEMEN'S RECORDS SOUGHT BY LEGION

Members of the American Legion know from experience that complete and accurate records of service in the armed forces can be of great value to the service man in days to come. Therefore the American Legion post is anxious to help the present servicemen by acquiring a complete history of each man in the service—army, navy marine corps, or coast guard.

Every accident, wounding, hospitalization, promotion citation, or other order affecting the individual should be recorded insofar as possible. With this idea of helping the servicemen to maintain a record of their service, we of the American Legion are planning to keep as complete a record as possible of every service man from the towns of Newmarket, Newfields, Lee and Durham.

If you have a member of the family in the armed forces (or it may be that the service man himself will read this) will you kindly fill in the form below and send to the historian, Robert G. Durgin Post, American Legion, Newmarket, N. H. He will thank you for the information and you servicemen will thank him later for keeping your history in readily accessible form.

KINGSMAN TO BEGIN FLYING CADET COURSE

Private Chester Kingsman, who resigned several weeks ago as teacher and coach at Newmarket high school, has received his final appointment for training as a flying cadet, according to a letter he sent to a Newmarket friend from Camp Croft, S.C.

Chet expressed considerable joy over the advancement, in his letter, which reads as follows:

"Am in a very happy mood today as a result of receiving my final appointment for flying cadet training. Having completed this basic, several of us were given orders to be shipped in the near future—when and where not known as yet. Thus you cannot blame me for feeling exuberant.

"Experienced another Carolina oddity this afternoon. The sun was shining brightly hot and all was calm. Without warning, a sudden tempest, a typhoon, struck. The fierce wind filled with red clay particles to the extent that nothing was visible beyond your arms-length and it was almost unbearable, as you could not get a breath of air into the lungs. Then, as suddenly as it came, it disappeared and followed up with a downpour as terrific.

"The Camel Caravan Variety Show is playing (free) here in camp tonight, so will sign off and attend it.

"I trust that all is well in Newmarket. Hope to receive a few words from you.

Yours truly,
 "Chet"

In Which Garden Will The Pistol Challengers Meet?

It was indicated this week that a tug-of-war may develop between Madison Square Garden in New York and the Boston Garden for the privilege of staging the pistol championship match between Syd Langley and Stewart Humphreys.

Upon return from his vacation during the past week, State Trooper Clifton Hildreth, president of the Newmarket Pistol and Revolver Club, was carrying a mysterious letter in his pockets. It was whispered that it might contain an offer from Paul Bowser, Hub wrestling czar, to put on the pistol feud.

Wherever the tussle is staged, the advance sale of tickets indicates that new bleachers will have to be installed to accommodate thousands of additional customers.

Last week, Langley made it plain that if the match should be staged in Madison Square Garden, he would be unwilling to have the attraction wedged in between boxing bouts. Undoubtedly, he would be just as opposed to playing second fiddle to grunt-and-groan bouts if the Boston Garden lands the pistol tilt.

Humphreys, who has been filling a number of singing engagements in the Portsmouth area lately, has been asked by a number of supporters if he would consent to tossing in a few vocal numbers before the match. He promised to render three bass solos if Langley would give a half-hour exhibition of toe dancing.

Cat Mystery Nearly Solved

Newmarket's phantom katnapper, who has been causing the disappearance of a number of the feline population of the town, narrowly eluded capture this week.

Pete Cifo reported seeing a suspicious-looking stranger with what appeared to be a cat under his coat. Pete could hear the smothered meows of the cat, and was ready to pounce upon the katnapper, when the phantom hopped into a high-powered car and sped away.

Pete said the man looked like a prominent Newmarket business man who resides in Durham.

Humphreys Given Birthday Party

A surprise party was held for Stewart S. Humphreys, Sunday night, when a group of friends descended upon his apartment in Newmarket to wish him another 90 years of prosperity.

A roast chicken supper was served, and there was a large birthday cake from Mr. Humphreys' niece, Elaine Roberts of Durham. Her birthday also comes on the same date, but a party in her honor has been delayed until next Sunday, at Mr. Humphreys' home.

At his party, Mr. Humphreys received a bouquet of red roses, a defense bond and a number of other gifts.

Among those present were Miss Florence Stevens, Miss Mary March, Miss Nollie Tholander, Andy March, Charles Humphreys, and Camil Mongeon.

SCHANDA GETS NEW RATING IN MARINES

Frank M. Schanda of Newmarket has been advanced to the rating of private first class in the U.S. Marine Corps at New River, N.C., according to word received here by friends.

In a brief letter he wrote: "Well, how did the Rockingham air raid blackout turn out?"

"I guess Ralph (Silver) and Herbert (Reardon) are going on maneuvers next week. I just got back from two weeks of maneuvers.

"I hear that several boys in the senior class are planning to join up with the services. Well, more power to them if they do.

"How is the senior play coming along? I don't suppose it will be as good as one we put on. How is the baseball team coming along at the high school?"

"Well, I've earned a rating for myself in the Corps. I am now a private first-class. I received my warrant yesterday. I am now eligible to wear a stripe on my uniform. Maybe you think I'm not proud of the stripe.

"Well, I'll sign off now. As ever,
 "Frank"

From where I sit . . .

by Joe Marsh

RUMMAGING through my desk the other day, I came across some snapshots of friends of mine made back in 1933.

If you don't think time flies . . . if you don't think this world ever changes . . . you ought to look at the women's hats and dresses in those pictures taken 9 years ago! Wow!

It gave me quite a start . . . and then it set me to thinking . . . and rememberin'! Lots of things sure happened in 1933. A new administration in Washington . . . the turning point of the depression . . . and the coming of Repeal.

I remember the re-legalization of beer. It came before Repeal, when Congress amended the old Volstead Act to allow legal sale of "3.2" beer.

What talk and arguments they had in those days! One argument I remember well . . . was that beer would do a lot to help bring back prosperity. I wondered at the time whether that argument could be proved.

I thought about that again, the other day. I decided to check up and find out.

Well, I found out plenty. I found out that legal beer has paid more than 3 billion dollars in taxes since 1933. It has made more than a million new jobs.

According to one of the reports I've seen, beer has put more than 15 billion dollars into general business circulation. Goodness me, that's a lot of money.

Beer is sold today in every state in the Union. Every state benefits from beer's jobs and taxes. And I guess there's no denying that beer did do its share in bringing back better times.

I'm glad it did, too, because beer is such a pleasant, appetizing beverage. And it stands for moderation and moderate people . . . it's not likely to get you in trouble.

Now that we are in the war, more and more our national anthem is becoming increasingly significant.

The Star Spangled Banner O say, can you see, by the dawn's early light,

On that shore dimly seen through the mists of the deep, Where the foe's haughty host in dread silence reposes,

And where is that band that so vauntingly swore That the havoc of war and the battle's confusion,

O! thus be it ever, when freemen shall stand Between their loved homes and the war's desolation!

Home Rubber Goods Care Will Conserve

Heat, light, moisture and grease are among the many enemies of rubber that make rubber household implements, and clothing as well as tires wear out before their time,

Dry cleaning fluids, chlorine from bleaching compounds, iodine and other strong chemicals, including ammonia and strong washing powders damage rubber articles easily.

Water and mild soap make the best cleaners for all rubber goods. Never use dry cleaning fluids.

EXPERT SAYS WATER FOILS JAPS' BOMBS

"There is a fire in America every 46 seconds," declared Prof. Arthur R. Davis of the Mass. Institute of Technology in a talk in Phillips Exeter Academy chapel in Exeter last Sunday night when he spoke on the topic, "Fire and the Control of Fire."

The speaker enlivened what could have otherwise been a purely technical lecture by demonstrating the sudden appearance of flames. At one point, he permitted finely divided lead to ignite in his hands to demonstrate the cause and effect of spontaneous combustion.

Japanese bombs, the professor said, can be extinguished by water because they do not contain magnesium. German bombs, however, he explained "will jump right out of a pall of water because magnesium increases the rate of burning.

Veteran of '17 Enlists Again

Twenty-five years after serving in the First World War, Ceylon Fox, well known Exeter resident, left for Fort Devens last Friday for service in the present conflict.

Before his departure, Mr. Fox, who is Exeter's first veteran of the previous war to enlist, was presented gifts by American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars members.

During his 11 years' residence in Exeter, "Jimmy", as he is familiarly known, engaged in artistic sign painting, newspaper correspondent work and amateur photography.

DURGIN NAMED TO PLANNING BOARD POST

John W. Durgin, a native of Exeter, where he attended Phillips Exeter Academy, has been appointed by Mayor Stewart Rowe as a member of the Portsmouth Planning Board to succeed the late Phillips B. Badger.

Mr. Durgin is an engineer in the port city and has worked on a number of large projects. It is felt that this experience will make him a valuable man on the planning board.

He went to Portsmouth in 1914, four years following his graduation from Harvard College.

Mr. Durgin has been active in the National Guard and was the commanding officer of Battery D, 197th Coast Artillery in 1926. Since 1926 he has held the rank of Captain in the National Guard reserve.

He married Miss Elinor Osborne Collins of Exeter in 1911 and has four children.

Household Hint

To remove ice cream easily from a refrigerator tray, place a hot cloth about the tray. As soon as the cream starts to melt around the edges, immediately unmold onto a chilled platter.

To prevent wrinkles and creases in rubber over shoes that are stored through the summer, stuff them with newspapers.

Home canners of vegetables and fruits are to get in tin cans for this purpose up to their needs, according to the War Production board.

Garden seeds planted in early April while the soil is extremely cold often will not produce a crop so early as seed sown later when the ground has warmed.

DURHAM JUNIOR DRAMATIC CLUB

The Durham Junior Dramatic Club has just completed the fourth year of organization and has presented its fourth public performance in Durham. The club is composed of thirty-two children, many of whom joined the organization at its beginning. Directing he plays are Helen C. Funkhouser, Katherine R. Mone and Ruth B. Manton. The directors serve without remuneration.

The club had a very unique beginning in that it was first organized because of a bit of Mother Goose poetry written by Marian Gorman in the eighth grade in Durham. Miss Gorman is now a senior in Dover High school. That play was the product of a child's own mind and was the instigating factor of the foundation of the Durham Junior Dramatic Club. From that play in 1939 the aim has been to encourage the children in writing their original plays and musical scores.

The first play, "Peter Takes a Wife" written by Miriam Gorman with the help of Ruth B. Manton was finally presented on March 17, 1939. The proceeds were used to purchase stage curtains for the auditorium of the Durham Center School. In December 1939 "The Wizard of Oz", in 1940 "And I'm Not Lyin'", and the play for this year was "Rumpelstiltskin". The proceeds of the plays have been subscribed this year to the Red Cross and other years to the school and piano fund. Each year there is a contest for the children to enter original plays with costume designing, scenery and stage managing; these are judged by a special committee outside of the directors. The five dollar award this year was won by Elsa Mae Funkhouser. There are three award pins of merit which may be won by the children in the club. To the children who maintain a 75 percent attendance at rehearsals a three year pin is awarded. A five year pin is presented to the children who show ability in dramatic performance and must have carried at least one important role during the five years of membership. The children who have no especial dramatic talents, through loyalty, cooperation and attendance may also receive a pin.

This year the attendance record for the entire club stood at 93 percent in spite of measles, mumps and chicken pox that were prevalent during rehearsal time. The estimate of the directors is, that if a child during five school years has the training received by coaching for the annual plays, it would represent one hour of dramatic training per day for twelve months. In dictation alone the training is well worth the efforts of the directors. That each year the play wins praise from a critical and beauty loving audience is justification for the directors and children to be aware of accomplishment.

A balanced garden helps to make a balanced diet and a balanced family pocketbook.

Storage for all rubber should be clean, dark, cool and dry. Attics, closets near a south wall, or near steam or radiator pipes are unsatisfactory. If the room is not dark, cover with thick paper or place in a covered box. If the rubber must be folded, dust the folds with talcum or cornstarch. Rubber boots and overshoes should be stuffed with paper.

GREAT SKY BIRDS

By Hazel Howard

Sitting here I hear a great noise, And I heave a deep sigh; For I know it is an airplane Making a blot on the clear sky.

Great and swift birds up there above, I used to like to see you fly, And rushed out of the door to watch Each time I heard you going by.

I no longer like to see you; For although I'm way over here You make me think of the havoc Your brothers are spending o'er there.

How you mocked at Christmas the song, Of 'peace on earth good will to men', The frightening noise of your engines, Drowned out from each prayer the amen.

Easter—a time for life, God grant That soon only in peace you'll fly; Spread your wings in missions of love And joy when you soar to the sky.

Wendell Hawkins To Give Recital

The fourth annual recital of Wendell Hawkins, director of music at the First Baptist Church in Exeter, will be given in the large vestry of that church on Monday, April 27, at 8 p. m. Herbert Wilkins, organist of the First Congregational Church of Lynn, Mass., will be the accompanist.

Mr. Hawkins is a graduate of the Keene Teachers' College, 1937, and a graduate student at Boston University. He studied under the late Stephen Townsend.

Among the numbers that Mr. Hawkins is to sing are: "Thanks Be To Thee," Handell; "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms," "Surf Dragon," Rogg; "Goin' to Shout," arr. by Fisher; "Pilgrim Song," Twalschowsky; "O Thou Sublime Sweet Evening Star," from Tannhauser.

Former Exeter Beauty, 85, Dies

Word has been received in Exeter of the death of Miss Lillian F. Piper, 85, in Boston.

As a girl of 20, she came to Exeter from Fall River, Mass., and lived for a number of years at Elliot and Grove streets. Her mother operated a boarding house for Phillips Exeter Academy students, and Miss Piper was renowned for her beauty.

George Piper, a brother, was at one time treasurer of the Kent Cotton Co. in Exeter, but later moved to Boston, and there was also a twin brother, William Piper.

Miss Piper was the first manager of the College Club of Boston, which was established 52 years ago. As manager, she helped the club entertain such notables as Sara Bernhardt, Julia Ward Howe, Lucy Stone, Mark Twain and Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes.

New Inductees Leave Exeter

A new group of inductees left the headquarters of Exeter Draft Board 20 on Tuesday morning. The following Exeter boys were included:

Henry Shepard, Francis Elliott, Durward W. Towle, Harold E. Booth, Oscar E. Creger, Eldon J. Denencour, Kenneth L. Deene, and Clifford N. Underhill. Another delegation will leave later.

Hot coffee and doughnuts were served by the Almon R. Pingree Post, A.L., assisted by the canteen of the American Red Cross. The boys were addressed by Dr. S. Percy R. Chadwick of the Draft Board.

To the Editor:

I saw your article last week about cats disappearing in Newmarket. Well, they disappear around here in Exeter, too. I have lost four of my pet cats in four years.

Something ought to be done to people killing pet cats. They have just as much right to live as other dumb animals. I know someone who throws hot water on cats if they just go on her doorstep, which is being very cruel to dumb animals. The cat doesn't know it isn't wanted on HER steps.

It ought to be "Kind to Dumb Animals Week" every week for some people, but I don't know whether it would do any good, even at that.

I feel sorry for the people in Newmarket who have lost their pets, because I've missed mine very much.

—SUBSCRIBER

Editor's note: We have a sincere appreciation of the writer's fondness for pets, and agree that no dumb animals should receive cruel treatment, but, on the other hand, it is seldom possible to get a neighbor to show the same enthusiasm over someone else's pets, especially if annoyed.

People who really adore their pets should want to keep them on their own premises. Roving animals are always in danger of being killed accidentally, as well as intentionally.

It seems to us that action would speak louder than words in this

HALL JAMMED WHEN SENIORS STAGE COMEDY

Every seat was taken, and a number of persons were forced to stand, when the senior class of Newmarket high class staged the three-act comedy, "Spring Fever" in the Town Hall, Wednesday night.

The comedy, which had a setting in a college town boarding house on the day before commencement, drew many hearty laughs and the characters were portrayed with great skill by the entire cast.

The success of the production was largely due to the painstaking efforts of the coach, Miss Luella Hirschner of the high school faculty, who was presented candy and a bouquet from the cast and assisting committees. The flowers were presented by Robert Laughlin of the senior class.

The cast was as follows: Howard Brant, William Leuders; Ed Burns, Clifford Grisworld; Vic Lewis, Charles Humphries; Lou Herron, Erlene Lavoie; Mrs. Spangler, Elizabeth Sanders; Anne Purcell, Eleanor Marelli; Vivian George, Arlene Behan; Henry Purcell, Virginia Walker; Maude Corey, Virginia Pearce; Prof. Bean, George Bourgas; Dr. Dixon, Edwin Kimball; Henry Purcell, Wallis Doe.

Truth At Last

to feel satisfied as far as last week's edition was concerned.

We were truly ashamed of ourselves when accused of running a newspaper "crammed full of advertisements." Of all the accusations we might face, this is probably the lowest crime to which we could stoop. And, to add to our humility, our critic says the ads are "not worth the trouble to look at." That is one person's opinion, of course, and as long as the sponsors clamor for them in ever increasing numbers—and get results—we won't grow gray over that issue.

In accusing us of copying "some news (although it may be the minority) from other newspapers," what our friend seems to think is this: If somebody committed a murder in Newmarket on a Monday morning and it was reported by other papers, we should not publish any report about the same incident in our ensuing Friday's issue. Instead, probably, we should go out and commit our own exclusive murder.

Well, maybe we would be justified—in certain cases.

Michaud Appeals For Navy Men

An appeal was made this week by Chief Commissary Steward George I. Michaud, a Newmarket man, who is in charge of the Navy recruiting sub-station in the Federal building in Haverhill, Mass., for seamen and machinists for M-2, the inshore patrol of the Naval Reserve.

Chief Michaud explained that the inshore patrol is made up of smaller naval craft for duty in salvage units and harbor, coastal and patrol vessels. Men between the ages of 17 and 50 years, physically fit, are eligible.

The Haverhill station is open from 8 a. m. to 8 p. m. week days and 8 a. m. to 1 p. m. on Sundays.

New York State led the nation, followed by California, second; Mississippi, third; and Oregon, fourth.

NEWMARKET MAN AIDS IN BUILDING NAVY

A man who helped to develop the Newmarket shoe manufacturing industry, when this industry replaced a giant textile enterprise which left Newmarket flat, is now helping Uncle Sam to man the ships for an all-out battle against the aggressors.

Chief Commissary Steward George I. Michaud had put a lot of experiences behind him and settled down to the tranquil life of being proprietor of the Rockingham Cabins at Rockingham Junction until it became apparent a couple of years ago that Uncle Sam would have to enter the new world conflict.

In 1940, after he had worked untiringly in the interests of establishing the first shoe factory in Newmarket, he was recalled to the Navy and immediately assigned to the U. S. S. Quincy, a heavy cruiser, which he called a "roving ship". Later, he served on the Chateau Thierry and made several trips to Europe and points north which he would not be permitted to identify.

Being an experienced recruiter in previous service, he was assigned to that branch of shore duty after the Japanese attack upon Pearl Harbor.

The Haverhill naval recruiting station, of which he has charge, has set a record in enlistments.

It is a tribute to Chief Michaud that three Newmarket boys who decided to join the Navy went to his station to sign up. They had faith in Chief Michaud, who gave them good advice to chart their way into Uncle Sam's sea-fighting forces.

Chief Michaud was eligible for pension last January, but will continue in the service for the duration of the war.
